GAS KILLS YOUNG COUPLE

Husband Found Across Threshold Whence He Had Tried to Call Aid Before Death.

Brooklyn N. Y., March 1.—Andrew Ashland, a contractor thirty years old and his young wife were found suffocated by illuminating gas in their home No. 747 Forty-first street, Brooklyn, about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. A defective jet in the dinner room had allowed the deadly fumes to escape. The couple had been married about a year.

About 10 o'clock yesterday morning tenants in the house heard someone rapping on a door in one of the ground floor apartments. The sound came fainter in a few minutes and finally ceased. Several of the neighbors investigated, but could not learn the source of this knocking.

Shortly before 5 p. m. George Collins who lives on the second floor, smelled gas when he entered the hall. He broke in the door of the Ashland apartment, lying across the threshold of the dining room door was Ashland; his wife was in the bedroom adjoining. Both were in night clothes. Dr. Fisher of the Norwegian Hospital said they had been dead about eight hours.

The presumption is that Ashland was awakened in the morning by the escaping gas and crawled to the door to summon aid or open the window in the dining room. Realizing that his strength was failing him, he began beating on the door and died while feebly attempting to summon aid.

Delia M. Clarke who is appearing in her own romantic American drama 'The White Squaw,' to be seen here March 10th presents the general idea that the Indian is without gratitude. Miss Clarke spent several months among Indians in Arizona in order to study their ways of living to obtain details for the play. During this time a Squaw was taken ill. Miss Clarke turned nurse and ministered to the woman with the red skin until she had been restored to health. On the day Miss Clarke left the Indians the Squaw came to her and after giving her strings of beads, blankets and things said in her rude language that she wanted to show her gratitude for the pile face's kindness; she was going to give up her husband and allow Miss Clarke to marry him. It is needless to say Miss Clarke declined with thanks.

Bronchial Tubes All Stuffed Up

"While a resident of Washington, D. C., I suffered continually and intensely with a bronchial trouble that was simply terrible to endure. I would have sworn that I could hardly breathe, I would choke up, fill up my throat and bronchial tubes, and the doctoring that I did and the remedies used were of no benefit to me whatever. I heard about Booth's Hyomei being so beneficial in external and bronchial affections and procured an outfit. I received relief from the first by its use. I continued with it and received a cure. It is about two years since I have suffered at all from my former trouble.—Mrs. R. L. Fannell, 404 N. Augusta Street, Stanton, Va. March 26, 1909.

Hyomei is guaranteed by Bradham Drug Co. to cure catarrh, croup, bronchitis, coughs, colds and sore throat in money back.

A complete Hyomei (pronounced High omei) outfit cost $1.00 at druggists everywhere. This includes a hard rubber pocket inhaler and bottle of Hyomei; extra bottles Hyomei cost 50c.

SAVED A SOLDIER'S LIFE.

Facing death from shot and shell in the civil war was more agreeable to J. A. Stone, of Kemp, Tex., than facing it from what doctors said was consumption.
