Have You Seen Over The New Bridge?

The passenger trains of the Norfolk & Southern Railway are now operated over the new Albemarle Sound bridge the longest continuous railway bridge over navigable waters in the world.

The running time of trains No. 1 and 2, between New Bern and Norfolk, will be reduced one hour, commencing Jan. 24th.

TRAFFIC ACROSS
SOUND BRIDGE

Opening of Traffic Across the Albemarle Sound Bridge. Time Saving Schedule.

Beginning Sunday, Jan. 24, greatly improved and new time-saving schedules will be inaugurated by the Norfolk & Southern Railway, when all trains will be operated over the magnificent new 28,000-foot bridge, spanning the beautiful and placid Albemarle Sound, between historic Edenton, N. C., and Mackay's Ferry. This the dream of the pioneer managers of the Norfolk & Southern Railway and all North Carolina is realized in the connecting up of this system by the completion of this million dollar structure.

For years passenger and freight cars have been transferred back and forth between Edenton and Mackay's Ferry by the faithful old steamer "John W. Garrett", which now gives place to the longest continuous bridge across navigable waters in the world.

The time required for a passenger train to pass over the bridge is only twenty eight (28) minutes, a saving of one hour and thirty two minutes. Even a greater saving is accomplished in the movement of freight trains. Forty (40) minutes is consumed by a sixty (60) car freight train in passing from bank to bank an actual saving of eight (8) hours and twenty minutes, representing in many cases a whole day's earlier delivery.

For million feet of lumber; one thousand and car loads of cypress piles; two hundred and fifty carloads of steel and a trainload of spikes and bolts were required in the construction of this over-head railway. The piles are all in excess of seventy feet in length, the longest being ninety five feet. These piles are driven at a slight angle into the bed of the Sound forty to sixty five feet, braced and bound firmly together at the top. No other fact is needed to give assurance as to the stability of the structure. At high tide the deck of the bridge is thirteen feet two inches above the water.

There are two large draw and five smaller gas boat spans in the bridge. At the Scherzer Roller Lift draw there is one hundred and forty feet open space and at the swing draw, there is a clearance of thirty five feet on each side of the swing.

Albemarle Sound, contrary to the general impression, is shallow; as placid as a mill-pond, and far enough south to be free from dangerous ice-floes.

The completion of the Albemarle Sound bridge marks a new era in the commercial and industrial development of that section of North Carolina served by the Norfolk and Southern Railway, and places Norfolk, Va. and Suffolk, Va., and all North Carolina in the closest relationship that ever existed between the metropolis of Tidewater Va., the greatest South Atlantic seaport, and the most fertile section of the entire South. Agriculture and commerce must share alike with the Norfolk and Southern Railway in the many advantages to be derived from this new bridge and other extensive improved facilities, costing millions of dollars, thus placed at the disposal of its patrons.

The Norfolk and Southern Railway is a system consisting of six hundred and five miles of track, and has recently been equipped with modern up-to-date passenger coaches of the latest design. The main line extends South from Norfolk and Suffolk, Va., via Elizabeth City and Edenton to Washington, thence west to Raleigh, via Greenville, Farmville, and Wilson. South from Washington the line extends via New Bern to Morehead City and Beaufort, and to Goldsboro via Kingston. In addition to a number of important branch lines the Norfolk and Southern Railway operates a modern Electric line between Norfolk and Cape Henry and Virginia Beach, delightful climate. NERVY THIEF
A SUICIDE.

First Shoots a Jeweler. Failed to Get Loot, Hard Pressed Then Suicides.

New York, Jan. 22.—Frederick Boettcher, a Brooklyn jeweler, was sand-bagged and fatally shot in his store late last afternoon by an unknown man who ended his life by taking a capsule of carbolic acid before he could be locked up. Boettcher identified his assailant as a man who came to his store not long ago and looked at some diamond rings. It was on this plea that the stranger entered today presumably with the intent of robbery.

When the jeweler started to come from behind the counter, the stranger pulled a chamois bag filled with sand and shot from his coat pocket and struck him a crushing blow on the head. As Boettcher reeled the man fired, the ball taking effect behind the jeweler's ear. The shot brought Mrs. Boettcher down from her apartments over the store and the man fled, leaving one revolver in the store and throwing another away as he ran along the street.

Hard pressed by the police, who had been attracted by Mrs. Boettcher's cry, the would-be robber was seen to raise his hand to his lips and swallow hastily. In a moment more he was under arrest and though apparently suffering he walked back to the store where Boettcher identified him as his assailant.

The prisoner was taken to the police station and preparations were being made to search him. He collapsed and died before medical assistance could be summoned. Examination by a surgeon later showed beyond doubt that he had swallowed carbolic acid in capsule form. Nothing was found on the man to indicate his identity. His attempt at robbery was a complete failure.

station yesterday morning that evoked a hearty laugh from all who witnessed it. An old gentleman, who presumably had on his full capacity of "tiger," alighted from the Norfolk & Southern train, bearing in his hand a small jug. In crowding the platform he became engaged in conversation with a friend, and forgetting that he had the article in his hand, along the jug and its contents to the platform, spattering the liquid in every direction.

Through the Chamber of Commerce Mr. J. J. Wolfenden has kindly offered the use of Wolfenden Hall for the ladies meeting in connection with the Farmers Institute to be held in New Bern on next Wednesday, the 26th. It being found necessary to have a separate place for the ladies, to meet, as it is hoped that the court house which has been kindly tendered to the Convention on that date will be filled with farmers from this and adjoining counties. For the benefit of strangers we will state that Wolfenden Hall is located at 103 South Front St. (op stairs). All requested to come to New Bern on that date and hear the lectures by a prominent lady lecturer. It would also be well to bear in mind that now is the time to make purchases at the New Bern stores, where prices are at their very lowest.
