and the same quality of service is rendered to the small saver in this bank as to the man with a large amount.

In fact it is a point of pride with us that while we have many large accounts, we try to make the boy who is saving a dollar a week feel that this is "his bank" and that his business is appreciated in the same spirit of co-operative helpfulness as is the banking business of his father.

Is this YOUR bank?

CONFEDERATE MEMORIAL DAY

NEW SOUTH HONORS ITS DEAD HEROES WITH APPROPRIATE CEREMONIES

ADDRESS BY LOCKE CRAIG

Opera House Could Not Contain The Crowd—Two Thousand Attend Ceremonies at Cedar Grove Cemetery—Daughters of Confederacy.

No more appropriate day, no day more beautiful, than last Sunday, May Tenth, when the Confederate veterans, the daughters of the Confederacy, the relatives and friends of the Dead Heroes, and a vast throng of sympathizing visitors, paid respectful and loving tribute to those, who though dead, yet live in the hearts of those who so willingly bear annual tribute to their merits and virtues.

Under the auspices of the local chapter of the Daughters of Confederacy, assisted by the Confederate Camp of Veterans, every effort had been made to give an observance, that should bear both eloquent and loving tribute to those whom the living so honored in heart and thought.

Well selected was the day, for the occasion was of such sacred character, that Sunday was the day of the week best suited for the observance. Long before the hour, 4 o'clock, people began to gather at the Opera House, where the exercises of the day were to be held. Before the ceremonies at the graves were to be observed. The Confederate veterans on one side of the auditorium, their forms bent, their hair gray, yet keen of eye and alert to the occasion. On the opposite side, was the Jane Hughes Chapter, the Children of the Confederacy, with their youthful faces upturned to see what was doing, their hands full of flowers, which they had to carry to the graves of ancestors known only to them by tale of parent. On the stage were the Daughters of the Confederacy, Chief Marshal Wolfenden, a Confederate, Mayor Bryan and Sheriff J. W. Biddle, Confederates. The orator of the day, Hon. Locke Craig, and the singers who had gladly volunteered to help the observance of the hour. Looking beyond and back, over the heads of the veterans and the children of the Confederacy, in the front rows, was a mass of humanity, that occupied every seat, all standing room and yet hundreds were unable to enter the house. It was an audience that had but reverence and respect in its heart. The Confederate flags suspended on each side of the stage might be said to be the only visible signs, yet upon each veteran, each Daughter, was to be seen also the badge for the day, that told of the occasion.

As Marshal Wolfenden called the assemblage to order, there was the sympathetic thrill felt, that continued through the entire exercises. The first hymn, then a most eloquent prayer. The speaker of the day, Hon. Locke Craig, was presented to the audience in a few words, but in terms expressive of a simple eloquence, of a tribute to the speaker, and the occasion he was to honor.

"There is no nobler sentiment in the hearts of a people, than its veneration for ancestry, and love of posterity." With this first sentence, the speaker delivered an address that approached the sublime in lofty sentiment.

He spoke in glowing terms of the heroism and devotion of the men who fought for the South and the women who, denied the privilege of fighting, suffered with equal devotion for the cause. He pictured vividly the conditions which confronted the Confederate soldier on his return after the surrender at Appomattox and the grim unrelenting determination with which these men set about to rehabilitate their homes and fortunes. He attributed no small degree of the wonderful development of the new South to the efforts put forth by the men who had so bravely defended their country and who, undaunted in the hour of defeat, met the conditions with a spirit of determination and resolution unparalleled. He spoke at some length of the possibilities which the future holds for the Old North State.

During the address, the audience could not restrain its applause, as the word pictures of heroism were presented. No grander tribute has been paid to the memory of the dead and living Confederates, to the woman of the South, than was uttered by Mr. Craig, last Sunday.

From the Opera House, in the Academy Green, where the procession formed up, and then the line of march to Cedar Grove Cemetery. Growth took the sides of the streets, and the procession was a most beautiful sight.

MR. CRAIG IN THE PULPIT

He Preaches a Sermon With As Much Eloquence And Zeal as a Literary or Political Orator

It was something of a surprise to the audience of the First Baptist church Sunday evening when the Hon. Locke Craig walked onto the platform with the pastor, Rev. W. A. Ayers and the surprise was continued, and pleasant, when he was introduced as the speaker of the evening. It demonstrated one thing to all who heard the discourse that while the gentleman is seeking political honors, he is a student of the best things and is intensely interested in the spiritual affairs of life. His talk was on the development of character; the incentive that the reputation to be honest and moral has to a man. No one cares to be known as dishonest, immoral or untruthful, consequently the fostering of the opposite virtue is not only commendable, but an absolute duty. We are in the world not to gratify our desires, but to live for each other and that is the best development of character. The high ideal of life is an aspiration which few comprehend and yet it is necessary to the really successful and noble life.

Mr. Craig's address was one which called for the closest attention, and one from which all who heard him could take a practical lesson.

Atlanta Repairing Damage

Atlanta, Ga., May 11.—Practically every owner of property located within the three square blocks of buildings destroyed in Friday's fire has announced an intention to rebuild at once. Today, found several men at work cleaning out piles of brick and stone, tearing down tottering walls, restoring the streets to traffic, replacing broken telephone and telegraph poles and digging safes out of the wreckage.

The loss stands at practically $1,250,000, with the insurance about $900,000.

While the fire burned fiercest several streams of water failed to reach the second stories of the buildings. This has led to official inquiry into the matter of water pressure.

May Have Been Foul Play

Washington Free Press 11th.

Mr. W. L. Cahoon, a newspaper man of Elizabeth City, passed through Friday en route to his home from Pinetown, where he has been investigating the finding of the body of the Elizabeth City man, Riggs, who was found on the Norfolk and Southern track near Pinetown some time ago. All evidence, he says, points to foul play, instead of the belief of the accident. Riggs may have been thrown from the train. He did not give any reason for his opinion.

Negro Barred to Death

Kinston Free Press 11th.

Mack Hagman, an old colored man, was burned to death Thursday night at his home in Trenton. Hagman imbibed too freely of the juice of the distillery and went home drunk. Sometime afterwards a fire started and his house was burned to the ground. The charred body was found lying across the stove in the house next morning. There was no other occupant of the house and it is not known how the fire was started. It is supposed that he stumbled across the stove, knocking the fire out on the floor and setting fire to the house.

Farmers Holding Cotton Cause Prices To Go Skyward

Special to Journal.

New York, May 11.—A phenomenal jump occurred in the cotton market today and prices took an upward of 20 points and the speculators became quite excited. This marked advance is credited to farmers holding cotton for higher prices and it may be said that the farmers forced the action, which speculators swore they could not do.

procession marched through the lines of people, to the Confederate mound, where the Children of the Confederacy laid their flowers, where a hymn was sung, a prayer offered, and then the first real notes of war were heard, in the squad lying over the graves of the dead. Not least touching was the visit and decoration with flowers the grave of Mary Moore Hays.

It was the right spirit, the true spirit of the New South, that so fully manifested itself on Memorial Day, 1908. It was a reverence for the Old South, a just appreciation of the part she played in the history of the world, and a respect for the heroic dead in keeping with both spirit and letter, combined with a veneration for the memories of those who made possible the glories of the New South, that have, because and represent the South of 1865—1866, and yet stand for the United States of today, standing in the Stars and Stripes, while the flag flies the Stars and Stripes.

GLENN GOES TO WASHINGTON

He Will Be One of The Conference of Governors, Called Together By President Roosevelt

Special to Journal.

Raleigh, N. C., May 11.—Governor Glenn leaves for Washington, tomorrow to attend the conference of the President and Governors. With him go ex-Associate Justice Armistead Burwell of Charlotte; ex-Private Secretary Charles H. Armfield, of Statesville, and Col. A. D. Ward, Aide De Camp.

Aeroplane Makes Second Flight

Special to Journal.

Norfolk, Va., May 11.—The Wright Brothers, who have been experimenting with their flying machine for the past two weeks made another successful flight today. They claim they have solved the problem of aerial navigation and feel confident that their machine, the aeroplane, will be in common use in a few years.

PROHIBITION IN WILSON

Gov. Glenn Addresses a Large and Enthusiastic Audience on Leading Topic—Negro Jones to Be Tried For Criminal Assault

Special to Journal.

Wilson, N. C., May 11.—Governor Glenn addressed a large audience here today in Planters Warehouse, on prohibition, and made a great impression. Friends of prohibition were enthusiastic over his efforts.

Cleveland Jones, charged with committing a criminal assault on Mrs. Robert Wells, near here, last month, still be tried next Friday.

SWANSBORO NOTES

Special Correspondence.

Swanboro, N. C., May 11.—Weather cool and dry, which is a great disadvantage to crops. Though amid cool weather drops are looking very well.

Mr. T. J. Roberts of New Bern, attended the bank party here Saturday.

Mr. Walter Duffy, of New Bern, is spending a few days here, visiting friends and relatives.

Mr. Willie Pritchard, who has been in the hospital at Kinston for treatment, returned home last week.

Our town election came off last Tuesday, resulting in electing Mr. Clyde Pittman, mayor, and D. G. Ward, C. R. Webb, Geo. Bell and W. J. Davis commissioners.

Mr. Willie Sanders spent a few days fishing last week at Oriental, and we think he made fine success, judging from what he brought back with him.

Miss Mamie Powers, of Oriental is in our town visiting friends.

If you want to get your corn ground bring it to Swansboro. We have a new saw mill, grist mill and cotton gin here now, and expect to soon have a planer. This mill belongs to a company, by the name of Swansboro Mill Company.

The annual Sunday school picnic came off last Saturday on Bogue banks—some say that it was the largest crowd ever seen on the banks, and the best of all, there was no drinking. Everybody seemed to enjoy it. We think that is good proof that prohibition is gaining strength. We learn there will be a temperance rally at Stella next Friday night. Hope there will be a large attendance, as we learn there will be speaking on prohibition.

Mrs. J. A. Pittman, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. E. Midyette, at Oriental, returned home last week.

The Swansboro Land and Lumber Company don't seem to feel the panic much, as the mill still continues to run in full blast, but the panic has struck the merchants here. Since the fishing season is over, they have all put a very long face, though trade may pick up a little as the merchants are going to start a five cent trade with each other.

There was an entertainment here Saturday night, and we have been informed that about 100 was taken in, which is to be used on the public school building here. Everything passed off quietly, and we must compliment the young boys for their nice behavior there. Before the close, there was a cake sold for the prettiest girl, and Miss Ida Ward being the prettiest girl received the most votes and got the cake. Wish we had got part of it, for we are very fond of cake.

Mayor C. S. Pittman left this morning, bound for Hendersonville, N. C., to attend the Grand Lodge of I. O. O. F., a representative of Atlantic Lodge No. 226 at Swansboro.

Mr. Walton, the candidate for sheriff, was in our town again last Sunday. We think his earlier made his arrival friends here.

Manassah Tom Henderson and E. B. Deppa, were here also, looking in on us. Well, they are all good men, and they will all be elected, that we would rather have than any other.

MONEY PLENTY SAYS FINANCIER

AUDITOR DIXON ADDRESSES CONFEDERATE SOLDIERS OF SAMPSON COUNTY—PROHIBITION WILL SUCCEED THERE

MEMORIAL DAY WELL OBSERVED

New Hotel to Be Erected at The Capital City—Carolina Woodworkers Convention—Exchange of Courts Granted—Confederate Drum Corps To Go to Birmingham—Great Activity in Oratory—Anti-Prohibitionists Getting Busy.

Special Correspondence.

Raleigh, N. C., May 11.—A bank president here remarked today that he could say positively there was more money in this county than ever before in its history. He says the panic is almost entirely a matter of sentiment now, being simply in evidence of this trust.

State Auditor Dixon returned last night at midnight from a speaking trip. He delivered the address Saturday before the Confederate veterans of Sampson county at Clinton, the attendance being very large and the dinner so bountiful that after the great crowd had been served fully, an ample supply remained which was sent to the county home. He spoke Saturday at Warsaw, on the prohibition question. He thinks things are all right on that question in both Sampson and Duplin.

The banks, the capitol, etc., were closed today, it being Memorial Day. The religious exercises were held yesterday afternoon at the Confederate cemetery. The day was perfect and the attendance was very large. The graves were very beautifully decorated with flowers and Confederate flags. This morning the base of the Bagley statue in the capitol square was draped in a great national flag, the gift of many officers and sailors last year.

It is understood that a new hotel is to be built here to face on the capitol square, and that it will be a very handsome structure.

The Carolina Woodworkers are the first to build an industrial plant at Glenwood, one of Raleigh's suburbs and some of the effects will be very novel. The pillars are of trunks of immense hickory trees, cut from the site of the building.

Governor Glenn consents to an exchange of courts by which Judge Webb will hold Cleveland court, beginning June 15th and Judge Moore Guilford court, beginning on the same day, each term being for a week. The term of Cleveland court is a special one and Judge Moore had been assigned to hold it, but as it is the first court to be held in the new court house the exchange is made in order, that Judge Webb, who is from that district, shall, so to speak, christen the very handsome new building.

Members of the Confederate drum corps here, are the only one in the State or the South for that matter, are arranging to go to the great reunion at Birmingham, Ala., in June. Funds will have to be privately raised to take this organization there. It has furnished music at six of the reunions, and one of its members said with a smile that it hoped he would be able to attend 16 more.

There is very great activity this week at the headquarters of the various candidates for the nomination for governor, and things are humming at State prohibition headquarters. This week there will be more speakers in the field than ever before at one time and next week there will be a regular whirlwind of oratory and argument all over the State. There will be at least twenty speakers from each county and these will cover every township. The preachers and school teachers are a powerful force for prohibition. On the other side there are very few speakers, but one of these is Hon. Thomas Settle, of Asheville, who is going to speak in the court house here tomorrow and it is rumored, will have one or two assistant speakers on that occasion. The opponents of prohibition are working all over the State, however, wherever they can, and they are spending money too.

Cyclone in Oklahoma

Special to Journal.

Guthrie, Ok., May 11.—The village of Woodward was practically obliterated by a cyclone Sunday night, three people are dead and scores are injured, some of whom may die.

Damage to property is about $25,000.

One half dozen killed, 1947 Negroes freed, with property valued from $10 to $2500. J. O. Dutton, Leading Man

PLEASE SETTLE

It is very unpleasant for me to be compelled to ask you to settle your account with me.

It is an utter impossibility for me to continue to do business on promises.

Houses from whom I buy will not take promises in settlement of my account with them.

Is this plain enough?
