OFFICIAL PAPER OF NEW BERN AND CRAVEN COUNTY.

New Bern, N. C., Jan 29 1906.

RUSSIA'S DESPERATE ECONOMIC OUTLOOK.

Assuming that the immense empire is not only politically but economically in a bad, a very bad, way, is it safe to conclude that, with Russia's internal political conditions changed for the better—and the prospects are that they will be, in the near future—with her destinies entrusted to one or several bodies of electorally chosen representatives, the complete collapse of her credit, in a word, the financial crash of her governmental finance system, will be averted? I fear not.

The deadly parallel columns of history seem to show clearly that the political sanitation of a country mismanaged for many generations by no means implies its economic resurrection. To quote just one instance, known to all, there is France. In 1789 she showed similar economic conditions to those latterly prevailing in Russia. Did the summoning of the National Assembly and the devoted and highly patriotic labors of this body stop the financial evils under which the nation was groaning? Quite the reverse. As the great revolution proceeded, gathering momentum with its power, the financial morass grew deeper and more treacherous, and the credit of the country sank lower and lower, both at home and abroad.

The assignats, running much the same course as did the American Confederate currency between 1861 and 1865, despite their being made the legal tender, and at last becoming nearly the sole medium for the payment of all internal debts, steadily fell, until in the days of Robespierre it required nearly a cartload of the notes to pay for a pair of boots. It was only on the re-establishment of a powerful, though despotic, government, that of Napoleon, that the national credit began to revive. And the causes which led to this state of things were about the same as those which we see operative in Russia today, and which we shall probably see much more activity operative as the control of her national finance passes more and more out of the hands of a Russian minister of finance into those of a national parliament, be it the duma considered at this hour or a body of more sleeping powers and more radical makeup.—Wolf von Schierbrand in the January-March Forum.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever, nine cases out of ten are cured by Catarrh, which is not only a cure for deafness, but is a cure for all inflamed conditions of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, Dr. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Janetice Lady's Death Night of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Mrs. Michael Hart, wife of the superintendent of Carl Service at Kingsport, Jamaica, West Indian Islands, says that she has for some years used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for coughs, croup and whooping cough and has found it very beneficial. She has the following address: It is and would not be in a bottle of it in her possession.

THE REAL TEST

There is only one test by which to judge of the efficiency of any article and that is by its ability to do that which it is intended to do. Many hair restorers may look nice and smell nice, but the point is do they eradicate Dandruff and stop falling hair? No, they do not, but they do make the scalp itchy and the hair gets its life.

Letters from prominent people everywhere are daily proving that Newbro's Hair Restorer stands the "test of use."

It is a delightful dressing, clear, pure and free from all grease. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpelde Co., Detroit, Mich.

How to Avoid Pneumonia.

We have never heard of a single instance of a cold resulting in pneumonia or other lung trouble when Foley's Honey and Tar has been taken. It not only stops the cough, but heals and strengthens the lungs.

A Pleasing Opera.

Pretty girls, beautiful costumes, pretty songs and catchy music make a combination which faithfully describes the attractive setting of the Rajah of Bhong, which appears at the Messenger Opera House in Goldsboro next Wednesday night.

Dangers of a Cold and How to Avoid Them.

More fatalities have their origin in result from a cold than from any other cause. This fact alone should make people more careful as there is no danger whatever from a cold when it is properly treated in the beginning. For many years Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been recognized as the most prompt and effectual medicine in use for this disease.

A Modern Miracle.

"Truly miraculous seemed the recovery of Mrs. Mollie Holt of this place," writes J. O. R. Hooper, Woodford, Tenn. "she was so wasted by coughing up pus from her lungs. Doctors declared her end so near that her family had watched by her bed side forty-eight hours; when, at my urgent request Dr. King's New Discovery was given her, with the astonishing result that improvement began, and continued until finally completely recovered, and is a healthy woman today."

Is It the Music Case? To keep the body in tune, writes Mrs. Mary Brown of Lafayette Place, Fayetteville, N. Y. "I take Dr. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for coughs, croup and whooping cough and have found it very beneficial. She has the following address: It is and would not be in a bottle of it in her possession."

Another Good Man Goes Wrong.

He neglected to take Foley's Kidney Cure at the first signs of Kidney trouble, hoping it would wear away, and he was soon a victim of Bright's disease. There is danger in delay, but if Foley's Kidney Cure is taken at once the symptoms will disappear, the kidneys are strengthened and you are soon sound and well.

Special to Farmers!

We would advise all who contemplate using lime on their land this season to try granulated oyster shells, the new and convenient way of preparing shells for quick results and lasting effects, to use with fertilizer distributor. This form preserves all the virtue of the original shell, which is known to be lime, ammonia, nitrogen, and salt, besides much animal matter, easier and safer to handle than quick lime, and costs less and lasts longer, packed in 200 lb. bags. The output of this plant limited, so would advise your ordering a trial lot at once. The leading Farm Journals of the country are strongly urging the use of lime and certainly you can't go astray in buying the product of which every farmer in eastern N. Carolina knows the merits. The Fertilizer, Shell and Bone Co., New Bern, N. C. can furnish further information.

Two Good Reasons for the Appalachian Forest Reserve.

Before the American Forest Congress at Washington January 17th, President Geo. T. Winston of the North Carolina College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, presented the following reasons for the establishment of the Appalachian Forest Reserve.

1. To do justice to the South and promote national sentiment. The United States own 61 forest reserves, of 80 million acres, worth 200 million dollars. Not one is in the South.

The proposed Appalachian Reserve will contain four million acres and cost ten million dollars. Has not the time come for the South to receive from the national government some recognition besides taxation?

2. To complete and crown the system of national forest reserves. Every mountain system west of the Mississippi River contains a forest reserve. The Appalachian mountains, extending from Pennsylvania to Alabama, are from every point of view, the most important mountain system on the continent.

3. To preserve a health and pleasure resort for 60,000,000 people. The Appalachian Forest Reserve is located in seven States with 13,000,000 inhabitants and is within 24 hours of 60,000,000 people.

4. To preserve water power and maintain a steady stream flow. Over one million horse power yet remains to be developed in this region, provided a steady stream flow can be maintained. To do this, the forests must be preserved.

5. To preserve the mountain soil from denudation and the Piedmont soil from flood and destruction. Over 200 square miles of soil is annually washed into rivers, not to consider the destruction of crops, houses and animals. Forest conservation will prevent increase of, and wish reforestation will diminish, this tremendous loss.

6. To maintain a supply of wood for manufactures. The railroads alone are consuming annually over one million acres of forests. Without forest conservation the supply will soon be exhausted.

7. To preserve forever the head waters of many rivers. In the Appalachian Mountains rise very many great States, whose waters, for power, for commerce, for health, for water supply to cities, and for food fishes should be guarded with the utmost care from contamination and diminution.

8. For Flora and Fauna and Natural Beauty. Before the ruthless hand of mammon and all consuming spirit of gain let the Appalachian Forest Reserve stand inviolate forever, with its matchless flora and fauna, a modern Paradise of Nature, where weary and degenerate mortals may go for all ages to rest on the bosom of Mother Earth and become again children of the real Golden Age.

9. To show the world how to eat your cake and keep it too. In the language of President Roosevelt, "Use the forests for grazing, for farming, for lumber, for whatever they are best adapted; but so use them that you will not destroy their usefulness for future generations."

Half the World Wonders

how the other half lives. Those who use Bucklen's Arnica Salve never wonder if it will cure Cuts, Wounds, Burns, Sores and all Skin eruptions; they know it will. Mrs. Grant Shy, 1130 E. Reynolds St. Springfield, Ill., says: "I regard it one of the absolute necessities of housekeeping. Guaranteed by All Druggists. Price 25c."

CHINESE ART IN STONE.

The spirit of purely Chinese art in stone is shown in work such as the great smooth figures of animals and warriors which flank the approach to the tombs of the Ming dynasty and in the perfectly plain structures designed for the tombs of the present dynasty.

These are composed of enormous blocks of stone brought with infinite labor from distant quarries over roads and bridges which are hardly capable of sustaining ordinary cart traffic and have always to be specially prepared to prevent the great weights causing their collapse.

The same admiration for the employment of huge blocks of stone is seen in the case of the bridges over the rivers along the coast of South Fukien, where the stone slabs used in the construction occasionally measure sixty feet in length and are estimated to weigh nearly 120 tons, and the bridges themselves have a length of 1,000 to 2,000 yards.

In almost all cases where the buildings are not of solid construction the weight of the blocks employed has placed a strain upon the supports which the architect's skill was not competent to provide against, and with the lapse of time the melancholy spectacle is seen of slabs falling from their places and of noble and costly structures approaching ruin. In some cases the interdependence of the arches leads to the same result. One notable instance of this occurred during Colonel Gordon's campaign against the Taijehs, when to allow of the passage of his small steamers it was necessary to make a gap in a bridge of over twenty arches, and arch after arch collapsed immediately after the passage of his small flotilla.—London Saturday Review.

AVERAGE HUMANITY.

Most People Are Not Very Good Nor Yet Very Bad.

What do we mean by a good man or a bad one, a good woman or a bad one? Most people, like the young man in the song, are "not very good, nor yet very bad." We move about the pastures of life in huge herds, and all do the same things at the same times and for the same reasons. "Forty feeding like one." Are we mean? Well, we have done some mean things in our time. Are we generous? Occasionally we are. Were we good sons or dutiful daughters? We have both honored and dishonored our parents, who in their turn had done the same by theirs. Do we melt at the sight of misery? Indeed we do. Do we forget all about it when we have turned the corner? Frequently that is so. Do we expect to be put to open shame at the great day of judgment? We should be terribly frightened if that did not melt in the hope that amid the shocking revelations there for the first time made public our little affairs may fall to attract much notice.

Judged by the standards of humanity, few people are either good or bad. "I have not been a great sinner," said the dying Nelson; nor had he had only been made a great fool by of a woman. Mankind is all tumbled with the same brush, though some who chance to be operated upon when the brush is fresh from the barrel get more than their share of the tar. The biography of a celebrated man usually reminds me of the outside of a coast gentleman's cottage—all tar and whitewash.—Essays of Augustine Hittell.
