Lyceum Course Opens Next Week.

The first number of the lyceum course of attractions which will be given in this city this season will be the Boston Sixtette on next Wednesday night.

The Norfolk landmark under recent date, gave the following account of the "Boston Sixtette":

"The Boston Sixtette" club, under the leadership of Mr. C. L. Staats, the celebrated clarinet virtuoso, made its appearance in Norfolk at the Academy of Music last evening, and scored a great artistic success.

"The audience, in point of numbers, considering the excellence of the program rendered, was not what it should have been, but those in attendance demonstrated fully that Norfolk music lovers thoroughly appreciated the best. There was not a single number on the well arranged program that did not receive full appreciation and honors, which being frequently demanded, were responded to most graciously.

"While it would be a difficult task, indeed, to mention individually the work of the members sixtette, to which credit is due for the success as a whole, it would not be amiss, perhaps, to state that the solo work of Mr. Staats and of Miss Katharine Meloy, soprano, stood out prominently as examples of musical art. The violin solo of Mr. Elmer C. Adams, also came in for a well merited share of applause. In fact so enamored was the audience with the playing of this artist that he was compelled to respond to two encores, his most popular number being "The Rosary," which he played with exquisite skill and appreciation.

"The concert in its entirety, may well be classed as one of the musical events of the season and while it marked the initial appearance of the "Boston Sixtette," it is to be hoped that it will not be the last time this splendid organization is seen in Norfolk."

A Social Evening Tea.

Saturday afternoon from five to six o'clock Miss Caho entertained at an afternoon tea complimentary to Mrs. E. H. Gorham and Miss Mayer. The lower floor was a bower of ferns, palms and Southern smilax.

Misses Jane and Harriett Dill opened the door and the guests were received in the parlor by Miss Caho, Mrs. Gorham and Miss Mayer.

Miss Heath attired in white, invited the guests into the library, where they were greeted by Mrs. Holland, in black net over silk, and Mrs. Sam Dillin gray messaline.

The tea table was presided over by Mrs. Hunter Smith, gowned in yellow messaline, and tea and sandwiches were served by Miss Eva Armstrong, gowned in black net.

Miss Ruth Watson in yellow messaline and peach, led the way to the dining room which was most attractively decorated in yellow and white, the mantle was banked in yellow and white chrysanthemums, while the centerpiece of the table was also yellow and white chrysanthemums evolving by supper.

The tea and conversation furthered the color scheme and were served by Misses Martha Hancock, Jennie Harmon and Miss Turner, all in yellow and white.
