FIGHT AGAINST MORMONISM

On Increase in European Countries Efforts to Stem Growth of Mormon Propaganda.

London, April 17.—Almost hourly the crusade against Mormonism throughout the United Kingdom and Europe augments its forces with writers, religious teachers and artists, who, now that the campaign against Mormonistic propaganda is well under way, wish to join hands with those sworn in to stamp out this creed on European soil.

Foremost among those who are fighting the spread of Mormonism in England and Europe is Winifred Graham, the English novelist, who electrified the public with her book, "Exe, the Mormon," which embodies a violent attack upon the creed. Miss Graham, in an article published in a London paper, makes the assertion that she has positive information leading her to believe that there are now well over 40,000 converts in the United Kingdom alone, and that proselytism is rapidly spreading throughout Europe where the golden future painted by the Mormon missionaries greatly appeals to the poor, peasant girls. Miss Graham claims that if the spread of this creed is not stopped it will entail its invidious doctrine into the homes of England and work havoc with the established order of Christianity. She says:

"What we want is a great meeting to expose the wretched, ghostly hypocrisy under which the Mormon missionaries work. But the English people are very hard to stir, even when the case is as tragic as this is."

Another writer, under an anonymous title, claims that there were over 4,000 converts to the Mormon faith during the past year, and that the Mormons are augmenting their missionary force with teachers imported from Utah, the home of the faith.

INSURRECTOS SUFFER SEVERELY

In Trying to Rescue Prisoners From Federals, Who Lose Few Men.

Chihuahua, Mexico, April 17.—Forty or more insurgents were killed and over 100 wounded in a battle fought between Saut and Santa Clara Canyon, about 50 miles north of here, according to Federal couriers. The couriers brought orders to have hospital cars ready for the Federal wounded. The Federals report five killed, but later developments are expected to change the figures. A number of women and children are believed to be among the killed.

Coming across from Casas Grandes on their way to Chihuahua with prisoners under Gen. Luis Valdez, the Federals, followed by about 100 refugees, were attacked.

Five hundred insurgents under Gen. Eraso Orozco and Villa had been instructed by Francisco Madero to head off the Casas Grandes contingent and if possible capture and release the prisoners.

The fight occurred on a hacienda as the prisoners, shackled together by ropes, and the women and children refugees, weary from the long tramp, were scattered in a long, broken line. The Federals immediately responded with heavy firing and placed the prisoners and non-combatants under protection. The fighting continued for several hours, and resulted in the sending north from here of General Rabago with 500 reinforcements.

The extent of the fight became known when riderless horses arrived here with evidences of having left the front in a stampede. So far as is known, none of the prisoners, among whom are believed to be many Americans, was wounded, and none escaped, although these statements are based on unofficial reports.

PARDONED AFTER 42 YEARS

Imprisonment, Brigand Chief Robbed Rich and Spared The Poor.

Roma, April 17.—Alfonso Carbone, a famous Italian brigand, whose exploits nearly half a century ago terrorized the mountain villages of Avellino and whose sentence of death was commuted to penal servitude for life, has just been pardoned after forty-two years' imprisonment. Carbone proved himself a model convict.

His story was one of romance. As head of a lawless gang who lived by brigandage, he had sworn vengeance against the law for the life sentence passed on his brother, and when only twenty he joined the band of the celebrated brigand Pico, whose place he filled as chief on Pico's death. His reckless daring and chivalry in refusing to pillage the weak had gained for him a certain popularity among the rude and scattered population of his native province.

Carbone leaves his captivity, a white-haired and gentle old man with a soft voice, mild eyes, the opposite in all respects of what would be expected from his calling. Interviewed, he asked that a veil might be drawn over the past "I have always been an honest man," he said, "and those memories are painful. I never hurt a woman or child and I was once a youth full of life and hope, with a good future before me."

One day Carbone's gang held up a commercial traveller who had $5,000 in his portfolio. The captive begged with tears for the sake of his wife and child that he might not be deprived of his all. Carbone had him set at liberty and refused to take a cent. On the same expedition his men fell in with a well known baron whose ransom cost him $50,000.
