Mr. Cushman. Mr. Chairman, I conceive that it is most unfortunate for me that it should come my turn to make a few remarks immediately upon the close of that brilliant speech of the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. Williams]. And that was indeed a brilliant speech of his. I think I may justly congratu-late the gentleman upon that speech, ment in added emphasis, an increased attained by the time it is heard by the next generation is a subject the pleasant contemplation of which absolutely overcomes me. Did you ever got to thinking that you would enjoy a sudden translation from the earth to the moon? If you have, did you ever figure on the w feats of muscular strength with which you could astonish our luminary neighbors, providing gravitation would have no more effect accordingly there than bere? Let us figure: The moon only weighs one eightieth part as much as the earth. Gravitation must therefore be correspondingly less. If therefore a man weighed 140 pounds on this .$4.00 earth he would weigh but a fraction 5.00 over twenty pounds according to the scales used on the moon. If, however, his muscles and frame remained the same as they were before being transferred to our silvery sister world he could "astonish the natives" with his astounding athletic and muscular feats. He would be able to shoulder an ele phant of the regulation size and to yank a small mountain out by the roots. The buoyancy of his body would OFFICIA PAPER OF NEW BERN AND be so great that athletic feats would be easily accomp'ished. Most of the people were in the amphitbeater at a wild beast fight when they saw a strange cloud rise from Vesuvius. It seemed like a pine tree. The trunk rose up high into the heavens and then spread out in branchessome white, some dull and spotteduntil, slowly cetaching themselves from the parent trunk, they began to darken the sky. Pliny the elder, over at Misenum, was reading in his study when his sister came in to tell him of this strange cloud. He ordered a light gailey to be got ready, and as he was coming out with his tablets in his hand ready to note down all he saw the mariners belonging to the galleys at Retina came up to implore of him to go to their help.

By the time Pliny got there with his galleys the ashes were falling thicker every instant. Then came broken and blackened stones and pumice. Vast fragments were rolling down the mountain, and the sea had suddenly retreated. The pilot was for putting back, but the undaunted old philosotune," he said, "favors the brave." In that awful darkness, when the sudden rush of flames was the only light which pierced the dense smoke, the fields were full of terrified people fleeing they knew not whither. It is true that the destruction was not instantaneous, and a great number of the inhabitants sayed their lives, and even took away a good deal of their treasure, but it is es timated that at least 200,000 persons were entombed in Pompell, Hercula neum and the other cities of the plain.
