TABLE TIPPING

An Experience of Andrew Lang That Is a Puzzle to Him.

I was once laying my hands alone on a little table which spun about the room. No coubt I moved it, but I did sciously exert any force. I said, "Ask the table a question," and a lady re-marked, "Where are the watches?" The table then tilted. The others used the alphabet in the ordinary way. I did not know what was tilted out, but they told me that the message was, "The watches are in Frank's pocket watches?" and the lady said, "I gave two to Frank to take to the watchmaker, and he does not know what became of them."

"No more do I," I said and thought no more about it. Frank was a boy, a nephew of the lady. I scarcely knew him by sight. Two months later when was in France Frank's father, who had been present at the table tilting. wrote to tell me that I "was the devil" The watches had just been found in an old greatcont of Frank's in drawer in the children's room, which was not a room in the house where the table was so well inspired. Noth ing else of the sort ever imppened to me. It was an "automatism." I did not know what the table "said" till I was told, and of the watches I knew nothing at all. I simply do not under stand the case But "spirits" did not even pretend to be mixed up in it. The least inconceivable psychic explanation in that Frank, who was at school, 'wired" on to me without knowing it a fact which he had forgotten and that I without knowing it made the table tilt out the answer.

Frank at that time was a queer, vi-The Theatre will be comfortably this was rather out of his line. The skeptical theory would be that Frank, having heard the story and accidental ly come upon the lost watches, nut them in the place where the table said they were, "and the same with intent to deceive." But I did not even know that there was a room in his father's house called "the children's room." Andrew Lang in Harper's Magazine.

Names of Horses

The practice of naming horses after eminent persons is common in Eng land and France, but in Russia it is ousidered disrespectful by some judges of manners. A Russian sportsman has Duse as a mark of his esteem for the colebrated actress. He is severely rebuked in the Russian papers. "If this should be tolerated," they may, "we shall be having horses called after Toi-stel and other national worthies, Nay, Kuropetkin himself will be saddled or turned out to grass. The censor ought to stop the abuse of the names of Christians. Is the holy synod asicep? Russian may call his dog Caesar or Pompey, for they were pagans, and helr memory is not revered by members of the Orthodox church. But suppose some reckless subject of the crar should call his horse Pobledonostzeff. What will the holy synod say then?-London Chronicle.
