OPFITIAL PAPER OF NEW BERN AND CRAVEN COUNTY.

New Bern, N. C. July 7, 1910

USE AND ABUSE OF THE PRIMARY.

The Democratic primary thus solution as being the best method leading to party unity. The primary in its ostensible purpose comes pretty near the ideal in giving individual political freedom. Here can each and every voter find opportunity for personal expression of preference for candidates. The primary seal set upon the proceedings, the voter goes home. looking forward complacently to seeing his political preferences, as embodied in the candidates fully carried out, through county convention and State convention.

But like as not the primary instructions may never see light, in being carried out as per original thought and intention.

The primary has been described as the place where individual exercise of political rights had full sway. This freedom, like other kinds of alleged freedom, often leads to most serious consequences as many have seen developed political quarrels stated at the primary that grew in intensity and bitterness, that made trouble at the State convention, and provoked strife within the party ranks, that was vastly more hurtful to the political success of the candidates at the polls, than all the work of the opposite party.

But after all, political freedom, primary excellence of method for the exercise of individual freedom, must have before other things, honesty in management. If trickery is to be indulged in, no primary can be kept so as to strictly carry out what was the first will of the voter. No series of socalled "political bulwarks of the peo-
