OFFICIAL ETHICS

Pittsburg Gazette.

It is clear there must be a higher standard of official ethics. From every man in public office the people have a right to expect his full and undivided service. He should not use the opportunities in his power to feather his own nest, or his family's, or his friends' This is ethical idealism almost unattainable, it would appear, for self is ever paramount in all men's lives, yet the time is drawing nigh when idealism of this very stamp will be demanded of all public servants. The uproar that is raised now about petty peccadilloes of this nature is an indication of the turn much to expect that as our ethical convictions grow more pronounced, the general conscience will crystallize into an unwritten law. "No man can serve two masters," If he would serve the choir was very excellent indeed. State (which, of course must fully com pensate his service), he shall not use State to promote his private interests. And in time to come such cases as that of Moore and the much worse cases of Senator Mitchell and Statistician Helmes will be as rare as simony and nepotism are in our day, just because the ethical consciousness of civilized man has taken one step higher.

A Warning to Mothers.

Too much care cannot be used with small children during the hot weather of the summer months to guard against bowel troubles. As a rule it is only necessary to give the child a dose of castor oil to correct any disorder of the bowels. Do not use any substitute, but give the old-fashioned castor oil, and see that it is fresh, as rancid oil nauseates and has a tendency to gripe. If this does not check the bowels give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and then a dose of castor oil, and the disease may be checked in its incipiency and all danger avoided. The castor oil and this lumbus, O., writes: "For several months | remedy should be procured at once and I was given up to die. I had fever and kept ready for instant use as soon as ague, my nerves were wrecked; I could the first indication of any bowel trouble appears. In all my own experience with dogs have not only never seen a "mad dog," but have never known a dog owner-and by that I mean a man who has had experience in keeping dogswho has seen one. If, then, rables is so exceedingly scarce, hydrophobia becomes really an impossibility, and the fear of it should be dismissed without a thought.

TASHINGTON LETTER

Therefore I wrote him, stating that such a hat would cost him at least $150 and would require several months to construct it. Senator Dick replied not to worry about the cost and gave the dimensions of the desired headgear. I at once placed the order, and when I left Guayaquil the weaving of the hat was well under way and will probably be completed in season to adorn the Jovelike head of the junior senator from Ohio about the time the hottest weather is upon us."

A Rug Weaving Fad. The newest and most fashionable fad among the women of Washington. in which not only "society" is engaged but "the outs" as well, is the weaving of rugs and carpets-exactly like those that our grandmothers used to make, except that they unpoetleally but truly characterized theirs as "rag" carpets. Now, however, it is customary to call the fashionable product "souvenir rugs," or "handmade carpets." The winter, and all the belles have contracted the craze-not only the daughters of resident first families, but also those who are only temporarily in the national capital. Indeed the fad seems to rage most virulently among the aristoeratic "old Washingtonians," who look down from immeasurable heights upon the giddy throng brought here by the exigencies of politics. Duluth to Have the Fern. Representative Bede of Minnesota and Guy A. Eaton, commander of the naval militia at Duluth, were in Washington recently to see about the gunboat Fern. The navy department rame time ago turned the Fern, which was of the District, over to the Duluth naval militia, but would not make any repairs or deliver the vessel. These facts occasioned surprise, as it was thought that the navy would at least send the vessel to Dulnth. Commander Eaton is here to arrange for the completion of the repairs, which are being made in a shipyard at Norfolk at a cost of about $4,000 and to have the vessel taken to Duluth, which will cost about $1,000. It is not expected that the navy department will ask for the return of the yeasel and that it will pass permanently into the hands of the Duluth Jackies.

The Capital Invaded. The insect pests that annually prey upon the shade trees of the national capital are beginning to make their appearance in fordificable numbers, and before long the traces of their depredations will be in evidence all over the city. There is a grain of consolation, however, in the fact that of the three kinds of insects that annually do the greatest amount of damage to the trees of Washington—which constitute one of the city's chief claims to beguty-only one, the fall webworm, ap-pears to have made a good start. The other two, the imported leaf beetle and the white marked tussock moth, are apparently having an off year, although it is yet a trifle early to predict with any degree of certainty that they will not later join the ranks of the invaders.

Germany to Build Embassy. Germany to Build Embassy.

The German government has purchased a spiendid site for its embassy here opposite the property of the new French embassy overlooking Sheridan circle in S street, in the northwest section of the city. The property, which is shaded by magnificent trees and rises to a great height above the street, measures about '300 by 195 feet. On this site will be erected a spiendid stone structure of the style of Frederick the Great, reproducing perhaps in general outline the famous Sans Soucicastle or the new castle in Fotsdam.
