The November Designer.

Advanced illustrations of innovations for garments are shown in The Designer for November, as, too, are "Fashion-Made Gossamer and Velvet," some of these being designed especially for these in mourning, while others are for elderly women. "Fashionable Frocking for the Female Fancies" pictures and describes new styles in belts and bags, and "Forwards Regarding Fashion and Fabrics" displays the picturesque before in many forms and materials. The Millinery Lesson tells how to make a mourning toque, and "Points on Dressmaking" gives instruction in finishing cloth skirts. The regular styles of the month embrace every desirable garment now in vogue, from the cut-of-door wrap to under-wear. Two most excellent stories are among the miscellany presented: "The Little Schemes of Mrs. Shem," and "The Face Framed in Tears," by Edith Livingston Smith. Jessie Greenwood Fritts, in her talks on silver, describes some of the larger table accessories made of the precious metal; Myra Emmons continues Etiquette Hints, and Jane Elliot gives further advice for feminine beautifying.

The Case of Adam and Eve. "In a certain church in Colorado Springs," said an Oregon clergyman, "there used to be a queer old, crusty character, a Scot who was noted for his profound knowledge of the Scriptures. I lectured in that church one evening, and after the lecture the Scot and I and some few others fell into conversation. 'I was urged to put the old man's Scriptural knowledge to the test. I was urged to question him and to let him question me. He would get the better of me—that, every one said, was certain—but I had my doubts and, turning to the Scot, said confidently: 'I will try you, my friend, with the grand, leading, inimitable question. How long did Adam remain in a state of innocence?' 'The Scot answered: 'Till he got a wife.' 'Then, with a grin chuckle, he went on: 'But can you tell me, sir, how long he remained after?'"

Ring and Wind. Making a finger in the pitching of quills must have been a part of the training which made the English dog-bowmen so terrible in siege that by gauging the distance and taking the lay of the wind they could send up a deadly volley at the exact angle to drop their arrows with destructive force into the heart of a beleaguered city. Getting the lay of the wind is the first thing to be learned in the noble art of pitching horseshoes. If the wind be contrary, the nicest calculations as to everything else will be in vain. It is only an supreme master of the game, a dashing genius in its mathematics, who can play against the wind—that is to say, one who, if the wind be from the east, can, by throwing at exactly that degree of an oblique angle needed to make it meet the wind full at the point opposite the goal, may hope to have it carried to the right spot—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Exact Obedience. Native servants in India have the generally desirable, though sometimes incontinent, virtue of the Chinese—doing exactly as they are told. The trouble is that they seldom use judgment. Lord Roberts during a campaign in India had ordered his men to prepare his bath at a certain hour. One day a fierce engagement was going on, but the servant made his way through a storm of bullets and appeared at his commander's side. "Bah!" said he, "your bath is ready."

Even a better story comes from an unknown soldier who was awakened one morning by feeling the servant of a brother officer pulling at his foot. "Bah!" whispered the man, "bah, what am I to do? My master told me to wash him at half past 6, but he did not go to bed till 7."

COMES QUICKLY.
Don't Have to Wait for Weeks. A New Bern Illustration.
Waiting is discouraging. Prompt action pleases every body. A burden on the back is a heavy weight. Hard to bear day after day. Harder still year after year. Lifting weight, removing the burden. Brings appreciating responses. New Bern people tell of it. Tell how it can be done. Tell of relief that's quick and sure. Here is a case of it: C. F. Barrington, proprietor shaving parlor and barber shop, place of address 123 Middle street, says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills which I procured at Barrington's Pharmacy, for my back and kidneys, and I found them to be all that is claimed by them. I had trouble with my back for some time, the secretions from the kidneys were very dark and full of sediment, and my back gave me any amount of trouble. It caused me to sleep and when I awoke at times that I could not stand to move. Doan's Kidney Pills went to right about so quick that I could hardly believe it. The first box did me no good, but the second was a success and, now, I am a day. My back has not hurt me since and I can stand on my feet all day and do not get tired like I used to. You can see my name and address for I have the great value of Doan's Kidney Pills."
