Facts for Weak Women
 Nine-tenths of all the sickness of women is due to some derangement or disease of the organs distinctly feminine. Such sickness can be cured—it is cured every day by

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription
It Makes Weak Women Strong, Sick Women Well.

It acts directly on the organs affected and is at the same time a general restorative tonic for the whole system. It cures female complaint right in the privacy of home. It makes unnecessary the disagreeable questioning, examinations and local treatment so universally insisted upon by doctors, and so abhorred to every modest woman.

We shall not particularize here as to the symptoms of those peculiar affections incident to women, but those wanting full information as to their symptoms and means of positive cure are referred to the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser—1008 pages, newly revised and up-to-date Edition, sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only or, in cloth binding for 31 stamps.

ROYAL ETIQUETTE.
 In England It Assumes a Number of Curious Phases.

THINGS THE KING CANNOT DO
 He is Barred From Accepting Gifts From Individuals, He Must Not Belong to a Club and May Not Marry Without Parliament's Consent.

It may sound a little curious, but there are quite a number of things that, despite his exalted position as sovereign of the realm, King George V. cannot do. These disabilities range over all sorts of matters and concern etiquette, politics, religion and law. To begin with etiquette, it is an established practice that his majesty must never call upon or grant an audience to a foreign monarch except in the presence of a responsible minister. Etiquette also precludes him from accepting a gift which a loyal subject may wish to make him. Should, however, the gift be a joint offering the prohibition does not apply. This enables King George to accept gifts which are subscribed for by a number of people together.

A king never writes a letter to anybody outside his family circle. All other correspondence has to be conducted through one of his secretaries. Nor does King George accept invitations to dine or stop with a subject. What he does when he wishes to pay such a visit is to invite himself. Another strictly observed point of etiquette is that on ascending the throne a king shall withdraw from any club to which he has hitherto belonged. Similarly he cannot become a Free Mason, and if it happens to be one at the date of his accession he must resign from the craft. King George, however, has not been initiated.

Even in affairs of the heart a sovereign must bow to the will of others. Although King Cophetua might have loved and shared his throne with a beggar maid, the royal marriage act would render the occurrence of any such romantic union impossible in England. Members of the blood royal must have the sanction of parliament before they can marry, and this would certainly not be accorded unless the birth and position of the lady were beyond reproach.

An English king's position toward the law is somewhat peculiar. Theoretically he is above the law. In practice, however, he has to obey it, just as have his subjects. He must observe the established legal system of the country. Any royal proclamation which he issues is only binding in so far as it is founded upon an existing law. It cannot alter the common law or create a new offense, nor can a king set up private tribunals, such as the star chamber, or add to the jurisdiction of a court. By a special act of parliament it has also been decided that if his majesty were to lose an action brought against him by the revenue authorities he would be liable for the payment of costs.

By the law of the land the king cannot possibly commit an offense. Any injury or wrong suffered by a subject at his hands has to be attributed to the "mistake of his advisers," hence it happens that King George is the only person in Great Britain who cannot arrest a suspected felon, even if such a one were to be seen by him entering Buckingham palace or Windsor castle. The reason for this is because no action for wrongful arrest could lie against him, and therefore if the person arrested by him were proved innocent there would then be a wrong without a remedy. Another legal disability of the king is that he is barred of all rights in matters relating to land after a lapse of sixty years. He is also prohibited from serving on a jury or from giving evidence.

Until so comparatively recent a period as 1870 if a subject were convicted of treason or felony the king could claim his property. Another lapse prerogative of the crown is one known as "corody." During its existence a king who wanted to advance the interests of a royal chaplain could confer a bishopric upon such a clergyman until a benefice had been found for him. Nowadays he has not even the right of founding a bishopric or creating ecclesiastical jurisdiction. Similarly he must always be a member of the Church of England and cannot change his religion.

The theory that the king "reigns, but does not govern" is amply borne out by the political system of the country. While the members of parliament are his majesty's "faithful commons," they have certain privileges which he himself does not possess. Thus King George can summon or prorogue parliament at will, but he cannot prolong it beyond a definite period. Similarly he is absolutely barred from imposing any sort of taxation whatever without first securing the consent of parliament. No jealously guarded privilege that a king cannot create new officers with new fees or annex new fees to existing offices, as such a course would be considered as imposing a fresh tax. In bygone times, however, when an English monarch was in want of funds he would levy taxes right and left and without asking anybody.

The franchise does not extend to English monarchs. King George is one of the few men possessing a genuine stake in the country without the privilege of recording a vote—London Beitman.

God pays, but not every Saturday—Alphonse Karr.

PARTISANS OF WAR AND PEACE.

The visit of the Japanese Admiral Togo to this country, presents the side of war as against the side of peace, as represented by President Taft. Success in any pursuit naturally makes one favor it to the exclusion of others. The press dispatches say that Admiral Togo does not look with favor as to the end of all wars on the basis of arbitration. His is the settlement plan by arms. Opportunity and his ability gave the Japanese Admiral the chance to win a name, and the future from the battleship's decks is his idea of world's progress, the strongest navy is to determine national boundaries, and serve to force the settlement of differences between peoples.

But the world's trend is against immense armies and navies. National disputes today have commercial issues, and each must be settled by business methods. England, France, the United States stand pledged for peace, and as these nations stand firm, the rest of the world must follow peace line settlements, instead of employing men to destroy lives and property as the basis to determine property rights.

Admiral Togo will no doubt look upon this country as he travels about as its guest, with an eye as to its fighting strength. If this be his sole gain, his visit is in vain, for any man however his capacity and judgment will err, if he thinks to know the United States from a few days' rush thro' a portion of it. Admiral Togo can learn much for his country's good from the industrial side of this country, and this knowledge can be more profitably applied than measuring up this country as a possible antagonist in war.

LIFE SAVED AT DEATH'S DOOR.
 "I never felt so near my grave," writes W. R. Patterson, of Wellington, Tex., as when a frightful cough and lung trouble pulled me down to 100 pounds, in spite of doctor's treatment for two years. My father, mother and two sisters died of consumption, and that I am alive today is due solely to Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me. Now I weigh 187 pounds and have been well one strong for years." The Exceptional Young Man.
 The exceptional young man, says Orison Sweet Marden in Success Magazine, is the one who looks upon his employer's interests as he would his own, who regards his vocation as an opportunity to make a man of himself, the stuff he is made of, and who is always preparing himself to fill the position above him.

The exceptional young man is the one who never says, "I was not paid to do that," "I don't get salary enough to work after hours or to take so much pains." He never leaves things half done, but does everything to a finish.

The exceptional young man is the one who studies his employer's business, who reads his literature, who is on the watch for every improvement which others in the same line have adopted and which his employer has not, who is always improving himself during his spare time for larger things.

TORTURED FOR 15 YEARS.
 By a cure-defying stomach trouble that baffled doctors, and resisted all remedies he tried, John W. Mosley, of Modesto, Mich., seemed doomed. He had to sell his farm and give up work. His neighbors said, "he can't live much longer." "Whatever I ate distressed me," he wrote, "I tried Electric Bitters, which worked such wonders for me that I can now eat things I could not take for years. Its surely a grand remedy for stomach trouble." Just as good for the liver and kidneys. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50c. at all druggists.

Kinging Ethel.
 She was fashionably dressed and gave out the perfume of violets as the brakeman turned to help her up the steps of the train which was due to leave. Turning to her maid, she said: "Oh, I must kiss Ethel good-by." "Oh, go on," said the free, brakeman. "I'll kiss Ethel good-by." "No, you won't either," came from the woman. "That precious dog was never kissed by a stranger in her whole life!"—Yonkers Statesman.

GRANULATED SORE EYES CURED.
 "For twenty years I suffered from a bad case of granulated sore eyes," says Martin Boyd of Henrietta, Ky. "In February, 1908, a gentleman asked me to try Chamberlain's Salve. I bought one box and used about two-thirds of it and my eyes have not given me any trouble since." This salve is for sale by all dealers.

WHY SHE COULDN'T.
 The elder Booth, the tragedian, had a broken nose. A woman friend once remarked to him, "I like your acting very much, Mr. Booth, but to be perfectly frank with you I can't get over your nose!"
 "No wonder, madam," replied Booth; "the bridge is gone."
SEEMED TO GIVE HIM A NEW STOMACH.
 "I suffered intensely after eating and no medicine or treatment I tried seemed to do any good," writes H. M. Young, Editor of The Sun, Lake View, Ohio. "The first few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets gave me surprising relief and the second bottle seemed to give me a new stomach and perfectly good health." For sale by all Dealers.

A Sixtus V. Salad.
 When Pope Sixtus V. was an obscure monk he had a great friend in a certain lawyer who sank steadily into poverty while the monk rose to the papacy. The poor lawyer journeyed to Rome to seek aid from his old friend, the pope, but he fell sick and told his doctor to let the pope know of his sad state. "I will send him a basket of lettuce to the invalid. When the lettuce was examined money was found in the hearts; hence the Italian proverb of a man in need of money. He wants one of Sixtus V.'s salads."

When the operator gives you the "busy" report it does not necessarily mean that some one is talking over the telephone called. The line may be busy when there is no one in office or house, when there is no possible way for the telephone to be actually in use.

It may be that some one is trying to call the same telephone, and should you or any one else call at the same time the operator would get the "busy" signal and so report. Oftentimes servants use the telephone or answer calls when no member of the family is at home, and in such cases the "busy" report is given.

The line is "busy" on a duplex station if either telephone on the line is in use. The line is "busy" on a straight line telephone when the extension station is in use.

The "busy" report is a source of annoyance to many telephone users who do not understand that the line can be busy if any one is trying to get the number, even if it is known that there is nobody at home.

We'd like to have you bear these things in mind, particularly during these hot months, when all of us are annoyed by the heat and easilyasperated.

We are taking proper precautions to make our service as near perfect as possible. Our operators are conversant with you.
