AGED LADY INCINERATED

Mrs. Elizabeth Hall Succumbs to Injuries Yesterday Afternoon.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hall, an aged lady who is well known in this city, succumbed yesterday afternoon to injuries received while she was endeavoring to extinguish a fire on her person Sunday morning.

Mrs. Hall, has been living at Mrs. Kate Thornton's on Queen street. Sunday morning Mrs. Thornton, in company with her two sons attended services at one of the churches and upon their return found Mrs. Hall lying on the floor frightfully burned.

She was at once taken to Stewart's Sanitorium where medical attention was rendered but despite all efforts to save her life she succumbed to her injuries.

It is supposed that while she was sitting in front of the fire she fell asleep and a spark of fire popped out on her skirt and ignited it.

Mrs. O. A. Kafer Entertains

One of the most delightful social events of the season was an oyster roast given last night by Mr. O. A. Kafer in honor of the Girls Friendly Society of Christ Episcopal church.

The interior of the home had been beautifully decorated for the occasion with hundreds of chrysanthemums, and when the guests began to arrive shortly after 8 o'clock the scene that greeted their eyes as they entered was one long to be remembered. Mr. and Mrs. Kafer, assisted by Miss Emma Duffy, greeted the guests and ushered them into the spacious room in the rear of the building where the merry-makers were engaged in dancing. Music for this event was furnished by a skilled orchestra and the participants thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

Immediately after the dancing had ceased the oysters were served and these were thoroughly enjoyed by all. The entire party then repaired to the Victoria theatre where they had graciously invited by Messrs Block and Kaplan the managers.

Each and every one of the guests expressed themselves as having thoroughly enjoyed the evening and voted Mrs. Kafer the most charming of hostesses.

COUNT TOLSTOI PASSES AWAY

Tragic Pilgrimage of Russia's Famous Author and Social Performer Ends in Death.

Astypova, Nov. 21.—At 8:05 Sunday morning Count Leo Tolstoy died peacefully. The Countess Tolstoy, Dr. Makovetky and other attending physicians were at his side when the end came. It was recognized long before that his case was hopeless, and at 5 o'clock in the morning, after the Countess had been summoned and the other members of the family had gathered in an adjoining room, the physicians issued a bulletin announcing that the activity of the heart had almost ceased and that his condition was extremely dangerous.

Several of the physicians were greatly overcome by the approaching death of Russia's great writer.

Tolstoy, accompanied only by Dr. Makovetky, left his home at Yasnaaya, Poliana, for the purpose of ending his days in solitude, to which he more and more inclined during his latter years. His pilgrimage led him to the monastery at Shamardias, in the province of Kaluga, where he remained as the guest of his sister Maria, who is a nun in the cloister.

Learning that his retreat had been discovered, he insisted upon proceeding to the Caucasus, where he hoped to spend his last days close to the Tolianian colony on the shores of the Black Sea.

But during the railroad journey, he was overcome with exhaustion and the cold, and Dr. Makovetky was compelled to have him transferred to the flag station at Astypova, where he was made as comfortable as possible in the rude wooden building.

For five days he had lain there suffering first from bronchitis and later from inflammation of the lungs. Specialists were called from Moscow and other places, but notwithstanding their utmost efforts, the heart of the great Russian responded but feebly to the restoratives and stimulants administered.

On Saturday the attacks of heart failure increased alarmingly, and many hours prior to the end the physicians had given up all hope. Countess Tolstoy was admitted to the sick room for the first time that night, but her husband failed to recognize her. She had hastened to be beside him, when she learned several days ago that his illness was serious, but the physicians had deemed it advisable that she be kept away from the Count, fearing that her presence might cause the patient emotion. Other members of the family were from time to time admitted to the presence of their father, and his daughter, Alexandra, has been in constant attendance.

Complimentary Tea for November Brides.

One of the loveliest and most artistic affairs ever given in New Bern, was the reception, by Mrs. Monroe Howell, yesterday afternoon, from four to six o'clock, at her home on Johnson street.

The reception was complimentary to Miss Elizabeth Ellis, Miss Elizabeth Burris and Miss Kate Pendleton, the November-bride elect. The house was beautiful in a profusion of palms, ferns, chrysanthemums and unshaded white candles.

The parlor was exquisite in yellow and white decorations and the dining room in autumn leaves. Misses Ruth Howell and Grace Allmoner opened the door to the guests and they were cordially greeted in the hall by Mrs. J. T. Hollister, who was beautifully gowned in black marquisette over white satin. The charming hostess, clad in a handsome velvet gown, received her guests in the parlor, assisted by Miss Ellis, in an exquisite, hand-embroidered robe over-sailed by chiffon, with pearl and rhinestone ornaments. Miss Burris wore a lovely robe of Persian, draped in yellow marquisette and caught with hand-made roses. Miss Pendleton was gowned in a lovely white embroidered outfit.

Mrs. D. L. Ward, in black gown over a blue silk robe, and Mrs. Hollister in yellow and white mall velvet, led the guests into the dining room, where they were received by Miss Hannah in white dress gown and Miss Tedia Hollister, in white silk.

Delicious ice cream and cake was served by Misses Martha Hannah, Sarah and Sophie Hollister.

Miss Emma Moore, wearing a gown of pink silk, led the way to the room where the health toast was given in a beautiful and appropriate manner.

SHOT WOUND PROVES FATAL

Victim Passed Away at Stewart's Sanitorium Sunday Afternoon.

Several days ago Mr. Noah Harther, a citizen of Chowan county, N. C. was attacked by two negro highwaymen near Oriental, and during the encounter received a shot wound in his head.

He was picked up and carried to Oriental, from which place he was later brought to this city and placed in the Stewart Sanitorium for treatment.

It was seen from the fact that the wounded man had only a slight chance for recovery, as the wound was of a serious nature, but everything possible was done for him by the nurses and physicians. Sunday morning, however, it was seen that the end was not far off, and at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon his soul took its flight into its Maker's hands.

A search has been instituted for the negroes who committed the crime but up to the present time they are still at large.

The coroner's jury met last night to hold an inquest over the body, but on account of the lack of several witnesses the coroner thought it best to postpone this until they could be secured.

Cotton Contracts Valid.

A case was tried in the term of Superior Court just closed that is of especial interest to growers and buyers of cotton, as it establishes the validity of contracts to sell cotton for future delivery. The case prevails more or less in the cotton belt for farmers to make contracts in the spring to sell their cotton in the fall at a specified price. It is remembered that last year much cotton was sold in this way, and the price advanced several cents between the time of making the contract and the time of delivery. There were many farmers who refused to make delivery of the cotton as contracted. In some instances suits were allowed against the seller for the difference in the price of the cotton at the time of making the contract and the time it should have been delivered. It was one of these cases that was tried, entitled H. A. Gray vs. Verne Cannon, and the verdict of the jury was in favor of the plaintiff, judgment being rendered against the defendant for the difference in the price of the cotton. Greenville Herald.

Jarvis' corsetiere will demonstrate the Bon-Ton and Royal Worcester corset one week beginning Nov. 21st.

GOVERNOR ISSUES PROCLAMATION

Thursday, November 21st Set Aside as a Day of Thanksgiving.

Governor W. W. Kitchin has issued the following Thanksgiving Proclamation:

"During the past year peace and order have prevailed in our state and we have had plentiful harvests and great material progress, for all of which we should be duly thankful. A state so more than an individual, should live by bread alone, and we should likewise be thankful for the support of knowledge and the quickening of the public mind which has been vouchsafed to us.

Therefore, I William W. Kitchin of North Carolina, in presence of my wife and in accordance with law, do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 21st, 1910, a day of Thanksgiving, to be observed throughout the State by the people of North Carolina, and I do hereby thank God for the mercies which have been vouchsafed to the people of North Carolina and to the State of North Carolina.
