RATHER OVER MUCH ROOS. EVELT.

Even the most ardent Roosevelt admirer, cannot but feel chagrined at the ex-President's speech at Guildhall on Tuesday, in his comment on England's administration of affairs in Egypt.

Col. Roosevelt was in a semi official capacity and his severe criticism is all the more marked on this account.

Col. Roosevelt was in a semi official capacity and his severe criticism is all the more marked on this account.

The Guildhall speech is a most unhappy ending of Mr. Roosevelt's visit abroad, which up to that time reflected credit upon him and this country.

ROOSEVELT ON MAN'S PROGRESS

Delivers Address at the University of Berlin.

"I COME FROM THE DUTCH."

The World Movement Subject For Former President's Message to Germans—Ironless Age Generations Hence—Great Man Spring From the Poor—What We Need.

Berlin, May 12.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt delivered the following lecture on "The World Movement" at the University of Berlin.

I very highly appreciate the chance to address the University of Berlin in the year that closes its first centenary of existence. It is difficult for you in the old world fully to appreciate the feelings of a man who comes from a nation still in the making to a country with an immortal historic past, and especially in this case when that country, with its ancient past behind it, yet looks with proud confidence into the future and in the present shows all the abounding vigor of lusty youth.

Such is the case with Germany. More than a thousand years have passed since the Roman empire of the west became in fact a German empire. To this ancient land, with its glorious past and splendid present, to this land of many memories and of eager hopes, I come from a young nation which in by blood akin to yet different from each of the great nations of middle and western Europe, which has inherited or acquired much from each, but is changing and developing every inheritance and acquisition into something new and strange.

"I Come from the Dutch."

The German strain in our blood is large, for almost from the beginning there has been a large German element among the successive waves of newcomers whose children's children have been and are being fused into the American nation, and I myself trace my origin to that branch of the Low Dutch stock which branched Holland out of the North sea.

Moreover, we have taken from you not only much of the blood that runs through our veins, but much of the thought that shapes our minds. For generations American scholars have looked to your universities, and, thanks to the wise foresight of his imperial majesty, the present emperor, the intimate and friendly connection between the two countries is now in every way closer than it has ever been before.

Germany is pre-eminently a country in which the world movement of today in all of its multitudinous aspects is plainly visible. The life of this university covers the period during which that movement has spread until it is felt throughout every continent, while its velocity has been constantly accelerating, so that the face of the world has changed and is now changing as never before.

Civilization's Records.

The first civilizations which left behind them clear records rose in that boary historic past which geological is part of the immediate present and which is but a span's length from the present, even when compared only with the length of time that man has lived on this planet.

As far as we can see, they were well nigh independent centers of cultural development, and our knowledge is not such at present as to enable us to connect either with the early cultural movements in southwestern Europe on the one hand or in India on the other or with that Chinese civilization which has been so profoundly affected by Indian influences.

The spread of the European peoples since the days of Ferdinand the Catholic and Ivan the Terrible has been across every sea and over every continent. In places the conquests have been ethnic—that is, there has been a new wandering of the peoples, and new commonwealths have sprung up in which the people are entirely or mainly of European blood.

This is what happened in the temperate and subtropical regions of the western hemisphere, in America, in portions of northern Asia and southern Africa. In other places the conquest has been purely political, the European representatives for the most part merely a small caste of soldiers and administrators, as in most of tropical Asia and Africa and in much of tropical America. Finally here and there instances occur where there has been no conquest at all, but where an alien people are profoundly and radically changed by the mere impact of western civilization.

Japan's Wonderful Growth.

The most extraordinary instance of this, of course, is Japan, for Japan's growth and change during the last half century have been in many ways the most striking phenomenon of our century. Intensely proud of her past history, intensely loyal to certain of her past traditions, she has yet with a single effort, washed herself free from all hampering shackles and with a bound has taken her place among the leading civilized nations of the world.

Pursuing so hopeful, every man of leadership in any line of thought or effort must now look beyond the limits of his own country. The student of history may live in Berlin or in Petersburg, Rome or London, or in any live in Melbourne or San Francisco or Buenos Aires, but he will realize that he is not a man in a world that is not a world.
