A PERSONAL CHECKING ACCOUNT.

MANY business men find it important and even necessary to have a personal account subject to check in addition to their regular account of their firm or business connection. It is a good plan for everybody to have a personal account in which all money received is deposited and from which all payments for personal expenses are made by drawing personal checks. In this way, a complete record of individual income and expenses may be kept without the trouble of having a bank account.

FEDERAL COURT HAS ADJOURNED

Jury Discharged Late Yesterday Afternoon. Civil Cases Continued Until Next Term.

After four days' of marked activity, Federal Court, which has been in session in this city since last Tuesday for the trial of criminal cases came to a close late yesterday afternoon and the jury was discharged.

Practically the entire session yesterday was consumed with the case of the U. S. vs James Carter and W. E. Rouse, of Richlands, Onslow county, charged with aiding and abetting in the operation of an illicit distillery. The jury returned a verdict of guilty and Carter was sentenced to a term of 18 months in the Federal prison at Atlanta and fined $500 and the costs of the case. Rouse was sentenced to a term of 6 months in the county jail and fined $240 and the costs of the case, the jail sentence to be omitted if the fine and costs were paid within 30 days.

Allan Harrington, of Vanceboro, found guilty of retailing, was given an opportunity of changing his ways. The Judge allowed him to return to his home upon the condition that he report at the next term of Federal Court and show that he had been conducting himself properly.

The case of the State vs. Fred Brandt, charged with selling postage stamps, was transferred to Wilmington.

Last Night's Concert.

Music lovers enjoyed a rare treat last night in hearing the Metropolitan Concert Company at Griffin auditorium. There was a good sized audience, and measured by enthusiasm it was a very large one. This company was here last year and added to their reputation on their return. Where every thing was good it may seem needless to distinguish any part, but Frederick Martin, the basso in the final part, in "Robin Goodfellow" gave the utmost satisfaction and enjoyment. The company is a quartette and a piano accompanist.

TO DISSOLVE STEEL TRUST

And Punish Guilty Officials. Most Sweeping Antitrust Action Every Taken.

Trenton, N. J. Oct. 27.—The Federal government entered suit to dissolve the United States Steel Corporation in the United States Circuit Court here yesterday. The action is the most sweeping anti-trust yet undertaken by the Department of Justice. Not only does it propose to dissolve the steel trust and restore competition, but it is understood that criminal proceedings will soon be entered against the officials who have conducted the trust.

In its plea the Department of Justice not only asks that the parent trust be dissolved, but that all the constituent companies which formed part of the monopoly alleged to exist be dissolved as well. Thirty-six corollary companies are named in the action.

The government holds that the life of the Great Northern Railway ore lands, which the Steel trust announced some time ago that it would cancel, to be illegal.

It admits that it had been informed of the corporation's intentions to this direction, but declares that such action could not be made effective until January 1, 1915. In the meantime an unlimited quantity of ore could be mined and utilized.

DELIVERED LECTURE LAST NIGHT

Judge C. P. Smith Delivered A Striking Address At Christian Science Church.

Judge Clifford P. Smith, of Boston, a member of the Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ Scientist, delivered a striking address at the Christian Science Church in this city last night on "Christian Science."

The beautiful edifice was packed and everyone thoroughly enjoyed Judge Smith's interesting and instructive discourse. He said:

"It is my purpose to speak to you this evening on 'The Real Man and His Relation to God.' At the outset I wish to remind you that there was a time in every stage of human progress when wisdom was with the minority. A true idea is always perceived by one person, then received by a few, and afterward adopted by a substantial minority before it finds favor with the majority.

It may be assumed, I suppose, that no one in this audience disbelieves in a power or cause higher than himself. One who denies the existence of a supreme intelligent Being is said to be an atheist. But such persons are rare; in most cases the supposed atheist has simply not been satisfied with any particular concept of God and man that has been brought to his attention. A better concept, or the true one, may find him entirely willing to accept it.

A man does not need to be very scientific or very religious to feel that he is intermediate in the scale of existence—superior to some effects but subordinate to the primordial substance or cause, higher than some creatures but lower than the creator. This is a fact made evident by reason as well as revelation. Mere observation discovers the existence of laws which manifestly proceed from a power, an intelligent source higher than man. The turning of the earth upon its axis, the coming of a good thought into consciousness, these diverse facts, both illustrate the operation of law; the instance the action of a Mind which is superior to man. The most fundamental fact in human experience is consciousness; and this necessarily must have a Principle. Since man possesses consciousness, he must be related to the Principle of consciousness; and Christian Science declares this Principle to be God, the divine Mind of which man is the mental and spiritual expression.

Not only do men intuitively believe in a Being or Mind higher than themselves, they also expect to live upon a higher plane of existence than is visible to the physical senses. We have no reason to be satisfied with the life which seems to begin from mortal birth, which appears to include all evil—fear, pain, sin, sickness, deformity, disability, suffering, sorrow—and to end in death. In fact, we no longer accept all the testimony about man that we get through the five senses. For example, life seems to end in death, but who believes that it does? We see a change, we lose sight of a friend or loved one; we consign a body to a grave or its ashes to an urn; but we have faith, we know, that the life of the individual continues.

So also, the assurance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen, tells us of an existence for man which in every respect far transcends the life of mortals. It is unthinkable that man should always and forever continue to be a bundle of contradictions, a mixture of opposite qualities, a meeting of conflicting forces, as he appears to be. Every man, whether he looks for salvation or for evolution, expects something better than this.

Christian Science declares that man's brightest hope for a better life in the hereafter cannot exceed what is in fact the present reality of life; that mortal existence is a state of ignorance and false belief based on a material sense of things; that the actual is a condition of purity, completeness, joy, harmony, and goodness—a perfect state of mental and spiritual activity, a consciousness free from error or evil; an eternal identity determined by Mind or Spirit, not by matter. And Christian Science declares that this true selfhood must be attained, and can be attained, by gaining a demonstrable understanding of reality; by getting a scientific knowledge of the truth of being; by comprehending in their true import the words and works of him who came that we might have life, and have it abundantly.

Taking human life from birth, Jesus the Christ ascended progressively to the life which is divine. With the understanding of Truth he grappled with and overcame, one after another, the errors which fetter and bottle the life seen in this world, until he rose above it and passed beyond the range of mortal vision. Nor did he do this as though it were possible for him alone. On the contrary, his declared purpose was to be the "way" or way-shower for all men. He is "the light of the world" because he taught and demonstrated the truth of being, thus making it evident and available to all.
