J. R. Young Talks on Insurance.

H. L. Grant Says The West Is Strong For Roosevelt.

Gov Aycock Returns From An Educational Tour.

Raleigh, Sept 24.—Insurance commissioner, J. R. Young, of North Carolina in the course of his recent address before the National Convention of Insurance Commissioners of the United States, in illustrating the benefits of a careful system of inspection of a representative of Bres declared that the records show that Salem, N. C. founded 140 years ago and having 5,000 inhabitants, has never had a disastrous fire, the largest loss being $1,000. For the first 100 years of its history only one dwelling was burned and only one old fire got beyond the building in which it originated. Salem's good fortune is credited by the Commissioner to rigid inspection and good building laws.

Governor Aycock was again in the executive offices this morning after a two weeks tour of the State of Maine delivering educational speeches on invitation of the governor and superintendent of public instruction of that State. He expresses himself as delighted with his trip and the reception and entertainment accorded him there. On his way home the Governor stopped in New York where at the urgent request of the National chairman Taggart of the Democratic Executive committee he consented to take a hand in the National campaign for two weeks beginning Oct 24th. He will make speeches in West Virginia, Indiana, New Jersey and Connecticut, New York and Maryland.

Major H. L. Grant, prominent in State republican politics has returned from a tour of the great west in connection with a trip to the St. Louis and says that in a trip embracing States from California to Wyoming he found everything one way, all classes of people talking for Roosevelt and his strenuous policy.

In the criminal proceeding against McBee and Finch where in much surmising as to the final disposition that will be made of it. Before leaving here yesterday, McBee was heard to declare to his counsel that whatever compromise might be reached as the Cuyler receiver stip case there was to be no compromise in the criminal charges made against him and Finch. That the State must come to the court by acknowledgment that they have no grounds on which to maintain the charge, admit this by failing to appear and prosecute or they must go to trial and fight to a finish. That nothing short of complete vindication will satisfy him.

The Counsel Fees Matter

Special to Journal.

Raleigh, Sept 24.—After an elaborate argument before Judge Purnell today, continuing from one until five o'clock p. m. to determine the right of the court to make allowance for counsel fees, an order was issued in the case of Cuyler and Finch vs the A & N C railway, affecting the appeal which had been withdrawn from the court.

The complainants state that the purpose of their bill affecting the lease of the road having been accomplished they do not desire to amend the bill and have ordered it dismissed. The receivers will be paid their actual expenses, $150 to T. D. Meares and $100 to V. E. McBee which will be taxed as costs.

The petition of complainant's counsel for allowance only is made and an order for the same will be entered hereafter. Otherwise the decree issued by Judge Purnell is final.

The arguments were made by Col T. M. Argo and F. I. Osborn for the plaintiffs and by James P. O. C. M. Busbee and Ex Governor Jarvis for the defendants.

The counsel for Cuyler and Finch plaintiffs in the case, filed a petition in connection with their argument to strengthen their contention for allowance; reasonable and equitable for them selves for services as counsel for the plaintiffs and the same to be paid out of the funds of the property of the A & N C railway, which they assert is due them on account of the appointment of the plaintiffs as receivers to all intents and purposes in the hands of the court.

The railway company, on the other hand, state that Cuyler and Finch lost every issue in their litigation and have no standing in the court in the re demand for allowance.

"Let Well Enough Alone."

Several Assyrians no doubt wish this morning that they had been acquainted with the above familiar English maxim.

Two buxom colored women and a dusky swain was the cause of it all. At least they furnished an entertainment on lower Middle street that was not advertised for the Carnival, and incidentally spilled more or less of Oriental gore.

One Josephine, an ebony damsel, keeps a restaurant down on the market. Mary Ellison is engaged in the same line of business also. Josephine has a "best fellow." If Mary has one, it was not so stated. Josephine's "best fellow" saw fit last night to change his boarding place, and hid himself to the dining parlors of Mary, and there ordered four cents worth of provender. The hostess thinking to secure a good and constant customer put on her best graces for the entertainment of the prospective boarder, unaware that his erstwhile flame was peering through the window, but so it was.

"Hell hath no fury like a woman's scorn" says Shakespeare. There was a rash, a shriek and two colored women began a dizzy maze. Into the street the combatants drifted. Screeches and screams went up. Wool flew in clouds. At this juncture two Assyrian peace makers arrived on the scene and endeavored to quiet the raging storm, and this morning they have torn shirts and lacerated faces to show as a reward for their kindly intentions.
