Sprine Hope Asks For Abolishment Saloons hoson County Agitated. Fears Politics. Wilson Mixed Up. No. mal School Bill Killed State Officers Must

Pay Fare .. Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 24.-The House Liquor Traffic Committee held a four nours session this afternoon and tonight onsidering local liquor squabbles, there being large contesting delegations in each case, and the hall of the House was filled with people, the din of the crowd and the loud voices of the various speakers appearing combined making a scene of almost incredible, certain ly indescribable confusion. An immens delegation from Spring Hope in Nash county had the first call on a bill to abol ish saloons there. The town had an election under the Watts law last year and the saloons won. Petitions signed by majority of the qualified voters of the town asking for special act of prohibition was presented. |Representative Austin stated he promised people in the campaign to vote on question according to petition of people. Attorney Cooley strongly protested against this violation of Watts law, giving two years lease on decision of people at a regular elec-tion. F. H. Spruill spoke for the bill, and it was reported favorably. Johnson County has five dispensaries by special acts and there is no saloon in the county. Citizens from all over the county had petitioned for a vote in each of the five towns on prohibition or dispensary. A bill providing for this was strongly opposed by James H. Pou in behalf of Clayton on the ground that the Mayor, board of Aldermen, Ashley years if properly applied. E. W. Small Horne, three fourths of the voters and more than that proportion of tax payers wanted rest from liquor agitation an were content with dispensary. He said he had worked for prohibition twenty five years, and had never taken a fee to ppear before a committee on a liquor natter always giving his services and refusing offers of money on the other side. He contended that it was not right to force prohibition on thousands of people in the country by simply letting a few town people ge together and vote it out of a town. He gave figures showing how Johnson county had back alided from being the banner democratic county to now polling 1500 republicar Gower of Johnson and Sentelle of Wake favored the bill and it was reported favorably. The city voted for dispensary last year under a special act but there was no provision in the act allowing a vote every two years as is contained in the Watts law. Woodard said he made his campaign on a promise to have a law passed giving the right to a vote at least after two years trial of the dispensary and had received two votes to his opponents one in the primary. John F. Bruten spoke against the bill but it received a favorable report.
