There is a logical reason for the popularity of Uncode Biscuit. Its introduction really marked a food epoch.

Until withis a few years the purchaser of crackers or biscuit had no choice but to buy from an open box or barrel. It they chanced to be clean when they left the barrel, they were more or less broken by the time they had been carried home in a paper bag. They were stale or more so, depending on whether the barrel had been open one day or many.
