TO REGULATE WATT'S LAW

Important Bill By Senator Ward of Craven. Its Provisions. Bills Against Bucket Shops And Regulation Sale Of Cider.

Special to Journal.

Raleigh, Jan. 23.—In Senate bill was introduced reducing passenger fares on steam railways to 3 cents per mile and abolishing second class fares entirely;

Ward introduced very important bill enlarging Watts liquor regulation law providing where any person in prohibition or dispensary territory has United States license to manufacture or sell liquor, that shall be prima facie evidence of violation of law; Judges are required to impose imprisonment as part of sentence for second violation of the law against manufacturing or selling without license under State law; sale of liquor by drug stores is allowed upon written statement by head of family that some member thereof is sick and needs it, fraud if giving such order to be severely punished, no distilleries to be allowed in towns of under 1,500 population, where there are saloons in places smaller, at least two police officers must be on duty, make frequent inspections of saloons, and report to mayor who must file reports with solicitor of District and any failure of such towns to comply with all these provisions, authorizes commissioners of county to revoke license. Bill is intended to cure defects of Watts law. Bill introduced amending corporation commission law, by providing that if no appeal is taken from order of commission within prescribed time, but corporation affected fails to put order in operation commission may apply to Judge holding court in Wake county for peremptory mandamus to enforce its order, appeal to be to supreme court by either party.

Bills were introduced in House to prevent operation of bucket shops in N. C. to regulate sale of cider and patent medicines containing alcohol cocaine and opium; to encourage purity in art by eliminating indecent pictures in news papers.

The above was the topic of the lecture of Dr. W. S. Jacobs, who was on the Lyceum Course series, and spoke at the theatre last night.

The topic suggested a number of subjects for the speaker who touched upon such as a serious but interesting manner combining the whole into an address that commanded the attention and thought of his audience.

BLOODY RIOTS

In St. Petersburg Made Sunday Horrible.

Strikers March Against Guns of Soldiers.—Estimates of Thousands Shot Down.—This May End War With Japan.

London, Jan. 23.—Charles E. Hands, special correspondent of Daily Mail in St. Petersburg, telegraphs as follows:—

A tour made in a fast sleigh this morning showed that central St. Petersburg was ringed with people. A cordon of defenses as terrible as those at Lia Yang was drawn as if to resist an invading army, the idea of the authorities being that no procession from any industrial suburb was to be allowed to approach the centre of the Capitol. Out on every main road, on the left bank of the river, at every strategic point where there were cross roads, detachments of troops were placed on the further side. Every bridge crossing the Neva to Vassili Ostrov was strongly held, while from inside the great court yards of the Winter Palace a mass of troops came out into Palace Square. The regiment, mounted all on black horses, was a magnificent sight as it wheeled round in the great square.

As the head of the procession approached the acting colonel called upon them to stop. Father Gopon, still holding his crucifix, advanced and demanded that the colonel should receive and forward their petition. After a minute's hesitation and discussion the procession continued to advance. A sharp order was given. The soldiers raised their rifles and a volley rang out, but they only used blank cartridges. Another order. This time tall cartridges were used, and men, women and children fell in heaps. Father Gopon, still clutching his crucifix, was foremost among the dead and dying with his petition. Still another volley rang out. Then the crowd, no longer a procession, turned and fled—all but 800, who were lying dead, and 500 writhing wounded. Some who had revolvers fired as they fled. Others carried ice picks; some had stones. But practically they were unarmed. It was all over with the Putilov strike procession, and at 11:41 the strikers were still in sight of their works. As they retreated the soldiers followed, and before a quarter of an hour most of them had fled to their homes, and there only remained the dead and wounded, who were removed with the usual Russian skill to be taken to the hospital or home.

Twenty thousand people started from Golpino, a manufacturing village twenty five miles away. At Moscow Arch, on the confines of the town, they met with six volleys. One thousand fell dead and fifteen hundred were wounded. From up the river great crowds marched to Nevsky Gata, where 900 fell dead and 700 were wounded. Vassili Ostrov workers lost 200 killed and 700 wounded.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 23.—After a day that may mark the birth of a new and terrible revolution in Russia, St. Petersburg is quiet and under control of the Emperor's troops.

In the bloody riots that followed the attempt of the strikers to assemble yesterday, and the effort of the government to prevent the gathering, many were killed or injured, the estimates varying from five hundred to five thousand. The people are crying aloud for vengeance and the strikers are preparing to make armed resistance to the authorities. Up ridings are threatened in Finland and elsewhere. Father Gopon, Gorky, and other radical leaders, are spurring the people on to a revolution. More trouble is expected today. The Capitol is under martial law and M. Witte may be deposed dictator.

A member of the Emperor's household is said to have made the prophecy that the uprising will end the war with Japan, and that the Czar will be forced to give the people a constitution or lose his head.

City Ordinance.

Resolved, to add to chapter 10, section 177 of city ordinance, that it shall be unlawful for any drug store to sell on Sundays anything but drugs; for houses to sell anything but beer; and restaurants allowed to sell meals only. Any person violating this ordinance shall be fined ten dollars for each offence.

OIL MILLS OPPOSE.

Bill on Commercial Standard of Meal. The Bill proposed.

Special to Journal.

Raleigh, Jan. 23.—After a protracted hearing of representatives of the cotton oil mills in opposition to the bill requiring that the commercial standard of meal be raised from seven and a half per cent to 8 cents, the joint Senate and House committees on agriculture this evening decided to report favorably a bill allowing three grades. Seven and a half per cent to be the minimum to be stamped as low grade, eight per cent to be stamped as standard, and eight and a half per cent to be stamped as high grade.

Laughing-house and Mitchell were appointed a sub-committee to act with State Chemist Kilgore to amend the bill embodying these features. Almost every oil mill in the State had representatives before the committees in opposition to the original bill and it is said they will fight the substitute agreed on.
