Like Taking Candy From a Baby—New Bern Boys Show Up Splendidly

A large crowd assembled at the Athletic Park yesterday, to see the game of ball between the New Bern and the A. & M. Colleges. The reputation that the visitors had made, gave reason to many to believe that the game would be close. There was, therefore some disappointment to see dumb playing on the part of the visitors instead of good head work. The spectators were greatly pleased at the work of the local team and believe they will show their opponents in the league that they are all that has been claimed for them. The infield is remarkably fast, and they play together perfectly, and they showed that they will put up a stiff game no matter what happens.

We do not care to go into details of the game. It was lead pipe clinch for New Bern.

At no time after the second inning was there any doubt as to the best team. The A. & M. went to pieces in the second inning, making so many errors that it looked ridiculous on paper. The pitcher was changed and after that the visitors were not hit so hard, but they kept on making errors.

Following is the score by innings:

JEFFERSON DAVIS BIRTHDAY

The Confederate Veterans Guests of Honor—Eloquent Sketch of Life of The Dead Confederate President—The Address by Hon. Larry I. Moore—Songs Tenderly Sung.

The local chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy made this year a memorable one in their annual gathering to the Confederate Veterans. Instead of July Fourth, June third was made the day, the change being made to commemorate the one hundredth anniversary of the birthday of Jefferson Davis. The usual annual dinner was the occasion for the gathering in the new and large brick warehouse of J. J. Wolfenden, near the Trent river and next to the N. & S. Ry Company's warehouse. The Daughters had appropriately decorated the interior of the lower floor of the warehouse with Confederate flags and bunting, and green branches.

At one o'clock the Veterans marched into the warehouse, and were greeted by a chorus from the Daughters of "Carolina," and as the Veterans filed in they were shown to seats at two long tables. Mr. James W. Biddle presided, and as soon as all were seated presented Mrs. R. A. Damon, who recited most beautifully, that touching poem, "The Old Confed."—Rev. W. A. Ayers was introduced and offered prayer, after this the Daughters took an active part, and brought forth a most beautiful dinner of such substantial, as barbecue, beef, chicken, corn bread and light bread, biscuits, pickles, lemon-ade, Pepsi-Cola, ice cream and many kinds of fine cake. To all these good things full and ample justice was done. The dinner finished, cigars were passed around to the Veterans, and as the cigars were lighted, Mr. Biddle, in a brief speech, spoke of the day, the observance of it in memory of their great President and Chief, Jefferson Davis, and presented Larry I. Moore, Esq., the speaker of the day, who paid eloquent tribute to the memory of the only President of the Southern Confederacy. In brief Mr. Moore said: No occasion gave him more pleasure than this, reviewing the life of Jefferson Davis. His life was closely interwoven with Confederate history. No man had been more faithful to a principle. His early life was largely military, followed by a quiet social period, then an election to Congress, where he met and debated with the great men of intellect that made the fort's note-worthy in this respect. Service in the war with Mexico, followed by an appointment from Mississippi to the United States Senate. Bold and fearless, he was ever opposed to compromise, and his stand for States' rights, the principles involved, were the same at the time when he made his great speech, resigning his seat in the Senate, to join his State and share the fortunes of his people, in their secession. Secretary of War in President Pierce's cabinet, was one of the honors shown him. After the war, his ill treatment as a prisoner, provoked no animosity in his nature. He recognized it as coming from individuals, and not sanctioned by the Federal government. The removal of his remains from New Orleans to Richmond, showed in the crowds that met the train bearing the remains, the affection of the South for Jefferson Davis.

The speaker was given close attention and frequently applauded.

"Tenting Tonight" sung by Rev. Mr. Garth and chorus, followed the address. Commander Wolfenden, said there had been a discussion at the annual meeting of the New Bern Camp, concerning the Daughters, and said Mr. Alfred Gaskins would speak of the matter. Mr. Gaskins said, the Camp had voted a resolution of heartfelt thanks to the Daughters, for their ever thoughtful kindness and attention to the Veterans, both on these annual gatherings and upon other occasions. Mr. David Brinson, quoted a few lines of appreciation of the Daughters. There was another song, and the Veterans gave three Cheers for the President of the Daughters, ending with the Rebel Yell.

No gathering has been more enjoyable than that of June third. There were here in the space of many Veterans, as some of the old songs were sung. A few more songs of great Old W. T. Cain, being sung. As on many previous yearly gatherings Mr. R. H. Givens had the instrumental in charge, and it was fine.

THAT ROARING BLIND TIGER

Will Stallings Held Under $1,000 Bond For Appearance in Superior Court

The case of Will Stallings, who was arrested Tuesday for selling liquor without a license was heard before Justice Barrington, having been transferred to him by Magistrate Hines by whom the warrant was issued. There was some quibbling because the warrant was imperfectly drawn up, but the court decided the objections would not stand. The evidence was so strong against him that he was put under $1,000 bond for appearance in criminal court next week. He was unable to furnish the bond and went to jail.

Connected with the case, Mr. Duffy Dennis was bound over to court as witness and he may have to answer to the charge of perjury.

The attorneys in this case were, for the prosecution, R. B. Nixon and Lon J. Moore, and for the State, D. E. Henderson. The liquor taken seems to have been put up with due respect to the pure food law, having labels establishing that fact. There were a number of bottles in evidence.

Washington, D. C., June 3.—While the fate of Taft, Roosevelt, Hughes, and the others seems to be in doubt as to the presidential nominations, it is quite certain that the choice of the Republican convention at Chicago, will choose Senator Colliver, of Iowa for vice-president without much if any opposition. He is a strong favorite in the middle West and Eastern and Western delegations can be made to adopt his cause.

He has been endorsed by the Republicans of Missouri.

Lost—Mrs. Gould's Gowns

Philadelphia, June 3.—Efforts are being made to recover two valuable gowns, the property of Mrs. Frank Gould, which were lost, it is believed, during a motor car trip between here and Jersey City yesterday.

Mrs. Gould was here last week to attend the horse show. Yesterday she decided to return to New York in her automobile. On top of the big machine was placed a large box containing, among other things, a frock of gray broad-cloth and a chiffon gown of Copenhagen blue.

When Jersey City was reached after rather a bumpy ride, the box was missing. Inquiry made in all the towns through which the motor car passed has failed to reveal any trace of the missing frocks.

Raleigh, N. C., June 3.—A Craig Club has been formed here and some very active work is being done in his interest. The Home managers expect to get a majority of the Wake vote for their man. This county has 24 votes. The Kitchen men say they expect him to lead Craig in the county.

This afternoon there were exercises at the Soldiers Home in the Chapel in honor of the centennial of the birthday of Jefferson Davis. The Daughters of the Confederacy were present together with a number of the veterans from the city and all the inmates of the Home except those unable to leave the hospital. There was music by special choir. The address was delivered by Thomas W. Mason, of Northampton county, who is easily one of the best speakers in the State, and who did full justice to his great subject. Prayer and benediction by Rev. A. D. Betts who was chaplain 30th North Carolina Regiment. Mrs. Horace Dowell sang.

The body of Paul Dunn was buried here today. One of his brothers, who went from Fayetteville to Lexington, Va., where the young man was drowned Saturday, and joined in the search for the body. Young Dunn was an artist and it is thought he might have gone up the stream intending to do some painting. It is one fork of the James river and is not large. Mr. Dunn thinks that his brother rode up a mill race and into the river, there being a dam just below, and the sudden rains having raised the streams, making it stronger than he expected it to be so that the boat was washed over the dam and he and Lee Sutton drowned.

At the State Fair grounds work is in progress on 80 more stalls for animals and on a machinery shed, two hundred and fifty feet by eighty feet.

The substitutes are all pitchers, and are Rook's, Barrett, Brandon, Shepherd, and Stevens. The umpire at this opening game will be Mr. Henderson. If Governor Glenn gets back here from Washington, he will pitch the first ball and Mayor Johnson will catch it. The Raleigh team will have the honor of playing the first game at Wilmington's new athletic park.

Next Saturday the team will play the Trinity College team, and there will be quite a large excursion of students and of Durham people.

Mr. A. Cannon, of Transylvania county, member of the Board of Agriculture, here attending its meetings, says that the prospects for crops in the mountains sections are as good as he ever saw. The farmers are doing better work than ever, and that the progress in the manner and methods of doing farm work in the west made during the past five years is the greatest he ever saw anywhere. The farmers are beginning to use scientific methods. The grain crop is fine and there will be 90 per cent of a full crop. As to fruit, he says there will be about 40 per cent of a full crop.

CANDIDATE KITCHIN'S MEETING

He Addresses a Large Crowd at The Court House

Congressman W. W. Kitchin arrived from Vanceboro last night and for the second time within a few days made an address in the interest of his gubernatorial campaign at the court house. He announced his beliefs and policies strongly reiterating his position on the railroads and trusts. He also took occasion to answer diverse letters that have been directed to him through the papers. There was a large number of people, and much applause and enthusiasm, and all who heard him were impressed with his arguments.

At the court house, last night, Dr. Francis Duffy, was to have introduced the Hon. W. W. Kitchin to the audience, but owing to a death in Dr. Duffy's family, he could not be present. The following introduction had been prepared, and was read:

Follow Citizens: Ladies and Gentlemen:

I have the honor of presenting to you the speaker of this occasion, the Hon. W. W. Kitchin, which is necessary only as a formality belonging to ceremonial routine. His face may not be familiar to many, but his name is on almost every voice. His acts, which owing to his youth, do not extend beyond recent years, are part of the political history of North Carolina and of the Nation. It may be truthfully said of those acts, that there is not one of which he has any reason to be ashamed; or any patriotic, unselfish North Carolinian any reason to disapprove. His personal constitution is not of that negative kind which gains adherents by indecision and passiveness, but bold and aggressive, he stands for something and that something is determined by a brilliant intellect, a fervent judgment and a God-given conviction.

In a contest in our own political ranks, between distinguished patriotic North Carolinians, it would be inconceivable to say we esteem him more for the sentiments that have been made known to us, but I hope we may be permitted to say without offense, that we do not love him less. More and more, day by day, it is apparent that no general people are his enemies. It seems the political great ones to be so following had more sense, so we love the more like the people in W. W. Kitchin.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED

On Resignation of Dr. Geo. T. Winston—New President To Be Elected July 23rd.

Special Correspondence.

Raleigh, N. C., June 3.—The following text of the resolutions submitted today, and adopted by the Executive Committee of the trustees of the Agricultural & Mechanical College here: "The Board of Trustees of the North Carolina College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, in accepting the resignation of President George T. Winston, parts with this able administrative officer with regret and esteem. Under his management for nine years the College has steadily grown in numbers, in power and in popularity. The voluntary retirement from active service of so profound a scholar and so broad minded and progressive a man is a serious loss to the educational forces of the State. For thirty years Dr. Winston has stood for that which is best in American scholarship and in American ideals. His accurate learning, his ability, amounting to genius, his enthusiasm for the attainment of his ends, to the advancement of learning and to the uplifting of young men. Since he entered the teaching profession in early manhood he has been foremost in advocating whatever was most progressive and most liberal in State education, in university training, and in scientific, technical and industrial training through systematic instruction. His enthusiasm for his chosen work has kindled in many others a desire to labor for the upbuilding in North Carolina of an educational system worthy of the State and its people. The Board wishes for the retiring president many years of honor and useful devotion to public welfare.

Governor Glenn and the executive committee of the College, after conference have decided upon July 23rd as the date for the meeting of the whole College Board of Trustees. This will be held in the governor's office and then the president to succeed Dr. Winston will be chosen. All communications in regard to this matter should be addressed to Mr. W. H. Ragan, at High Point.
