Training Children.

Some facts brought out in the Year Book of the Playground and Recreation Association of America are of much more than passing interest. During 1911, $2,750,000 were expended in this country for establishment and fitting up of public playgrounds. More than 1,500 such grounds are maintained. Nineteen cities have authorized the issuing of bonds to the extent of $4,500,000 for playground purposes; and in 12 cities acreage to the value of $118,000 has been given in aid of the cause. So systematized has become this "playground work" and so great and rapid its extension that special schools or classes have been instituted in upward of 60 cities for training of competent instructors and managers. "As the twig is bent the tree is inclined." The practical spirit of the times seeks to prevent the bending of the twig of childhood, so that the tree of citizenship may grow as straight and strong as possible.

Trade in Human Hair.

A little while ago mention was made of the stir caused in the European hair markets by the Chinese edict abolishing the pigtail. It was prophesied that the importation of vast numbers of Chinese pigtailed would cause a slump, but there has as yet been little effect on the prices of hair in France. The annual hair fair opened at Limoges on December 23, and prices were on a level with those of recent years. A Paris merchant bought nearly two hundred pounds weight at an average price of between $10 and $11 a pound. This was not an exceptional average, as the eight-tenths of ton of hair which was the estimated weight of the whole market was priced at this figure. Bids of from $60 to $70 a pound were made for white hair, and of rather less for the rarer qualities of red hair. This hair fair at Limoges is the most important in western Europe, and is attended by dealers from every capital in the world.

Fall Fatal for Both.

Two steplee jacks, who were working on the top of the North Broad Street Presbyterian Church, at Philadelphia, were hurled to death last week, under tragic circumstances. One of the men, who was working on the high steeple of the church, suddenly slipped and started to slide down the steeple incline. As he rushed past the other, who was standing on the ledge, the latter grasped him, but was unable to check his momentum and was also dragged from his perch. When a passerby who had witnessed their terrible fall reached their bodies, he found the hand of one clutching the overalls of the other, whose life he had vainly attempted to save.

Measuring a River's Flow.

In its work of stream gauging, measuring the flow and volume of rivers by up-to-date methods—the United States Geological Survey co-operated during the past fiscal year with thirteen states, the states contributing over $49,000 and the survey doing the work. The geological survey also co-operated in this work with the reclamation service, the office of Indian affairs and the forest service. Ninety-six gauging stations were maintained in co-operation with the reclamation service 13 in co-operation with the Indian office and 194 in co-operation with the forest service on streams draining national forests. In all, 1,105 gauging stations were in operation at the close of the last fiscal year.

Remedy for Snake Bite.

There is no known antidote for the bite of the Australian tiger-snake. Persons bitten by this reptile die almost instantly, and the government has a standing reward offered for anyone who will discover a remedy. Some few years ago a man actually discovered an efficacious antidote. To prove its value he allowed himself to be bitten repeatedly by snakes in full possession of the power to kill. One day he gave an exhibition before some government officials, but could not recollect what he had done with his antidote, and he died shortly after from the effects of the snake-bites, his secret perishing with him.

Stoves of Our Great-Granddaddies.

The stoves of a hundred or so years ago were not things to be lightly passed over by the human vision if they were all like those advertised in a New York paper of the time in these terms: "A few Pyramidal Stoves, shaped exactly as follows: Standing six feet six inches high, with lion's feet, the bust of General Washington on top, the arms of the United States on each side, with regulating doors. The whole molded, ornamented and finished in a masterly style; forming an elegant stove for coal or wood; appropriate for churches, public schools, halls or large stores."

Reminders of Old Rome.

An important archaeological discovery has been made at Brindisi, where the remains of ancient Roman buildings have been found on the seashore in the locality known as St. Apollinare. The ruins have been identified as belonging to Roman walls which collected the neighboring hill and were used as a fountain. The adjacent remains of a Roman villa have been identified as the famous villa of Licio Plancus, Cicero's friend. Cicero occasionally visited the villa.

Fortunes in Faces.

There's often much truth in the saying "as the face is, so is the fortune," but it's never said when a pompous, skin eruption, blotches, or other blemishes disfigure the face. It is said in fact of them all, and shows the need of Dr. King's New Life Pills. They promote health and beauty. Try them. 25 cents a box.

NATURE'S LAWS.

Nature's laws are perfect if only we obey them; but disease follows disobedience. Go straight to Nature for the cure, to the forest; there are mysteries there, some of which we can learn for you. Take the bark of the Wild-cherry tree, with mandrake root, Oregon grape root, stone root, queen's root, bloodroot and golden seal root, make a scientific, glyceric extract of them, with just the right proportions, and you have

DOCTOR PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

It took Dr. Pierce, with the assistance of two learned chemists and pharmacists, many months of hard work experimenting to perfect this vegetable alterative and tonic extract of the greatest efficiency.

—Mr. C. W. PAWLEY, of Millville, Calif., writes: "I wish to tell you that I have used your 'Golden Medical Discovery' in my family for twenty years. We have had a doctor called in but once during that time. I have a family of ten children, all well and hearty, for which, to a great extent, we owe thanks to you and your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets,' which we use when sick."

Steamer Turns Turtle.

An exciting story was told at an inquiry at Caston hall, recently into the loss of the steamer Eastern Counties, which turned turtle about four miles south of the Spurn Lightship, several lives being lost. It was stated that there was a large deck cargo, and that the steamer was unsteady. Off the Humber she took a pronounced list. The master ordered the engines to be slowed, called all hands on deck, ordered everyone to take lifebelts, and sounded the whistle as a signal of distress. The helm was starboarded with the idea of beaching the vessel on the south shore, but she turned right over and board climbed over the port rail and got on the bottom of the ship as she turned turtle.

Old Problems Revived.

It has been said that the backbone of a nation is its middle class. Frank Frost Abbott, professor of Latin language and literature at Princeton university, seems to go on this assumption in his "The Common People of Ancient Rome." For instead of tracing the progress of a few leading figures in his history he seeks to put before his readers the every day life of the ordinary citizens of the Roman empire. Some of his subjects for discussion are as modern as "The High Cost of Living." He shows that there is a striking similarity between many of the problems of the people of Rome and of this country today.

Child Gave Life for Sister.

Louis Brown, a motherless boy of six years, lost his life in a recent fire at New York, because he stayed by the side of his four-year-old sister Helen, and shielded her from the smoke and flames. A fireman searching through the burning building found the two children unconscious and clasped in each other's arms beneath a bed. The boy had wrapped his jacket about the little girl's head to protect her. She had tucked her head down on his breast and locked arms about his waist. Helen's condition is serious. The children had been forgotten in the general scramble for safety.

Sola Topi.

Our correspondent at the durbar made mention in a recent letter of a "solar" helmet. A Manchester Guardian contributor points out that the word has no connection whatever with the sun. "Sola" is the Hindu and Bengali name for the tall leguminous swamp plant known to botanists as Aeschynomene aspera, the stems of which furnish the pith, otherwise spongewood, which is made up into the helmets worn by Europeans in the tropics. Hence "sola topi" is not to be translated verbally as "sun helmet," although the confusion is natural enough, considering how precise is the translation in fact.

The Cockroach and Consumption.

Experiments have been made which tend to show that the common cockroach is able by contamination with its feces to bring about the souring of milk, to infect food and milk with intestinal bacilli, to transmit and transmit other germs and molds. These facts, taken in conjunction with the life habits of the insect, lead to the conclusion that the cockroach is able to, and may possibly, play a small part in the spreading of consumption and in the transmission of spore producing organisms; that the insect is in all probability an active agent in the souring of milk kept in kitchens and larders; and that it is undoubtedly an important factor in the distribution of molds to food and to numerous other articles, especially when they are kept in dark cupboards and cellars where cockroaches abound.

FOLEY KIDNEY PILLS

FOR RHEUMATISM, GRAVEL AND BLADDER

She—Just look at the trouble money can get you into. He—Yes, but look at the trouble it can get you out of.

W. T. Gilly, a prominent dealer in Pennington Gap, Va., was so bothered with kidney and bladder trouble that he could not attend to business. He says, "I had severe pain in my back and kidneys and had to get up ten to fifteen times each night. Saw Foley Kidney Pills advertised and bought two bottles, and soon felt great relief, and was entirely cured. No longer disturbed at night, but sleep till morning."

Population by Race.

The population of the world by race is: Indo-Germanic (white), 550,000,000; Mongolian (yellow and brown), 630,000,000; Semitic (white), 65,000,000; Negro (black), 1,000,000,000; Malay (brown), 35,000,000; American Indian (red), 15,000,000. This latter variety includes every variety of the red man in all parts of the earth, the actual number of Indians in North America being much less than a million. The white race is increasing much faster than the others, owing, probably, to its superior intelligence and scientific knowledge of medicine and sanitation.

FOR CONSTIPATION.

Dr. L. H. Parrham, a prominent druggist of Spirit Lake, Iowa, says: "Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets are certainly the best thing on the market for constipation." Give these tablets a trial. You are certain to find them agreeable and pleasant in effect. Price 25 cents. Samples free. For sale by all dealers.

Cold Dormitories.

"And what do you hear from your daughter, Mrs. Green?" asked the visitor solicitously. "Is she well and enjoying college life?"

"She is quite well," responded Mrs. Green, "but the poor child says it has been so dreadfully cold all winter. The dormitories at her college must be perfect ice houses, I should think. Why, do you know, Marian writes me that during the last cold spell the hot-water bottles actually froze in the beds!"

Mrs. J. L. Starnes, Hickory, N. C., has in the past suffered severely with throat and lung trouble, and says, "I used Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for this and it gave me immediate satisfaction and relief. It gives me pleasure to recommend this preparation for sore throat, hoarseness, or any affection of the throat or lungs. I know it will do all claimed for it." For sale by all dealers.

Nature Student.

"The bat, when winter comes," said a nature student, "folds his long ears against his sides, shuts off his heart and, hanging head down from some black corner of barn or smokehouse, hibernates till spring. In March he begins to wake up.

"Lizards and snakes hibernate underground. Frogs hibernate in the frozen mud at the bottom of their ponds. It's nothing to them that they freeze stiff. A frog so stiff frozen in February that you could break him in a soda cracker will thaw out in a warm March as chipper as you please.

"Hats and mice don't hibernate. They come indoors. They leave their cold fields and waters and they take up their quarters in our nice, warm, steam-heated houses. There's a jolly plenty to eat, no snow, no sleet, no piercing March winds. The winter season makes no difference to the rats and mice, save that, while always marrying and giving in marriage, they marry and give in marriage more than ever to our comfortable houses, rearing at our expense and on our food. Haters at their vast numbers would content even a rat Roosevelt."

OLD CUSTOM IS COMING BACK

Fashionable Englishmen Are Carrying Snuff-boxes Now and Dip into Them.

The old family doctor in the '60s, who had been in London and seen Sir Benjamin Brodie, used to tell stories about his distinguished colleague and point them by taking snuff. When he entered the bedroom of a patient his beard and clothes were redolent of snuff; he would brush it off his flowered waistcoat. We now read of a return to snuffing in England; that a snuff club has been established in Leeds; that motoring favors the practice because the motorist cannot in the open enjoy a cigar.

We also read, Philip Hale writes in the Boston Herald, that snuff is bad for the nerves, and that the modern brands deteriorate quickly; that snuff is also bad for the digestion and for the nose, since it is sometimes adulterated with lime. George IV's snuff was sold for £400, and how long did the fragrance of it last?

In many ways this taking of snuff was a fine, courtly old habit. It accentuated an epigram; it served as an answer when speech failed; it gave weighty importance to a trifling observation. James I. did not inveigh against it in his "Counterblast to Tobacco." What more royal pretent to an actor or violinist than a gold snuff box incrustated with diamonds and filled with ducats or louis d'or? Then there were the snuffboxes with lids exquisitely painted, with the portrait of some frail beauty, or inscribed with a ribald motto!

If the practice is revived, should the pinch be taken with the left hand or the right? Some one objected to Richard Mansfield's Beau Brummel because the comedian took snuff with the right.

Intrinsic Light of Stars.

M. Nordmann of the Observatory of Paris has made some interesting calculations of the intrinsic light of a number of stars, based on the results he had previously attained in regard to their effective temperatures. The brightness of a star, as seen from the earth, does not depend wholly upon its size and distance. Thus M. Nordmann finds that Sirius and Vega emit light the brightness of which is 61,000,000 candle power per square centimeter, while at the other end of the scale the light of Aldebaran amounts to only 22,000 candlepower per square centimeter. The intrinsic brightness of Vega is, according to this calculation, nineteen times that of the sun. If Vega were of the same size as Aldebaran and at the same distance from the earth, the former would appear to us over 200 times as bright as the latter.

DELICATE BUT KEEN THRUST

English Lawyer's Method of Handling Witness So as to Discredit Him With Jury.

Said John B. Curtis, the well known lawyer and president of the Indiana Society of New York, speaking about the recent heckling of Detective Burns when he was on the witness stand in a memorable case: "I'm afraid that sometimes we get a little too personal and severe with witnesses. How much better was the handling of a famous detective who was testifying in a London court. It was a divorce case and Mr. Frank Lockwood was the opposing counsel. The detective witness came to the stand dressed in black broadcloth, wore a gold fob and seals and looked much more like a respectable middle-aged solicitor than a member of the police force. The man's testimony was likely to be damaging to his client, so Mr. Lockwood began his cross-examination very gently and was exceedingly polite.

"I believe you are John Blank of the firm of Blank & Co., the eminent detectives?"

"Yes, sir," said the witness, "I represent that firm."

"And I presume," continued the counsel, "that in the course of your duties as a detective you have, at times, to assume many disguises?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then," said Lockwood, smiling, "will you have the goodness to tell the court just what you are disguised as now?"

Howells Exclusive.

When Howells was a cub reporter in his Ohio youth he was sent by his paper to the state capital to report very tenso and very bitter legislative proceedings there. When he arrived late in the afternoon the session had turned into a riot, with need of ambulances to carry off the disabled members and militia to sit on those still in the ring. As the legislative proceedings were interrupted by the grand alinsky, and as they were not likely to be resumed for some days Howells, having no legislative proceedings to report, as instructed strolled off behind the Capitol and watched a very lovely sunset, writing a charming description of it, which he filed early at the telegraph office, with the note to his managing editor that there being no legislative proceedings, he sent instead the sunset "copy." Krebbsel knows, for Henry was there.

In a Different Role.

"Thousands of Americans have seen the tall, long bearded Anton Lang at work in his modest pottery on the Oberammergau stage as the central figure in the 'Passion Play,'" says a letter from Munich, quoted in the New York Tribune, "but we, who visited the place recently, in wrong year and the more than wrong season, saw him in a new and humanly interesting role. In a rough heavy coat, high woolen leggings, fur cap and old fashioned wool mittens, he sat on a sled. In front of him sat a little girl muffled tightly in heavy wraps. Her little gloved hands were on the wheel and she probably thought that she was directing the course of the sled. If facial expression may be taken as a guide Lang was having a better time than when we saw him on the celebrated peasant stage."

"A Paris playwright must have a hard time of it," said the author. "Why?" asked the manager. "He's handicapped. He can't get all his original ideas by adopting them from the French."—Washington Star.

Probably there is nothing more expensive than the things we get for nothing.
