OFFICIAL PAPER OF NEW BERN AND CRAVEN COUNTY.

New Bern, N. C., Sept. 15, 1910

STATES AS FIXED POLITICAL ASSETS.

The change of a county office, the defeat of a congressman or senator, is certain to be hailed with acclaim by the political party that wins. The Maine defeat while a democratic victory, yet the greater victory is in the overthrow of a fixed political organization, that mercilessly held that state in political bondage.

Hide bound political conditions, where a machine sets up a ticket to be voted by men whether or not they like the nominees, or equally as bad the ticket is voted blindly, such conditions are political servitude, and breed unwholesome surroundings for the people.

Political immunity from defeat is certain to be the forerunner of bossism that even the down trodden voter will throw off at some time. That inherent feeling of American liberty that demands personal freedom of thought and action will submit at times to the worst forms of political leadership, to machine rule that ties up men, but not for all time.

The present day and present generation has become impatient an "standpatism" another term for the unquestioning acceptance of Cannon-Aldrich-Payne. Political "regularity" in a successful party becomes as irksome and abnoxious, as it does in a party that seeks success.

Maine is not likely to be the only state in the next two years to change from being a fixed political asset for one party. There is a feeling of that late term "insurgency," better expressed, "independent," and this caused the voter to seek for men who are sound politically, a soundness that counts for personal morals and character, and this regardless of party.

Money talks, but what the "cupped" says may not be worth one word.
