NOMINATING SPEECHES STILL GOING ON AT 2 A. M.

Underwood And Clark Had Been Presented Amid Tremendous Uproar. Progressiveness The Watch Word Of The Convention.

Baltimore, June 27.—The vote of New York with the Wilson crowd, in the South Dakota contest, is variously commented upon. Wilson followers were jubilant. Those who are unbiased do not believe it has any bearing on the Presidential situation, for it is well known that only that great leader Murphy, really knows who will get the New York vote, when the Presidential roll call is made.

BOOMS RISE AND FALL.

The varying effects of committee reports, contest decisions, etc., is seen in the talk on the presidential aspirants. Underwood and Wilson have been on the top wave today, while Harmon and Clark have been on the wane. There is the continued talk of a dark horse. Even open talk that Bryan may work it to have himself nominated. He refuses to openly declare himself favorable to any candidate, and also says he will not stand for nomination. In the face of these protests he is the most active man and most conspicuous and energetic force of the entire convention.

A PROGRESSIVE PLATFORM.

Good work was accomplished in making the platform stand for progressiveness. It will have a vital effect upon the voters, and make the Democratic party notably stand for what the country wants, progressiveness, as opposed to Republican standpatism. The spirit of the platform was to be seen in the speech of Chairman Ollie James, who flayed "big interests" and spoke for a policy that favored the people. He was particularly complimentary in speaking of the South.

BRYAN SUPPORTERS NOISY.

The Bryan supporters, both in and out of the convention have been conspicuously noisy today. Even in the hotel corridors there are heard shouts for "Bryan."

Baltimore, June 27.—It was 11 o'clock tonight before the convention reached the business of nominating presidential candidates. Earlier in the evening it was partially agreed that the convention should adjourn at 2 a. m., until noon Friday, when it was thought the nominations would be closed.

Oscar W. Underwood was placed in nomination in a great speech by Senator John H. Bankhead of Alabama. Long and repeated cheering greeted the mention of the name of Underwood.

Champ Clark was named as a presidential nominee by Senator Eugene E. Reed of New Hampshire, the speech causing a tremendous uproar in the convention hall.

At 2 a. m. Friday, the nominating speeches were still going on.

The base of the sun spot is approximately 75,000 miles across, a sun spot nearly 100 times the size of the earth.

OFFICER FACES COURT MARTIAL

Is Charged With Inefficiency In Connection With Treatment of Sick Soldiers.

Savannah, Ga., June 27th.—The trial by court martial of Major Woodbury, the chief surgeon at Fort Screven, is to begin today at the fort. The officers of the court, which will be headed by Col. James Parker, of the Eleventh Cavalry, now at Fort Oglethorpe, are already arriving. Several of them will go to Fort Screven. It is understood the charge against Major Woodbury is inefficiency in connection with the treatment of several cases of the Georgia post.

The accused officer is prepared to make a vigorous defense. He is to be represented by Capt. H. W. Bunn of the Seventy-second company, Coast Artillery Corps, as military counsel. Major Woodbury states that the charges are all technical and that they date back for some time.

The court will sit this morning, and it is expected the case will require two or three days to conclude.

Solicitor General Tenders Resignation.

Washington, June 27.—Frederick W. Lehmann, Solicitor General of the United States, has placed his resignation in the President's hands. His successor has practically been chosen. Lehmann is a Democrat and is regarded by many as a possibility for Attorney General if the Democratic administration gets into power. Lehmann has been prominently mentioned for a place on the Supreme Court bench. Lehmann will return to St. Louis, his home, to practice law, when President Taft has appointed Lloyd W. Bowers as his successor.

Great Simmons Club at Morganton.

Cam Morrison's speech in Morganton, according to The Messenger, was followed by the organization of a Simmons club with a membership of 578, which has been since increased to nearly one thousand. The Messenger further says: "The Simmons demonstration Saturday has caused the friends of Governor Kitchen to beat themselves and they are working like beavers in behalf of their favorite. It is generally conceded that Burke county is overwhelmingly for Senator Simmons, but this does not deter or discourage the Governor's friends. In the meantime, Judge Clark's friends are not making as much fuss as some of them, but when the ballots are counted in November, the votes cast for him will cause many to open their eyes."

Officers Must Stand Trial.

WILSON'S NAME LOUDLY CHEERED

Vast Auditorium A Seething Mass of Waving Flags and Ban-ners.

Baltimore, June 27.—Convention visitors at last night's session were given all that excitement, turmoil and red-blooded enthusiasm which frequently sweeps aside opposition with a sudden blow.

The intensity of the pent-up feelings of delegates and audience alike was shown to the fullest extent. It boiled over and almost shook the solid army building to its foundations with its roar and its prolonged and deep cheers and shouts.

The outburst came during a stubborn fight over the adoption of the unit rule. This had been reported favorably by a majority of the committee on rules and order of business, Congressman J. Harry Covington, of the First Maryland district, chairman.

It was opposed in a minority report made by Congressman Henry, of Texas. The issue was soon joined and the fight was on.

The session began peaceably enough. Only an occasional comment of approval was heard as the two reports were read.

It seemed as if the vast audience and most of the delegates were slow in digesting fully what the adoption or rejection of this plank meant.

That it was vital to the after proceedings of the body at length struck the throng. When it did strike, it struck hard.

At first an occasional buzz of excitement showed how tense was the feeling. That this rule meant everything in the choosing of a candidate at last went home throughout the length and breadth of the hall.

It seized all at the same time and only awaited some favorable opportunity to let loose the flood gates of a long pent-up enthusiasm.

It was the magic name of Wilson which acted as the "open sesame" for the tattered enthusiasm. It was John W. Peck, of Ohio, who used it and raised such a tumultuous storm of ear-racking cheers and roars of approval, the like of which has never before been seen or heard in Baltimore.

Mr. Peck was speaking against the majority report when he referred to Governor Wilson. He had declared that it is proposed by this majority report to take away from Ohio the right it has always been accorded to unified action in the national convention.

"This," he said, "is the position taken by the great progressive Governor of New Jersey"—and the storm broke.

It broke good and hard. The vast auditorium was soon a seething mass of waving flags and handkerchiefs. Men and women stood up and shouted as they never shouted before. The men stood on chairs and endeavored to climb on one another's back to get higher and yell louder.

It was a spontaneous outburst. There seemed to be no holding back in any quarter and it all came so quickly that it caught the whole mass as a cyclone catches a forest and soon had the galleries wild and feverish.

Like scenes have been witnessed before, but never outside a national convention hall. It is only the united fervor of the whole country concentrated within a limited space which could produce such a scene.

Facing defeat with Clark, the Ryan-Belmont-Murphy combination is throwing the full force of its strength directly against Wilson. With these forces against him and Bryan not openly for him, Wilson must win the nomination, if at all, by the sheer strength of the uncompromising progressiveness of his candidacy.

Wilson is tremendously strengthened by the apparent defeat of Clark. If Clark fails of the nomination on the second ballot, Wilson will probably get 100 of Clark's delegates. The most astute of Wilson's managers seem satisfied with Bryan's program of silence. They say that Wilson will gain as the balloting progresses and that in the end Bryan will come out for him and put Wilson across the line a winner.

Back of this is the possibility of a dark horse. Failure to put Clark through to the nomination will mean that the Ryan-Belmont-Murphy crowd will lose control of the nomination. The convention will then be jointly in their hands and the hands of Bryan. If Wilson is not nominated, the two sides must agree on a man.

This has brought to the surface the strong under-surface current to Oscar W. Underwood. There was no doubt that yesterday's developments strengthened the Democratic floor trader's position. Governor Harmon if regarded as no longer a strong probability, Underwood's candidacy has reached the point his managers desired. They want him to be a compromise candidate.

It developed yesterday that many Clark men and a significant number of influential representatives of progressive sentiment were in the city.
