NEW BERN, N. C., August 31, 1904

GREATER RESIDENTIAL TER-RITORY NEEDED.

A local contractor, in noting the building that is taking place in New Bern, and the demand which exists for dwellings for rental purposes, said he felt almost in despair over conditions as there was hardly a decent sized lot which could be found upon which to erect residences, while the houses now building, or proposed, were being con structed in close quarters upon lots which were already partly occupied, all good sized lots being now divided up, which gave but a few feet between resi

A walk about this city will give the observer a very clear idea how almost every available building foot of land is now being covered with dwellings, until there is hardly passageways between houses, instead of former spaces, filed with lawns, trees, flowers or drive

All this closing up of lots and build ing on them shows profit for the own ers, but it is making it impossible for new people coming in to own their own homes, as the scarcity of lots, and the rental of houses, makes prices too high for the person of modern means.

The same contractor who spoke of the ever narrowing up of the residence portion of this city, said the Journal's suggestion of subdivisions to New Bern was the only solution of the matter, and that such subdivisions, with an electric system of ear lines, would not merely prove of great value to those who engaged in the project, but it would gives homes to many people who do not now own them, besides such sub not be ignored in the market price of divisions would bring in a great number of new white residents, who would be attracted here.

It would have been better if this sub division matter had received considers tion and action before this. The fact side, but a great subdivision, several of them, are needed, which shall afford large building lots to those desiring them, and to make the distance no obstacle to reaching such outside property a well equipped electric system of ear lines must place them within easy and cheap, connection with the city.

Such sub-divisions, with an electric line communication, will solve the ques tion of residences and homes for New Bernians, besides being the real means of bringing about, the Greater New Bern.

Burrus & Co's Cotton Letter.

New Bern, N. C., Aug 80,

Responding to lower cables from abroad, our market opened easy at from 11 to 13 points decline. There was some buying for long account, and covering by shorts in the late crop positions on the theory of too much rain in the east ern States, but on the bulge, profit taking and the renewal of aggressive bear selling carried prices back to below the opening figures. The market, however advanced sharply on the appearance of the government report which was quite bullish. Trading was very active and the dealing wholly professional. The conditions in the cotton market are practically unchanged, and fluctuation continue to be dominated by the weather Fair and clear weather tending to depress the price of cotton futures and foeter a large short interest, while any unseasonable weather tends to create s crop scare and a stampede among the shorts. The short interest in the market is now very large therefore the technical condition of the market is stronger now than it has been for some time. A wire from Texas today states that one third has been damaged by the ravages of the boll weevil and if this continues it canfutures much longer. We still look for higher prices.

Crop Short, But of Good Quality. Rainfall.

Warm and sultry weather prevalled during the first two days of the week with temperatures ranging far above the normal. This was followed by societ and more or less unsettled weather. On the 23rd and 24th, rains fell in the western and southwestern parts of the State, also at scattered places farther east, but the week remained practically dry in the eastern section till the afthernoon of the 26th, when general rains set in, which continued with slight intermissions till Sunday morning. Excessive rains fell at a number of places in the central and eastern counties, and the of spirit. The cotton bolls are beginning to open in the eastern half of the State; but the crop, as a whole, made no improvement during the week, although the weather during the first half was favorable; on the contrary, the crop seems to be declining, and the complaints of damage by rust, shedding, and turning yellow are just as numerous from all parts of the State as duving the week before. Corn continues good, aspecially on upland; in low places and on light soil it is damaged in few localities. It is maturing well and an exceptionally fine crop is assured. Fodder pulling is nearly over in the eastern and central counties; the first half of the week was favorable for this work, but there was not enough sunshine during the latter half, and large quantities of fodder became damaged by the rains. Curing tobacco is nearly over in the eastern districk but is still in full progress in Stokes, Surry, Rockingham and a number of other northcentral counties. The reports in regard to the yield are simtlar to those received heretofore, insomuch that the leaves are curing satisfactorily, although the crop is below the average. Peanuts are fair, and with but few exceptions the vines are growing well. Pea vine hav is excellent. all minor crops are doing fairly well, fruit will be far below an average crop. Rains (in inches) for the week ending 8 a.m. today: Raleigh, 2.01; Hatters 3.40; Charlotte, 2.40; Asheville, 0.80; Wilmington, 1.20; Goldsboro, 2.10; Greensboro, 0.46., Lumberton, 1.68; New Bern, 2.46., Weldon, 1.36.

THE LOWER ANIMALS.

Animals have test preceptions-seener in many respects than our own no powers of comparing one thing with another. They live entirely in and the general rule in both churches. The weekly crop bulletin, for week through their senses. To all that in-ending Monday, August 29, 1904, is as ner world of reflection, imagination, comparison, reason, they are strangers. They never return upon themselves i thought. They have sense memory, sense intelligence, and they profit in many ways by experience, but they have not soul memory or rational intelligence. All the fundamental emotions and appetites men and the lower animals share in common, such as fear, anger, love, hunger, jealousy, cunning, pride, curiosity, play, but the world of thought and thought experience and the emotions that go with it belong to man alone. It is as if the psychic world were divided into two planes, one above the other-the plane of sense and the plane man is immersed also; this is his start and foundation, but he rises into the plane of spirit, and here lives his prop- politics.-Harper's Bazar.

A PLAGUE RELIC.

The London Gasette Was One Result

A curious relic of the great plague survives still in the London Gazette During the epidemic the autuma sesdon of parliament was held at Oxford from Oct. 9 to 31, 1665, and Charles II. and his court went there to attend the session and to escape infection.

As it was essential that London should be kept informed of the proceedings, the king started an officia journal, entitled the Oxford Gazette the first number of which appeared on Wednesday, Nov. 15, 1665. It contained an account of what had been done in the way of appointments and gave some items of court news. About two months later the publication was London Gazette.

The first Oxford issue does not appear to have reached London until Nov. 22, at least Pepys records under that date, very characteristically: "This day the first of the Oxford Gasettes come out; very pretty, full of news, and no folly in it. Wrote by Williamson. It pleased me to have it demonstrated that a purser without professed cheating is a professed loser. twice as much as he gets."

"The talk about adulterated candles," said a manufacturer, "is nonsense. There is a national organization of confectionery manufacturers which makes business of investigating all reports of poisoning from eating candy and has succeeded in exploding most of such rumors. When a child is hungry it will fill up on almost anything it can get hold of-green apples, for instance, or even gravel or grass. It gets sick, and the mother, knowing it had eaten candy that day, spreads the report that the sweets were poleoned. The organization looks into every such case it hears about and finds out the truth. Compe tition is too strong for any concern to try to sell adulterated goods. The firm's competitors would immediately analyze the piece which is sold suspiciously cheap, and if it contained in jurious ingredients would not be slow in proclaiming the fact. Good business principles demand honesty in the man ufacture of candies."-Milwaukee Wis
