HOLDING COTTON.

Less Marketing of Staple by Texas And This State.

Raleigh, March 24.—Mention has been made of the fact that statements were being widely circulated in this state that Texas was putting cotton rapidly on the market. A letter from Mr. Fred C. Olds, at Waco, Texas, says: "Texas has held her cotton far better than any other state and today she is the only state which has marketed less this year than she marketed up to the same date last year." This news came today and was read to Secretary T. B. Parker, of the State Farmers Alliance, and to Commissioner of Agriculture Patterson, both of whom said they were very glad to hear it. Secretary Parker said: "You can say from me that North Carolina also has marketed less cotton than she did last year by a good deal too, I should say something like 10 per cent at least." Secretary Parker went on to speak about the Farmers Alliance and said "It is continuing to grow and is getting the very best material. County after county are being organized and Alliances are being re-organized way up in Madison county before our organizer could get there."

Goes further and further. Never stops until you are well. That's what Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea will do. A great tonic. Makes rich, red blood, firm flesh. 35 cents, tea or tablets. F. S. Duffy.

An Exceptionally Fine Co., And a Great Performance.

The Edsall-Winthrop Co's performance of "The Two Orphans" at the New Masonic Theatre last night far surpassed anything yet seen here by any popular priced company. This show certainly deserves liberal patronage for such performances as they have been putting up this week. Miss Winthrop as Louise, Mr. Howard Nugent as Pierre and Mr. Jack Lessig as Jacques, did very fine work. The scenery was beautiful, especially the church set with its stained windows. The specialties are decidedly the best ever seen in New Bern. This company has gained a strong foothold in New Bern and always stands ready to greet "Queen of the Prairie." Matinee today. They will put on "Happy Hooligan."

Ladies, if you want a refined and brilliant complexion, free from blemishes, use Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. Brings red lips, bright eyes and a cream-like complexion. 35 cents, tea or tablets. F. S. Duffy.

Conductor Shot At.

Kinston Free Press 24th. Conductor Bissell, on the A. & N. C. freight train had an experience with a negro tramp about two miles from Dover station, Wednesday night caused him some little nervousness. He put the negro off the train, not being allowed to carry passengers, and the negro boating his way anyway, and the action aroused the ire of the tramp, who pulled a pistol and fired three shots at the conductor, one of them piercing Mr. Bissell's coat. An effort was made to capture the tramp and search is still being made for him, but without result so far.

DR. TAYLOR'S LECTURES.

An interesting Series of Addresses On An Important Subject.

Rev. Dr. E. O. Taylor, of Boston, finished a series of lectures on temperance which he has been conducting this week on Thursday night. The meetings have been well attended notwithstanding counter attractions and it is believed that great good has been accomplished. Each night his talk was over an hour but he held his audience with the irresistible force of his logic. His style was clear and convincing giving every one the impression that he is a thorough believer in all that he says.

Sunday night his subject was Christian Citizenship in the Light of Christ and Paul. He spoke of the standard of men which Jesus and Paul represented and to which they exhorted all men to acquire. On Monday night that Boy of Yours was the theme, in which he dealt with the ethical statement but none the less cold and incontrovertible facts about youth, morality and drink as it is seen in our large cities and towns. Some startling truths were disclosed concerning the strongholds of vice. Tuesday night he gave an illustrated lecture on the subject of "A Glass of Beer Analyzed." The lecture was only the principal line of his research and he showed the harmful ingredients of beer on the system. He gave a number of practical experiments illustrating the action of alcohol on the stomach.

"Microbes & Men, or the Chemistry of Alcohol" was the subject of the Wednesday night address. It was the speaker's purpose to show from actual scientific proof the nature of alcoholic drinks and how they are full of deadly germs whether or not it is claimed that the drink is pure or not. The drink habit made the system more liable to the ravages of disease owing to the fact that it weakened the tissues and organs of the body. The last lecture was entitled "God's Message of Science to Thinking Men" a continuation of his scientific exhibitions. He made a strong plea in the interest of health for a life of total abstinence.

During all of these lectures Dr. Taylor had the closest attention, although not eloquent he did more than mere eloquence could do, he invited and compelled the most serious thought on this vital question of the liquor traffic.

Dr. Taylor is an author as well as lecturer. He has written several text books on this subject and has gained a wide reputation as a strong and effectual temperance worker.

HOLD OR SACRIFICE ARMY

But Japanese Must not Advance, Command Czar.

St. Petersburg, March 24.—The Czar has ordered General Linewitch to risk everything and if necessary sacrifice the entire Russian army in his last stand on the line of Sungari river. The military council has decided that the Japanese forces must be weakened and the fertile district around Kirin saved. The Russian army should be unable to hold the lower line on the Sungari river at Chung Chiensu it will be compelled to abandon Harbin, northern Manchuria and the Russian Maritime province as well.

Charcoal as Fertilizer.

Charcoal is of no value as a fertilizer—that is, it contains no actual plant food. It has, however, other values which in some cases make it worth using. For instance, charcoal has a wonderful power to absorb moisture or gases like ammonia. Charcoal therefore is excellent to put in manure piles or to have in the stable. On light sandy soils a fair dressing of charcoal will darken the color of the soil, thus warming it up and making it easier to work and quicker and earlier in the spring. This, of course, refers to charcoal and not in any degree to either bituminous or anthracite coal. Either of these will be injurious to the soil in large quantities. Hogs and chickens are very fond of charcoal. It is well to keep some of it before them all the time.—Rural New Yorker.

Having Chilled Lambs.

It is a good plan to keep a supply of hot water on hand during the lambing season. As soon as the chilled lamb is brought in have a large pail ready, into which pour warm water and temper it to blood heat. Put the lamb into the water and be careful to hold the head out. As soon as the temperature of the water gets below 80 degrees raise the lamb out of the water and add hot water until it is at blood heat again. Repeat until the warmth of the body is fully restored and there is normal warmth in the extremities. Wrap the lamb in a warm blanket and let him dry, after which he will be likely to be ready for his first meal and proceed in the battle of life.—Farm and Live Stock Journal.

Water For Dairy Cows.

Plenty of good pure water is of prime importance to profitable dairying, says H. G. Manchester in Rural New Yorker. A cow requires about four pounds of water for every pound of dry matter consumed, and this means that she needs 80 to 100 pounds daily. Of course silage and roots or other watery foods supply some of this, but most cows even when fed silage will use sixty to ninety pounds daily. Our experience has been that when this water supply is cut off in any manner there is always a shortage of milk. I personally know of several dairymen whose water froze up last winter, and their cows shrunk, many of them one quart and over each per day.

Handling Stable Manure.

The manure from a well fed dairy herd is a matter of great consequence, and its proper management requires judgment. The better the feeding the better the manure. While all manure is worth good care, the better the manure the more important it is to handle it well to prevent heavy losses. The best single piece of advice as to handling stable manure is to get it from the stable to the land where wanted without delay and there spread it with the least possible expenditure of labor. Yet this general plan must be modified at times and according to circumstances.—Bulletin Massachusetts Agricultural College.

Feeding Work Horses.

Generally speaking, twelve to fifteen pounds each of hay and grain daily are sufficient for horses of 1,500 to 1,800 pounds weight doing moderately hard work. Oats may be considered per excellence the most satisfactory concentrate for horses and are largely fed in the north. Their relatively high cost is the only objection to their use. The New Hampshire station states that a mixture of bran and corn, half and half of weight, is a satisfactory substitute for oats for working horses.—Bulletin Massachusetts Agricultural College.
