COMING DOWN TO HARD FACTS

It may as well be admitted that there's a little difference in the price of this, that or the other coal-per ton on car or cart. There's a lot of difference in the amount of combustible matter—so much goes up the chimney in smoke, or in the ashpan as clinker, when you burn some coals! That's why we are persistent in the effort to get you to buy the right kind of coal.

WOMAN FIGHTS SAVAGE DOG

Brute Bites Her Twice—Neighbors Hearing Screams, Rescue Mrs. Caswell.

New York Feb. 18.—Attacked by a bull terrier on the roof of the apartment house at No. 218 West One Hundred and Forty-sixth street yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Lena Caswell fought desperately to free herself until neighbors came to her rescue. As Mrs. Caswell opened the door leading to the roof the dog leaped at her throat. Screaming with fright she dropped the clothes basket she was carrying and threw her right arm up to protect herself. The dog sank its teeth in her arm. Fighting with all her strength the woman got dangerously near to the roof edge. Swinging backward, she hurled the dog against a chimney and it released its grip on her arm. As Mrs. Caswell started for the stairway the dog caught her by the left leg. Again it was shaken off only to again leap at her throat.

Aroused by Mrs. Caswell screams, other tenants ran to the roof. Women armed themselves with broomsticks and while some drove the terrier away others helped Mrs. Caswell downstairs. The police of the West One Hundred and Fifty-second street station were notified of a mad dog on the roof, and Patrolman Nieman was sent to kill it. As the policeman opened the door leading to the roof the dog jumped for his throat. Nieman shot it in midair, the bullet lodging in the animal's skull and killing it instantly.

The policeman carried the dog's body to the station house. It will be sent to the Health Board to determine whether or not the brute had rabies. Mrs. Caswell had her wounds cauterized by Dr. Andrus Maxwell of No. 2520 Seventh avenue.

Baldheaded Row

Early Piety Not Always the Cause of Baldness.

Inasmuch as it is an accepted fact that baldness, falling hair and dandruff are caused by a germ, doesn't it stand to reason that the only way to prevent such calamities is to kill the germ?

And doesn't it stand to reason that the only way to kill these germs is to use Parisian Sage, which the Bradham Drug Co. have so much faith in that they guarantee it to cure dandruff, falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks, or money back?

Parisian Sage is a delightful hair tonic and is pleasant to use. It is not sticky or greasy, and contains only those ingredients that will supply health. It is now sold by druggists all over America, and by the Bradham Drug Co. for 50c a large bottle. It is used extensively by women who desire luxuriant hair with a radiant luster. The girl with the Auburn hair is on every package.

SUPERIOR COURT STILL GRINDING

Case of Simmons vs. DeLancey Box Company of Oriental Consumed Yesterday's Session.

At the opening of the session yesterday morning the case of Simmons vs. the DeLancey Box Company which has been pending for some time was called. All during the day testimony was taken and late in the afternoon the counsel began their speeches.

When this report was received they were still arguing the case and it will probably not be concluded until today.

The plaintiff is represented by Messrs R. A. Nunn, and W. D. McIver, while Messrs Simmons, Ward and Allen appear for the defendant.

Today is the last day of the one week session for the trial of civil cases which convened last Monday morning and many of the cases will have to be continued until the next term an account of the exceptionally length trial of the case of Hawk vs. Pine Lumber Company which consumed the first few days of the term.

served in the balcony. The admission to the balcony will be 50 cents.

Local theatre goers are promised a rare treat next Tuesday night in the presentation by Polk Miller and Colonel Tom Booker, of their "Old South" Quartette at the Masonic Theatre. These two old Confederates have been in almost every city and town in this country and at each place have always received a warm greeting on their return engagement. Subscription list now open at Waters' store.

If it had not been for the efficient work of Superintendent W. J. McDonnet, who with several assistants succeeded, after much trouble in connecting the main wire which had been broken in two by the collapsing of the big scaffolding at the post office, the city would have been in darkness the remainder of the night. This was very dangerous as well as tedious work and they deserve much commendation for the set.

There is an obstruction at the corner of Hancock and New streets that at some future time, if not remedied, will doubtless cause some to be seriously if not fatally wounded. Several boards have been placed across a small ditch and the ends of these boards project upward in such a way that it is almost impossible to pass the spot without striking them with the foot. This state of affairs should be remedied at once.

Last night was another record breaker at the Amuses. The pictures shown were up to the standard in excellence and every one was delighted with the performance. The managers of this popular little theatre are always striving to make some improvement in their place that will add to the comfort of their patrons. The theatre is thoroughly heated, and it is a real pleasure to spend an evening there. Don't fail to attend tonight.

Early yesterday morning the force of workmen who are employed in erecting the clock tower on the Federal building began the immense task of clearing away the debris of the former scaffolding that had been blown down the previous night and erecting a new one. The timbers in the former structure were broken and twisted into almost every conceivable shape, and very little of the lumber could be utilized. The new scaffolding will probably be completed today.

A passenger on the train from Pamlico county yesterday morning informed a Journal representative that the storm of the previous night was one of the most terrific that had visited that section in many years. Trees were uprooted, small houses blown down, and many fences were total wrecks, many of them being carried some distance from their proper place. It was impossible to ascertain the velocity of the wind, but it is safe to say that it was at least 50 miles an hour.

To give an illustration of the velocity of the wind Thursday night it would be well to cite an incident that occurred at the Trent river warehouse. Several box cars had been placed on a side track during the early part of the afternoon and were left standing there during the night. Yesterday morning the watchman discovered that the entire roof of one of them had been literally torn from the car and was scattered over the adjacent ground. The roof beams being accurately nailed on had several bolts in it to hold it in position.

THE TUG NINA STILL MISSING

Report That There Were Two Women Aboard Pronounced Improbable at The Navy Yard Here.

Norfolk Va Feb. 18.—A report was in general circulation here today that the wives of two of the missing tug Nina were on board the tug with their husbands when she sailed from Norfolk Navy Yard early Sunday morning, February 8th for Boston.

At the office of the commandant of the Norfolk navy yard this morning it was stated that nothing was known of the presence of women on the Nina when she left here and such a condition was considered to be very unlikely. It could not be said, however, that the presence of the women on the tug when she sailed was impossible, though it was very improbable.

The navy yard reported the scout cruiser Salem and the battleship Louisiana to be still off the Virginia and Maryland coasts today searching for some possible trace of the missing Nina. The Salem and Louisiana are searching in triangular courses from Cape Charles to Fenwick Island Light. It is believed that the search will be abandoned after tonight.

"The White Squaw" Here Soon

The scenes of "The White Squaw" which will be presented at the Masonic Theatre on March 10th, are laid in Michigan at about 1820, one of the most interesting and picturesque periods of American history. The characters in the piece are sharply and graphically drawn and stand as a series of distinct contrasts. The story itself is one rich in heart interest, romance and comedy.

It has to do with a young girl who as a baby was found beside her dead parents by an Indian and who grows to womanhood among the Redskins, believing she is one of them. At the time the story opens she is seen as a woman of eighteen years. From the rise to the fall of the curtain "The White Squaw" is said to be a play throbbing with heart interest and dramatic intensity with plenty of clean, wholesome comedy interspersed to lighten and brighten things.
