Whether harat of "the terror" was a veterinary surgeon or a fashlonable physician is a point—which historians have carnestly debated. Some light in thrown upon it by the memorrs of the papal envoy of the period, who was one of his patients, and reports as follows:

He prescribed for me some medicine which would have killed me if the celebrated chemist of the Rue Jacob had been willing to give it to me. I see well enough, he said, that this is no medicine for you; it is medicine for a horse, it recognize the doctor's signature; he is mad. Apparently Marat had mistaken me for one of his patients at the stable at which he was a physician."

Teaching a Dog.

For best results one abound get a young dog and teach him his future duties gradually. Never allow him to leave the homestend alone and you will never have a dog that strays.

Never chain your dog. That is not necessary. Teach him his proper place and make him obey you upon gesture or word and he will not overstep his lines. Treat him like a brother, give him his food and cool water regularly and be kind to him at all times and you will have a noble animal.—Rural Life.

A Cent.

A cent is a little thing, but in the aggregate it is mighty. We speak of the "copper cent," but it is not entirely capper. Its composition is 95 per cent copper, 3 per cent tin and 2 per cent gipe. That alloy is in reality bronze, and the official name of the cent is "bronze." There used to be a copper cent, but an act discontinuing its coinage was passed in 1857. For seven years (1857.64) we had a nikel cent years (1857-64) we had a nickel cent and up to 1857 a copper half cent.

GREAT THOUGHTS.

If a thought be really great it may live through mar ages, stirring gen-eration after generation. The echo of a great physical convulsion dies quickly, but the echo of the words of Confucius and Buddha, of Plato, of Confucius and Buddha, of Plato, Seneca and Christ, still lives. The voice of Socrates before his judges kindles men whose uncestors were savages when Socrates spoke. Buldings decay, rivers run dry, races decline, but a great thought suffers from no impairment; it has the gift of immortal youth and strength.—Orlando J. Smith.

YOUR LEARNING.

Wear your learning, like your watch, in a private pocket and do not pull it out and strike it merely to show that you have one. If you are asked what o'clock it is, tell it, but do not proclaim it hourly and unasked like the watchman.
