STILL THE PRESIDENT

Raleigh Talking of Roosevelt Day.

Record Breaker Given. President's Railroad Station Acceptable in North Carolina. Negro Woman Murdered. Marshals Hall and Presentation to Chief Mebane.

Raleigh, Oct. 20.—Governor Glenn and his family returned late last night from Greensboro, where his brother, Gen. James D. Glenn, was buried. Attorney General Gilmer and John W. Thompson accompanied the family on the sad mission. Mr. Thompson says marked respect and sad affection were shown the family of Gen. Glenn by the people.

The Governor's train did not leave Greensboro last night until after the President spoke and the Governor, being at the station heard the speech, though the President was not aware of his presence.

All the talk here today was of course about the visit of the President yesterday. The crowd was a record-breaker; there was perfect order, no accident anywhere and there was "Roosevelt weather" despite the predictions of the weather bureau. The President was delighted at the superb appearance of the 500 mounted marshals and said to one of them that he hoped there would never in his lifetime be another war, but that if one came and he wanted to raise a regiment of rough-riders that he would certainly start at Raleigh. He liked the way the streets were kept clear by the marshals. One bareheaded man, on an occasion, started to run towards the President as the latter carriage stopped on Fayetteville street, so anxious was he for a hand-shake, but he was stopped in a moment. The President wore a broad smile all the while and he passed through acres of smiling people. Never was there a broader smile all around. Mrs. Roosevelt was very charming and the ladies who were with her in the carriage said that nothing delighted her so much as the thousands of little children along the line who waved their hands at her and after hand flags, which they fluttered.

It was a Wake county man who when the President was speaking at the fair, cried out to him to turn his face that way, and who, when the President said he was going to give everybody a "square deal" to hear him, yelled out, "That's right; you are no two-faced man."

The troops of the National Guard attended in far too small numbers and only two companies marched well. Some of the companies walked untidy. The appearance made was not creditable. The march past the President at the fair-grounds was a poor ceremony. It will in the future, in such great occasions, be best to have the troops ordered out on regular duty.

A murder was committed here last night before dusk. A negro woman was knocked in the head by a colored man, and died yesterday. Today there was an autopsy and inquest. Another woman was attacked by the same man and badly hurt. The crime was committed in the eastern part of the city.

There were many people at the State Fair today, and they got an opportunity to see the exhibits. The crowd yesterday was so great that sight-seeing was nearly impossible.

Four pick-pockets were arrested here and at the fair grounds by the six plain clothes men here from the large cities. There was but little picking of pockets. There was considerable gambling at the fair, and fully as many fakery as were here before.

The Marshals hall was given at the Capitol Club tonight and was a gorgeous affair. The assistant marshals presented to Chief Marshal B. Frank Mebane a massive silver punch-bowl, gold trimmed, with applique water lilies around its rim. It is the finest gift ever made a chief marshal. William Boylan accepted it in his behalf, Chief Marshal Mebane having gone with the President on his tour of the south.

Governor Glenn has appointed to delegates to the Southern Conference on Immigration and National Quarantine, at Charleston, November 3, 1906, among them are J. B. Leigh, E. F. Lowe, W. D. Grimes, A. M. Dornay, J. J. Laughinghouse, Fred L. Herritt, Charles L. Stevens, E. R. McKethan, N. B. Smith, W. B. Cooper, A. M. Washell, Hugh McEae, W. F. Roberts, C. H. Brown, and M. Winters, all Senators and representatives.

BREVITIES

THE HALL OF FAME.

Princess Charles of Denmark is well known to all the European dealers in curiosities and antiques.

Senator Clark of Montana has furnished means to defray the expenses of an expedition to explore the unknown mountains of his state.

Professor Haackel is said to be the most popular person on the lecture platform in Germany today, and yet he lays no claims to oratory.

Alexander B. Williams, who was known throughout the United States as the "Evaporating Fruit King," has just died at his home in Soda, N. Y.

At Chesterfield, England, James Buxton has succeeded in walking 2,000 miles in 1,000 consecutive hours, losing twenty-one pounds in weight during the ordeal.

The Marquis of Bute of England may well be described as a favorite of fortune. He has eleven titles, is a baronet of Nova Scotia and hereditary keeper of Rothesay castle.

Major General Adolph von Helldorf, whose eighty-fifth birthday occurred recently, is one of the oldest retired officers in the German army, having served from 1837 to 1871.

Frior to Assistant Attorney General James C. McReynolds going to Washington he was professor of law in Vanderbilt university, where he lectured on bills and notes and corporations.

Father John of Cronstadt, whose extraordinary influence over the czar, no less than his propaganda against the revolutionaries, continually rouses the ire of the secret committees, is eighty-six years of age.

King Leopold of Belgium employs as chauffeur one Marcel, who is a pronounced anarchist. He has been warned against the man by the police of France, Germany and Belgium, but pays no heed to their counsel.

Captain Mathews of Portsmouth, N. H., lost a vessel on Debby beach in the wreck but "hawkers" got away with everything but one mast. This the captain towed up the river, and it is now built into his house in the form of piazza posts.

Tomorrow's Supplement.

A feast of good things awaits the readers of the Journal supplement tomorrow. A peculiar feature of this department is the helpful and instructive articles and it can be read from start to finish with a good deal of profit. The first article is a discussion of Sen. Chandler's bill to prohibit contributions for political campaigns. This is a matter that is receiving a great deal of attention. There is a trust known as the theatre trust which, as any one who knows of such matters, can tell that it is the meanest of all mean trusts. It has a insatiable appetite and grinds its foes to powder.

An interesting story of David Belasco the tireless and energetic fighter of this combine will be read with interest. The real history of how the great north west was saved to this country is unknown to a great many people. Had it not been for the heroism of one man—Dr. Whitman, the political geography of this country might have been very much different. A good piece on this subject will be found. Those who have been humbugged by the "seedless apple" fake will be interested to see how much company they have in being swindled.

The supplement is full of meat and it is not appropriate if it is a little time worn expression to advise the people to "read, ponder and inwardly digest."

Our new Methodist church is nearing completion and will be dedicated by Christmas.

Our popular merchants C. E. Paul and A. R. Gatlin are busy selling their fall stocks.

Capt. Ben Lupton, Theo Harper, and others are in Raleigh.

J. W. Paul and R. P. Whorton of Wintonville, prominent merchants of the county, are buying cotton in large quantities.

Mr. Hugh Bowen was married Sunday afternoon to Miss Della Rawls, daughter of Chas. and Bettie Rawls, Mr. Calvin Miller, J. P., officiating.

Mr. T. J. Roberts, representing S. G. Roberts of New Bern, was in town selling goods.

The champion cotton king of the county is Frank Sheppard. He has picked 1,200 lbs per acre, and expects to get in to much more before the season closes.

A Word from a Neighboring County

Mr. Editor.

We have just returned from the Roanoke river. The towns of Plymouth, Jamesville, Williamston. This is one of the best sections in the State. The farmers are in a very prosperous condition, cotton selling for nice prices, tobacco selling well, and peanuts, they tell us, is quite a little fortune in every crop. They were in the midst of the peanut harvest, and soon the many herds of swine will be turned into the peanut fields to gather that which is left, and then a rich harvest of pork for the gentle world.

Martin and Washington counties are in very fine financial condition. The farming industry is not oppressed by debts made by wild ventures in trucking with Irish potatoes and cabbage. Along the Roanoke river are the best hunting grounds in the State. Squirrels, opossum, raccoon abound. The fishing industry is fine in the spring. Some of the oldest fishermen in the State, especially at that old historic town of Jamesville. It was our privilege to examine an old Journal of one hundred years ago, it was kept by a merchant in the town of Jamesville from the years 1,000 to 1800. The writing was beautiful and plain, not a blot or scratch occurred on its pages.

But while the herring and shad continue to come at their season, yet the old chub and jack fish are fast disappearing from the waters of the Roanoke far far away up among the "hills of dare" the fish hands have broken and the German carp have been turned loose and bid fair to supplant the native chub and jack fish of these waters.

Along the hills of the Roanoke are the finest springs of purest water, so cool and refreshing to the traveler. The people as a whole are very kind and hospitable to travelers. The prominent religion is the Primitive Baptist. However, the Methodist and Missionary Baptists are making some headway. To that we have no objection, only we make the re us that when these other denominations do change things, they will not change the old time hospitality. That seems to be so much with the old Primitive Baptists.

Broom--Brinson

Re-laboro, Oct. 18.—A remarkably pretty wedding was performed this afternoon in the M. E. Church, South, R. v. Etherage, pastor, officiating; Miss Bessie M. Brinson, of Reelsboro, and Mr. Jesse Brinson of Aurora, being the contracting parties.

Promptly at 2 o'clock as the organ pealed forth the melodious strains of the wedding march, charmingly rendered by Mrs. O. J. Rock, of this place, the bridal party entered. First came Miss Lizette Brinson, sister of the bride, very charmingly gowned in blue, with Mr. Floyd H. Reel, who were the only attendants. Then came the bride and groom and passed up the aisle to the altar, where they were made man and wife.

The bride was very becomingly attired in blue silk with hat to match and carried a beautiful bouquet of American beauty roses. She is the very pretty and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Brinson of this place.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Brinson of Aurora, and is a prominent business man of that place. They many friends wish them a long and happy life.

They left immediately after the ceremony for Aurora, their future home accompanied by the attendants, and will be tendered a reception tonight at the home of the groom's parents.

This writer especially wishes them a long and joyous life.
