SHORT PASSING EVENTS

There will be no prayer meeting at the Presbyterian church tonight on account of the absence of the pastor. The usual service will be held tomorrow (Friday) night.

The contractors for the street paving began to make preparations to start work yesterday. The offices and headquarters will be located on the Daves lot, Broad street, which was recently purchased by Mr. Blades.

Next Wednesday the Orchestra and Glee Club of the University of North Carolina will give a concert in the opera house. The organization has appeared here before and their entertainments have always been very pleasing.

The Amusea picture show did not open its doors last night, owing to the Orphans concert. They wish to announce that two pictures will be run off tonight, instead of one as usual, also new song. All are interesting.

This is an age of system, and every industry is the better for it. Sometime in the future an enterprising stranger is going to stroll into town—buy a few mules, drays, horses and transfers, open up an office and do all the hauling and carrying that is needed, at a nominal charge.

About five hundred packages of peas were marketed and shipped from here Wednesday. The crop from the larger truck farms has not begun moving yet, the receipt so far being the product of hot houses and gardens. The price was a little better yesterday—selling for ninety cents and a dollar a basket.

Wednesday's Kingston Free Press tells of the horrible death of a mill hand, employee of the Rutledge Company, on the Kingston-Carolina Railroad. The man was colored, named Eugene Hunter, and was at work on the saw when the power was accidentally turned on by the engineer. He was horribly mangled and died in a little while.

Some improvement is noticed in the appearance of the streets, since the Woman's Club took up the matter, but they are far from tidy yet. The habit of cleanliness, while easy to acquire, is one of education or environment. Let this kind of education get abroad among the people of New Bern, and not only the streets, but the back lot, also would look better.

The writer made a visit yesterday to the garden of Mr. Jesse Harrison, locally famous as a successful tomato grower, and the visit was well worth the walk, too. Mr. Harrison has growing, quite a large patch of vegetables, which are now in bloom. His Irish potatoes, and cucumbers are also in bloom, and altogether he has, no doubt, the finest garden in town.

Another neighborhood row, from across the Neuse, was given an airing in Justice S. R. Street's court. The trouble arose—it seems, over a land survey, resulting in Mr. Spicer Lane drawing his gun on Leinster McIntosh, a neighbor. A great many complimentary opinions of each other were exchanged between them, but no one was injured except in feeling—Lane was bound over to court.

One of this section's most valuable resources is lying unused and unappreciated. This refers to the wasted water power of the many streams that abound. Travelling over the eastern counties, many abandoned mill sites are noticed that will no doubt in the future become valuable property. The old objection in the past to water power was the uncertainty and unreliability of the supply. With the adaptation of modern machinery the supply can now be economized and regulated to a nicety. As fuel becomes more scarce and expensive to develop power, in the same proportion will water power become more appreciated. The time is not far distant when many of these abandoned mill streams will be harnessed again.

Baxter's Store Open Today J. J. Baxter's new store in the Elks Temple will open for the public patronage today. Both departments, the dry goods and clothing are ready and the public is invited to go and see this fine emporium. Mr. Baxter is about to realize one of his dreams in the occupancy of a large room for his big stock of goods. His is an experience of development, the very best example of a steady growth from small beginning. All rejoice in his success and today he has reason to be very proud of his grand achievement. Much will be furnished today by the New Bern Orchestra. All the people should go and show their appreciation of the grand enterprise.

Men's Down Town Meeting The Tabernacle forces have arranged for a series of men's meetings to be held every day at Amuses at 12 o'clock, noon. The service will last 29 minutes by the clock. Mr. Hoge has a special message for men today.

IN SOCIETY

WILLIAMS-GULON Prominent Social Event Takes Place in Christ Church in Presence of Large Assembly

Christ Church never looked prettier than it did yesterday afternoon, when at six-thirty o'clock Miss Amy Gulon and Mr. Thomas P. Williams were united in marriage. The decorations were in white and green. The altar was a mass of white roses and snow-balls and lighted with numerous candles.

The chancel was banked in palms and potted plants. The bridal party entered by the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played in a charming manner by Miss Clara Morris, organist. The ushers were Messrs Wade Meadows, Edward Meadows, Edwin Richardson and Jack Street. Miss Susie Gulon, sister of the bride, was a beautiful maid of honor in white tulle, and carried white carnations.

The bride, attired in a dark blue coat suit, entered on the arm of her father, Mr. W. R. Gulon, and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man and brother, Mr. Ellis Williams, where they pledged their troth and were made man and wife by Rev. J. H. Brown, Rector of Christ church.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gulon, and has many friends. The groom is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Williams, and is highly esteemed by his many friends.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Williams left on the yacht Conner, for Saltire, Straits, N. C., the summer home of the family, and on their return will be at home to their friends at the residence of Mr. R. P. Williams on South Front street.

Meet me at the Cane Rack at the Elks Bazaar.

Guess The Doll's Name Within the next day or so a beautiful doll will be put on exhibition at Hackburn's store. This doll is to be given away during the Elks' Bazaar to the person guessing the correct name. Guesses will be ten cents each and all the little girls had better begin saving their pennies in order to have a guess. Guesses will be sold during the bazaar at the Doll Booth, which will be one of the new features.

The management of the bazaar wishes to state that at the bazaar two years ago, an idea got out that no one was supposed to attend except members of the Elks and those interested. This is a mistake. Every one is invited to attend, and the more the merrier. There will be something doing during the entire week to interest every one.

Don't forget to take a chance for the Kimona at the Japanese Booth.

Successful Fox Hunt The Craven Hunt Club had a pleasant and successful chase yesterday in the vicinity of John McGowan's farm, near Riverdale. The quarry was soon started but did not seem very game as he had not gone very far before he sought the friendly protection of a tree. The fox was first "kicked" in his perch and then shaken down when he made a brief get away and was finally caught by the dogs. In the party were: Messrs A. H. Rawlins, Gordon Kenna, Sylvester Gray, John McGowan, and Dr. Gibbs. Meadames Lumsden, Deming, and Gray, Misses Rawlins and Elliott.

SAVING CAN BECOME A HABIT

Of course you pay your debts somehow. Why not place this bank on your list of creditors for a certain amount weekly and pay as you would a grocery bill? In a short time you would realize that you were saving money regularly and without inconvenience, and it would become a fixed habit.

Don't rely on Providence in emergencies but exercise forethought, for you alone reap the benefits.
