By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Baltimore, Md.—"I send you here with the picture of my fifteen year old daughter Alice, who was restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was pale, with dark circles under her eyes, weak and irritable. Two different doctors treated her and called it Green Sickness, but she grew worse all the time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended, and after taking three bottles she has regained her health, thanks to your medicine. I can recommend it for all female troubles."—Mrs. L. A. CORRY, 1103 Rutland Street, Baltimore, Md.

RUGBY IS POPULAR AT PENN

Many Exponents of Game Found at University of Pennsylvania—Good Team Promised.

Rugby football will find many exponents in the University of Pennsylvania this season. The game was started there last season and at first created much amusement among the students, who were surprised by the strange "scrum" formation. Only a few games were played, but they showed that among Pennsylvanians there were a number of idle basketball players and track men who went into the game with enthusiasm and proved to be too strong for opponents of far more experience. There were, moreover, numerous foreigners among the students who were overjoyed at the chance of playing a familiar game. Of those who reported for Rugby last year, more than half were English.

This year the interest in the game has developed enormously. Eight of last year's team are still in college, while 30 new men reported the other day in answer to the call for candidates.

Woman First Baseman.
Myrtle Rowe of Kensington, Pa., is known as the woman champion first baseman of the world. At least she claims this title. She took to baseball naturally and, disapproving the tradition that a woman could not throw straight, she made a good record as a player, even according to masculine standards. But she has grown tired of baseball and has gone in for musical composition. She and her brother, William A. Rowe, have composed popular ragtime pieces.

World's Shotput Mark.
A new world's record for the twenty-four-pound shotput is marked up to the credit of the Irish-American Athletic club of this city the other day as a result of the performance of P. J. McDonald, the big metropolitan champion, at Celtic park.

McDonald hurled the heavy ball a distance of 38 feet 10 1/4 inches, improving the mark made three years ago by Ralph Rose, the giant Californian.

$50,000 for Billy Burke.
George H. Eastbrook the other day sold Spanish Queen, 2:04 1/2, to Leonard Schlegel of Vienna, Austria. Eastbrook, selling for Messrs. Nash and Brockman of Vienna, offered Lou McDonald $50,000 for Billy Burke. McDonald refused it promptly, saying he then asked if $45,000 would buy him, but McDonald declined to say. Mr. Burke has proved himself the Kinley in the forenoon at 2:04.

Chicago's Luck.
Some football fans are beginning to think some of Chicago's luck is a little more than "luck" after all.

Few Coaches Take Advantage of Touchback Play.

Kicking From Regular Formation Is Ground Gainer and Possibility of Scoring Seen in Chicago-Hilinois Game.

While a rule has been enacted which allows the team upon which a touchback has been scored to put the ball in play on the 25-yard line either by kick or scrimmage, few coaches are taking advantage of the ruling.

In the great majority of cases the captain elects to punt from the regular kickoff formation. The defensive team lines up in receiving formation and players of the kicking side can be checked as soon as the ball has gone ten yards. In this manner the man who catches the oval has many opportunities of bringing it back at least half the distance of the kick and sometimes a great deal farther.

As the center of the defensive eleven may stand upon the 25-yard line, the kicker must boot the ball from some point at least five yards back of the restraining line. Consequently he generally boots the oval from the 18 or 20 yard mark, writes Walter H. Ecker, editor of the Chicago Tribune. The only advantage which a team has which kicks from such formations is that the players are onside and have the right to recover the ball at any time except when it is kicked out of bounds before being touched by a player of either side.

In order to take full advantage possible, a team, if the captain elects to punt, should follow the regular punt formation. Then players of the kicker's side cannot be interfered with until the ball has gone 20 yards. Under such conditions they have a great advantage than if they went down under a punt from the kick-off formation. A booter kicking from the regular formation practically sends the oval away on its flight from the same spot as does the team which kicks without assuming the scrimmage punt formation. He is afforded better protection, has vacant spots in the field to kick to, and it gives his team a better chance of recovering the ball aside from preventing the receiving backs from running the ball back any considerable distance.

To the average follower of football the importance of this ruling does not have much weight, but if the alteration is given thorough attention and consideration the benefits of kicking from a scrimmage punt formation soon will be realized. Coach Stag of the University of Chicago has taken advantage of the ruling and has obtained the desired results in every contest.

A team which constantly is being pressed and is having touchbacks scored on it frequently should take advantage of this ruling, especially when the opposing eleven has the advantage of a strong wind. A booter when kicking in the teeth of a wind should always try to kick the ball out of bounds as far down the field as possible, and his attempts always should be of the law drive variety.

In the games played this year, especially in the western conference colleges, the keen judgment of the kickers in placing their attempts and getting their kicks away in faultless fashion has been one of the most important factors in deciding contests. Under the present rules an eleven cannot hope for success unless kickers are developed who can be depended upon absolutely to get their kicks away, even in the face of adverse conditions, and who can drive the ball to deserted parts of the gridiron.

FINDING STARS CALLED ART

Mike Kahoe of Washington, Supts Far and Wide for "Unknowns"—Chase Every Tip.

Here are a few tips from Mike Kahoe, scout for the Washington Americans, on the "art" of "discovering diamond stars."

"You cannot afford to pass up any tip you get on ball players these days. Some of the best men we have in the game today come from some remote spot, and it pays in the long run to run down every covey you get. I have seen nearly everywhere except on the coast this summer and looked over a lot of players who were touted as wonders, but who were far from it."

"It is strange how opinions on players differ. It has been my experience that there are but few old players who know a good player when they see one. Some of them seem to have a mistaken idea of what is required of a player to make good in this company. But, as I said before, it does not pay to pass up any of these tips. The safest way is to look them over for a couple of days and see what they are. No matter how many dead ones you may go after, it pays if you find one good one."

WILL CHANGE HOCKEY CODE

New Rule Makes More Open Game and Eliminates Rover—International Matches Hampered.

The game of hockey is likely to undergo an almost revolutionary change this winter as a result of the action of the National Hockey Association of Canada in reducing the number of players on a team from seven to six.

The player to be eliminated is the rover. It is considered that this will make the game much faster and will also tend to make it more open, but followers of the sport here are not of one mind on the radical change.

Another new rule, which will hamper the arrangements of international matches, forbids clubs that are members of the National associations from arranging directly with those from the United States. In future the management of clubs in the United States will have to approach T. Emmett Quinn, president of the National Hockey Association of Canada, and he will do the arranging.

JUDGE GOT BASEBALL NEWS

Justice Brown Received Scores by Innings While Hearing Breach of Promise Trial.

Supreme Court Justice Charles Brown of Buffalo, who is sitting in the Supreme court of New York City by designation of the Appellate division, is as much of a baseball enthusiast as is Vice President Sherman. The justice was hearing a breach of promise trial during the progress of the world's series game in Philadelphia.

Justice Brown was so interested in the outcome that he asked the clerk of the court to find a way to keep him informed of how the game was going. The clerk conferred with reporters in the courtroom, and they took turns getting the returns by innings.

The result was that a reporter was either going out or coming in to the court every few minutes during the trial, and the presiding judge knew the way the teams stood at the end of every inning.

YALE PLANS BASEBALL CAGE

Graduate Committee Figures on Modern Building to Cost $40,000—Contains Other Features.

Yale's long-deferred project of a modern baseball cage has been brought close to fulfillment by the graduate committee which is assisting Captain Dick Merritt plan for next season's campaign.

Plans have been drawn and are now in the hands of a committee, to whom they were referred by Walter Camp, Yale's graduate adviser. They call for a brick building 140 by 110 feet and 15 feet high, with a tower about 80 feet square surrounding the structure.

The cage will stand in the rear of the new Carnegie swimming pool and will cost about $40,000. The structure will be met by subscriptions from alumni. The building will contain, besides its baseball equipment, a running track and places for high and broad jumping.

McGrath Sets Hammer Mark.

Matt McGrath, the giant weight thrower, formerly of the New York A. C., made a new world's record by the sixteen-pound hammer the other day at Celtic park. He sent the mallet 187 feet 4 inches, exactly three feet farther than the previous mark made by John Flanagan more than two years ago at New Haven. There was a strong wind blowing at the time, and whether this will militate against the acceptance of the new mark can only be determined by the record committee of the A. A. U.

Cobb's Batting Mark.

Tom Cobb captured the American league records for base stealing and run getting, having 25 stolen bases and 142 runs to his credit this season. He leads the league in batting with .417 and his 947 hits this season breaks the major league record, set since 1887 by Willie Foster with 94 hits.

LABOR GIVES ITS APPROVAL

Powerful American Federation Cordially Joins in Fight Against Spread of Tuberculosis.

Direct approval of the campaign for the sale of Red Cross seals has been given by the American Federation of Labor, according to an announcement by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. At the last annual convention of the American Federation of Labor a resolution was adopted calling on all the members of the Federation to further the sale as much as possible. The resolution reads as follows:

"Whereas, The American Federation of Labor has in every possible way aided the movement for the study and prevention of tuberculosis throughout the United States and Canada; and

"Whereas, The American National Red Cross has been in the past and is now making an special effort, through the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals, to secure funds to carry on the war against tuberculosis, and by means of the funds raised in this manner has been able to do much effective work in this direction, therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the American Federation of Labor give its endorsement to the movement of the American National Red Cross, and encourage its members to further in every reasonable way the sale of these seals in their respective communities."

Tree Destroyers.

Porcupines are good climbers, and when unable to get enough apples wind-blown to the ground, swarm a tree and cut down the finest bearing limbs as quickly and neatly as a beaver can sever the trunk of a young hemlock. Besides that, when other food is scarce they nibble the bark of young apple trees, and can destroy a newly planted orchard in a short time. They also are a great enemy to the young spruce, but why they cut them is a mystery, as it is not found that they even eat the tenderest shoots.

Death Bed Jest.

Among what may be called death-bed jests, that of the Rev. James Guthrie of Stirling, one of the Covenanters martyrs, deserves a high place. Lord Guthrie recalls the story in "From a Northern Window." Mr. Guthrie was executed at the Cross in the High street, Edinburgh. The night before he asked for cheese for supper. His friends wondered, for the physicians had forbidden him to eat cheese. But he said, with a smile, "I am now beyond the hazard of all earthly diseases."—Uncle Remus' Magazine.

JUST BEFORE THE TROUBLE

How Could the Listener Know What His Friend Was Trying to Say?

If any man ever admired his wife, that man was Howler. And when the Fitzboodles asked Mrs. Howler to get up and sing, "There is a Garden in My Face," the husband glowed with pride.

No matter that she had a face like a hippopotamus and a voice like an elephant, he sat beaming as she sang, and could not refrain from bending over to his neighbor and whispering, "Don't you think my wife's got a fine voice?"

"What?" said his neighbor, who was a little deaf.

"Don't you think my wife has got a fine voice?" repeated Howler.

"What?"

"Don't you think my wife's got a fine voice?" roared Howler.

"Sorry!" returned the neighbor, shaking his head. "Can't hear a word you say. That awful woman over there is making such a frightful row singing."

We Get a Slap

The big coffee trust, made up of Brazilian growers and American importers, has been trying various tactics to boost the price of coffee and get more money from the people.

Always the man who is trying to dig extra money out of the public pocket, on a combination, hates the man who blocks the game.

Now comes a plaintive beat from the "exasperated" ones.

The Journal of Commerce lately said: "A stirring circular has just been issued to the coffee trade." The article further says:

"The coffee world is discussing what is to be the future of coffee as a result of the campaign of miseducation carried on by the cereal coffee people. We have before us a letter from one of the largest roasters in the South asking what can be done to counteract the work of the enemies of coffee.

"The matter should have been taken up by the Brazilian Gov't when they were completing their beautiful valorization scheme."

Then the article proceeds to denounce Postum and works into a fine frenzy, because we have published facts regarding the effect of coffee on some people.

The harrowing tale goes on.

"Where a few years ago everybody drank coffee, several cups a day, now we find in every walk in life people who imagine they cannot drink it. (The underscoring is ours.) Bury blacksmiths, carpenters, laborers and athletes have discontinued or cut down the use of coffee; as there is not a person who reads this and will not be able to sign the same conditions existing among his own circle of acquaintances, is it not well for the Brazilians to sit up and take notice?"

Isn't it curious these "burly" strong men should pick out coffee to "imagine" about? Why not "imagine" that regular doses of whiskey are harmful, or daily slugs of morphine?

If "imagination" makes the caffeine in coffee clog the liver, depress the heart, and steadily tear down the nervous system, bringing on one or more of the dozens of types of diseases which follow broken-down nervous systems, many people don't know it.

But it remained for the man who has coffee, morphine or whiskey to sell, to have the supreme nerve to say: "You only imagine your disorders. Keep on buying from me."

Let us continue to quote from his article.

"Notwithstanding the enormous increase in population during the past three years, coffee shows an appalling decrease in consumption."

Then follows a treasure lot of statistics which wind up by showing a decrease of consumption in two years of, in round figures, two hundred million pounds.

Here we see the cause for the attacks on us and the Brazilian sneers at Americans who prefer to use a healthful, home-made breakfast drink and incidentally keep the money in America, rather than send the millions to Brazil and pay for an article that chemists class among the drugs and not among the foods.

Will the reader please remember, we never announce that coffee "hurts all people."

Some persons seem to have excess vitality enough to use coffee, tobacco and whiskey for years and apparently be none the worse, but the number is small, and when a sensible man or woman finds an article acts harmfully they exercise some degree of intelligence by dropping it.

We quote again from the article:

"These figures are paralyzing but correct, being taken from Leach's statistics, recognized as the most reliable."

This is one of the highest compliments ever paid to the level-headed, common sense of Americans who cut off about two hundred million pounds of coffee when they found by actual experiment (in the majority of cases) that the subtle drug caffeine, in coffee, worked discomfort and varying forms of disease.

Some people haven't the character to stop a habit when they know it is killing them, but it is easy to shift from coffee to Postum, for, when made according to directions, it comes to table a cup of beverage, seal brown color, which turns to rich golden brown when cream is added, and the taste is very like the milder grades of Old Gov't Java.

Postum is a veritable food-drink and highly nourishing, containing all the parts of wheat carefully prepared to which is added about ten per cent of New Orleans molasses, and that is absolutely all that Postum is made of.

Thousands of visitors to the pure food factories to see the ingredients and how prepared. Every nook and corner is open for every visitor to carefully inspect. Crowds come daily and seem to enjoy it.
