INSURANCE CASE

Involving Important Question of Changing Its Plan

From Assessment to Old Line Insurance.
Other Law Cases of Interest. R. & P.
By Progress. German Families
Wanted.

Raleigh, Sept. 15.—State Auditor Dixon was much pleased on reading a decision of the U. S. Supreme Court which says that owners of stock in a non resident corporation allow for tax upon such stock. Of course the corporation pays a corporation tax in the State in which it is located, Auditor Dixon has been collecting taxes here on such shares, but has had a great deal of trouble and no little kicking about it, which this decision will put an end to.

A number of students at the Medical Department of the State University, which is located at Raleigh, today has twenty-three students, which shows a very marked increase as compared with any previous number.

The Raleigh and Pamlico Sound Railway will within sixty days open its first section to traffic, this being from Raleigh northeastward, about fifteen miles.

Acting Labor Commissioner Bruner today received applications from persons in Forsyth Co. for four German families.

Judge Purnell of the Federal Court did not file his decision in the Police Justice case, regarding the power of the Raleigh police justice under a special legislative act, until this afternoon, having given the subject much consideration. The contention of the Attorney General is that this case is not in line with the Georgia case, in which there is no regular trial, while here there are always regular trials, with counsel and the right of appeal.

A very important case has been argued in the Supreme Court, this being Green against the Hartford Life Insurance Company, involving greater interests than any case before this court in many years. The principal question is whether an assessment company has the right under legislative authority to change its future business from assessment to old-time insurance. Over twenty of the largest assessment companies, confronted by the other failure of assessment insurance have been permitted by the laws of ten States to make this change and hundreds of millions of insurance have been issued in consequence of and relying upon the legality of the change. The courts, including the Supreme court of the U. S., have uniformly approved the change. If now a different rule shall be generally adopted the dissolution of an immense number of insurance contracts will be the inevitable result. The case comes up upon complaint of Mr. Green of New Bern that the Hartford Life Insurance Company which by its charter has always had authority to issue both assessment and legal reserve insurance, for the first few years of its existence did an old-time business, then did exclusively an assessment until 1899, when it ceased this and recommenced the issue of old-time insurance but has continued to carry out a contract with assessment members, holding their reserve intact for their sole benefit and protection. The change of business was caused by the failure of assessment insurance. Mr. Green was an assessment member and claims that the company is bound to go on with that class of business and that by making the change the company has broken its contract with him. He therefore demands the payment to him of all the assessments he has ever paid, with interest. Judge Allen non-suited the plaintiff in the lower court and he appealed. The plaintiff was represented in the Supreme court by A. D. Ward and Charles L. Abernethy and the company by Charles W. Hinckley and W. W. Clark.

DECIDES FAVOR POLICE JUSTICE

In Judge Purnell's Verdict, - Habeas Corpus
For Hospital Attendants Charged
With Murder of Nall.

Special to Journal.
Raleigh, Sept. 15.—Attorney General Gilmer was very confident that Judge Purnell would decide the police justice case in his favor, and he proved to be a good guesser, as the judge's decision is with the State and city on every point. The Judge denied the petition and remanded Bertha Brown, the tenderloin woman who was fined $100, and the three negroes who were sent to the roads for fighting and gambling, to the custody of the State, and to the city, to pay the fine and serve their terms.

L. R. High, J. C. King and Jack Peele, three of the four attendants at the Central Hospital here, in jail, charged with murdering Thomas Nall, a petition today secured writs of habeas corpus by associate justice Brown, returnable next Monday morning on the Supreme Court room.

This action was decided on by their attorneys as a result of evidence given by a number of physicians yesterday that Nall's death was due not to blows on the head, but to heart trouble brought on by excessive efforts in endeavoring to escape and struggling with the attendants.

Hoyt's "A Bunch of Keys."

After all is said and done there can be no mistaking the character of stage entertainment which vouchsafes the greater amount of pleasurable enjoyment to the masses of theatre patrons. It is for amusement solely that the best patronage is given to the playhouse. How well did the late Charles H. Hoyt understand and appreciate this colossal truth when with the aid of Willie Edou he managed to evolve such a pronounced hit as a "Bunch of Keys" signalled some years ago when it may be said the whole world of amusement was suddenly and agreeably astounded by the introduction of a series of laughable incidents adroitly and ingeniously strung together and cleverly interspersed with popular musical gems. Indeed, it was "A Bunch of Keys" which set the pace for all latter day so-called comedy successes, and even now it would be extremely difficult to point to anything approaching its intent, which can compare with its remarkable vitality. It may be justly commented upon, that the real bone and sinew of this, Hoyt's first and most lasting success, is the kind of substance which has almost invariably escaped the attention of modern farce writers. Unlike any other musical comedy prior or since, "A Bunch of Keys" is susceptible of having new material infused into its frame work without in the slightest injuring the fabric and this season after season it is found bobbing up serenely. Each time in a more acceptable shape. "A Bunch of Keys" will again invite favor at New Masonic Theatre next Wednesday evening Sept. 20th and it is quite needless to mention that in the preparation of its reconstruction no pains have been spared in order to present it in the most attractive form possible. As capable a company of artists as high salaries can induce and the expenditure of considerable money for new scenic arrangements are the principal points now involved, while the importance of the department of melody has not been overlooked in any instance.

"Human Hearts."
W. E. Nankeville's famous play "Human Hearts" will be presented at New Masonic Theatre in the near future.

"A Dolls House."

Next Tuesday evening at the New Masonic Opera House Miss Engenie Blair and her specially selected company of players will present Henrik Ibsen's popular and extremely interesting drama, "A Dolls House." The story of this play is too well known to need repetition here, having called forth more comment than possibly any production ever presented in this country. "A Doll's House" is a play of particularly strong dramatic interest and the play as presented by Miss Blair and her company is complete in every detail, great care having been taken to retain the true Ibsen atmosphere.

In the role of Nora Helmer, Miss Blair has ample opportunity for the display of her great emotional power, and her success in the part has added materially to the sum of her achievement as an emotional actress. The lighter scenes are charmingly rendered and in the heavier ones she reaches the highest plane of emotional acting.

The production is a thoroughly artistic one in every respect, and the members of the supporting company have been selected because of their special fitness for the roles they portray, and of their knowledge of the great Norwegian dramatist. The cast includes the names of a number of well known players, with Edmund Elton an actor of decided talent and force as leading man.
