WATER ROUTES TO PROMOTE COMMERCE

Commercial growth, as well as growth in population in towns and cities, is largely assisted where the place can have both rail and water communications with the outside world. These double connections mean competition, and competition means both lower rates, and a greater endeavor upon the part of the carriers, railroad and boat, to give prompt shipment of merchan-

In addition to its already established boat lines, Wilmington, N. C., has now secured through the efforts of its merchants a regular boat service between its city and Baltimore, which means much for the commercial trade of that

Kinston, with praiseworthy efforts on the part of its business people, is trying to secure a river service on the Neuse, which shall give its trade a water route, therefore a competing route for trade, and through it, better commercial conditions for its mer-

Occasionally in these columns there is given notice that a sailing v essel is at Baltimore, whose captain is prepared to accept consignments, for merchants at New Bern. This sailing vessel transportation is important to the amount of its tonnage, but this is small and the sailings of such a vessel cannot be on any regular schedule, as would a steam

That there is a good deal of trade done at Baltimore by the merchants of this city is well known, and with a regular steamboat line it would be much larger. A regular boat service between New Bern and Baltimore would benefit the trade of both cities, and likely be profitable to the transportation com pany. Every once in a while there is agitation among the merchants of this city on this water route. There is a cry against railroad charges, but there is nothing more than a short lived protest, and everything is quiet again. What is wanted is a movement for a post service which shall be kept up until the object is attained. No one will deny that such a boat service is desirable, and no one will deny that such a imposed in sentencing the mutineer sof water route boat service can be obtained, if the right effort is made, and that there will be no such service until the effort is made, is also quite posi-

Talk of dull trade is never heard when merchants are occupied going after business, and with more boat lines leading to northern ports, or even such a port as Norfolk, where other connections could be made, there will be a much larger business here, and thereby a greatly increased trade activity among local merchants.

YOUR HAT

A man usually buys a hat that's "is atyle," but the modern hat for mee has lots to shower for.

Haldheads are growing more numerous every day. Hats make excellent breeding places for the parasitic germs which sap the life from the roots of the half. hair.

When your hair begins to fall out and your scalp is full of Dandruff it is a sure sign that these countless germs are huslly at work.

There is but one way to overcome the trouble and kill the germs—that way is to apply Newbro's Herpicide to the scalp—it will kill the germs and healthy hair is sure to result.

In them we have read how the soldlers of the former carried away only a small part of the reasures looted at Mexico, yet were so londed down with stolen gold that when they fell from the causeway into the lake in the memorable retreat from Mexico they sank and drowned as weighted with plummets of lead; also we read how Pizarro exacted as a tribute for the liberation of the Inca Atahulpa gold that filled to the depth of several feet a room seventeen feet wide by twenty-two feet long and that was valued at 1,300,000 pesos d'or, the equivalent of nearly $15,500 of our

When Drake sailed the south sea in the Golden Hind upon his piratical voyage of circumnavigation in the years 1577-70 and when he captured the Nuestra Senora della Concepcion-surnamed the Cacafue or Spitfire-of Cape San Francisco, it took three days to transfer the treasure from the captured ship to his own. In that single baul there was realized a "purchase," as it was called, of over twenty-six tons of silver, besides eighty pounds of virgin gold, thirteen chests of pieces of eight containing over $1,000,000 in money and an enormous amount of lewels and plate.

THE MOONSTROKE.

Sailor's Experience After a Night Nap on Deck In the Tropies.

"People laugh at moonstrokes," said sailor. "They call them shellbacks" superstition. I once had a moonstroke, though, and I tell you it was no laughing matter.

"In a full moon one night in the tropics I fell asleep on deck. The moon shone directly on me. I lay in a white pool of moonlight. So three hours went by.

"Then, when they woke me, I felt like a man in a dream. My mouth hung open, as it does when I sleep, and I couldn't close it, and my head lay over on the side, and I couldn't straighten it up. "Nor could'I understand what people said to me, nor could I obey orders. Voices I'd hear far away, but they seemed meaningless, unpleasant. I was very drowsy. All I wanted was rubbing me down with cold water and doslag me with castor oil, before they brought me round. And always after that I have been careful never to sleep where the moon's rays could get at me. My moonstroke happened eight years ago, but still at every full moon I am stupld and drowsy, my head droops a little to one side, and my mouth tends to hang open "There's many a sailor has been moonstruck, but this accident never ofally landsmen Landemen von ser never sleep out of doors,"-New York

The Ducking Steel in England The lastest recorded use of the ducking stool in England (the designations eucking and ducking were of course synonymous in the days of Queen Elizabeth) was in 1809. It was at Leominster, when a woman named Jenny Pipes, alias Jane Corran, was paraded through the town on the ducking stool and ducked in the water near Kenwater bridge by order of the magistrates. In 1817 another woman, called Sarah Leake, was wheeled round the place in the same chair, but not ducked, as, fortunately for her, the water was too low. The instrument of punishment in question has not been used since then .-London Notes and Operior

BLOOD POISON CURED

A Desperate Struggle and How it Ended

Just 27 miles from the classic city of Athens, Ga., is located the thriving little town of Maxey's, the residence of Mr. I obert Ward, who has just been released from the most perilous predicament, the particulars of which he has consented to give to the public. He writes as follows:

MAXEY'S, OGLETHORPE Co., GA., July 1.

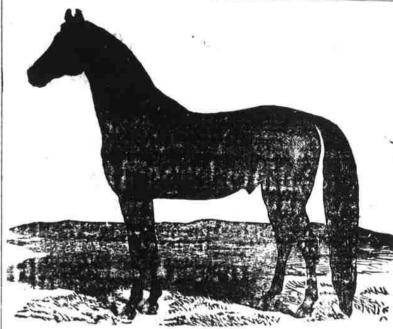

For twelve or fourteen years I have been a great sufferer with a terrible form of Blood Poison (Syphilis,) which ran into the secondary, and finally it was pronounced a tertiary form. My head, face and shoulders became almost mass of corruption, and finally the disease commenced eating away my skull bones. I became so horribly repulsive that for three years I absolutey refused to let people see me. I used large quantities of the most noted blood remedies, and applied to nearly all physicians near me, but my condition continued to grow worse, and all said I must surely die. My benes became the seat of excruciating aches and pains; my nights were passed in misery. I was reduced in flesh and strength; my kidneys were terribly deranged, and life became a burden to me.

I chanced to see an advertisement of B. P. B., and I sent one dollar to W. C. Birchmore and Co., merchants of our place, and they procured one bottle for me. It was used with decided benefit. I continued its, use and when eight or ten bottles had been used was pronounced sound and well.

Hundreds of scars can now be seen on me, looking like a man who had been burned and then restored, My case is well known in this county, and for the benefit of others who may be similarly affected, I think it my duty to give facts to the public, and to extend my heartfelt thanks for so valuable a remedy. I have been well over twelve months, and no return of the disease has oc-ROBERT WARD.

MANEY'S, GA., July I We, the undersigned, know Mr. Robert Ward, and take pleasure in stating that the facts as above stated by him are true, and that his was one of the worst cases of Blood Poison we ever knew in our county, and that he has been cured by the use of B. B. B.—Botanic Blood Balm.
