Owing to diphtheria in his family, Mr Isaac Cohn asks to announce that he will not be at the Oaks Market for several days.

The harvest is white but the laborers are indeed few in the cotton fields in this section and a right bad condition confronts many of our farmers. The reporter was told by a successful farmer who lives near Kinston, that he had fifteen acres in his cotton field that had not been touched and that twice the crop of cotton was now open and hanging in the bolls because he could not get hands. Similar conditions confront a number of our farmers. The hot, dry spell had a great effect on opening the staple—Kinston Free Press, Sept 29th.

A big business was transacted on the cotton exchange yesterday in the sale of 125 bales. The prices were lower, however, than have been paid this season; ranging from 24 to 25 cents. Five bales of long staple cotton sold for 104 cents.

The while we are having in the amusement line shows very well for the long business that we have endured for the past year.

Owing to the sudden illness of Engineer W S Kelly of the Coast Line, engineer Duncan of the A & N O took the Wilmington mail train over yesterday. Mr Kelly was reported some better last night.

The Fatal Wedding is a play that not only has an effect on the emotions but gives a moral lesson which all will do well to heed. It is not without a fond of humor which makes it thoroughly enjoyable. Do not fail to see it tonight.

After an experiment of a year duration the Western Union Telegraph Co has dispensed with the services of colored messenger boys in the city of Richmond finding in impracticable to have them. White boys have taken their places.

Speaking about the scarcity of cotton pickers it might be mentioned in passing, that there are several dozens of idle persons of both sexes drifting around town, that would adorn a cotton patch, far better than they do the streets, and the earning of money might awaken a spark of industry in some of them, to their everlasting good. Make them go to work, leave towns, or go somewhere and hide. Restraint vagrancy law again.

Other cities and towns in the South are enforcing the law. It does the vagrant no harm, but on the contrary, sometimes develops a good citizen.

The New Bern Lumber Co, which was recently incorporated with $125,000 capital to operate saw mills, will in its said tract mill building 48x116. kln. four room, 100 feet long, to manufacture rough pine lumber; mill to be double circled, with about 70,000 feet daily capacity.

It is announced that the lessees of the A & N O road will have the covered bridges across Stony Creek, near Goldsboro, and Jacksmith creek, near New Bern removed and steel bridges built in their places. This the last of the old time dark houses. Like other old landmarks, they pass away forever.

Attention is called to the new ad of The American Stock Co, Mr Phillip Howard, manager, from the North with a great big stock of clothing and dry goods.

The moralists have decreed that intoxicating beverages must go, for they kill both body and soul, it is claimed. Eminent physicians say that American people are ruining their stomachs for ever with carbonated drinks. Coffee now gives us coffee-heart. Tea is a hurtful beverage. Well water it is said is contaminated with death ensnaring bacilli. So the thirsty ones have no chance unless they can indulge in a little perstimon beer, and it is a blessed thought that it is nearly season for that once popular drink. For the present it can be drunk without doing anybody harm as no taboo has been declared against it.

An eminent Chicago mind specialist rises to make the prediction that every body will be crazy one of these days, and cites statistics showing that one person in every one hundred and fifty in Chicago is crazy. Perhaps the doctor is just a little off himself. We have known certain booze artists to labor under the impression that every body they came in contact with was drunk, but could not be persuaded that they themselves were slightly intoxicated.

The State papers are giving a good deal of space to an article clipped from a Statesville paper, telling of a man who remarked that he had "raised his children to be large enough to work in a cotton mill and now they must take care of him." Certainly an able-bodied man must be destitute of energy and mean also to make such a remark, but we have known several families who made a better living for themselves in a cotton mill than the man of the family had ever been able to provide. Right here in New Bern there are people, who if they could get rid of a little false pride and go to work in the knitting mill, would make a better living than they ever had before.

A Strong Fascinating Play:

Tonight the patrons of the New Masonic Theatre will have a pleasant surprise in store for themselves, when "The Fatal Wedding" will be played. The plot is a powerful one, and deals with the adventures of a scheming woman, who, assisted by a male accomplice, designs the ruin of a happy family, and the separation of a wife from husband and children, in order that she can contract a marriage with the husband and thereby gain his fortune. She is prevented from doing this, however, by the timely interference of two characters, a Frenchman and an Irish servant woman, who, in their respective parts, create, no end of amusement for the audience. An unusually strong cast, headed by Miss Alma Chester will interpret the play.

Seats on sale at Dawson's this morning. 50c's 75c and $1 00. Balcony 50c and 75c.
