The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh, Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

LOUISIANA'S LAND A ROMANCE
BY LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE
ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WALTERS
CHAPTER V.
Sunlight and shadow playing in swift alternation upon his face, as the Echo coasted to the morning breeze, Coast awakened.
For a moment almost thoughtless he lay drowsily enjoying the rise and dip of the boat, as drowsily conscious of a faint thrill of excitement; mostly comparable, perhaps, to the first waking sensations of a fourteen-year-old boy on a Fourth of July morning.
Then without warning the small chronometer on the transverse above his head rapped out smartly two double-chimes—ships' time: four bells: ten o'clock in the forenoon.
"Astonished," he sat up quickly, and his still sleepy gaze, passing through the companionway, encountered the amused regard of the so-distant Melchisedec Appleyard. Promptly Coast found himself in full possession of his faculties. That in obedience to first instincts he nodded with a cordial smile, was significant.
Appleyard returned the salutation with a quick bob of his small head. "Good-morning, hero!" he sang out cheerfully.
He sat in the cockpit, huddled into the folds of a gray blanket, voluminous for his slight figure, a thin but wiry forearm bared to wield the cigarette he was smoking with every indication of enjoyment.
"Good-morning," he returned. "How do you feel after your adventure?"
"Uncluttered but in my right mind," said Appleyard, with a twinkle of anxiety amending: "to the best of my knowledge and belief." He indicated the various articles constituting his painfully simple wardrobe. "Waiting for 'em to dry."
Appleyard hopped up, fingered his everyday attire critically, and pronounced it bone-dry; then, bundling it up, he returned to the cabin, seating himself on the opposite transom to dress.
"And the sensations of a hero, refreshed by sound slumbers, are—"
"Hungry," said Coast. He moved forward and began to experiment gingerly with a new and untried alcohol stove. "I can offer you eggs, coffee, biscuit—and nothing else," he added, producing raw materials from a locker. "You see, I hadn't expected to entertain."
"Rotten inconsiderate of you," Appleyard grumbled. "I'll wire you a warning next time it occurs to me to drop in unexpectedly."
"Divided between amusement and perplexity, in the course of the meal Coast reviewed a personality singularly enriched by a variety of suggestions consistently negative. The man's age was indeterminate—somewhere between thirty and forty-five. Loosely summarized, he might have been anybody or nobody on a lark or his uppers.
Appleyard looked up quickly, with a shy, humorous smile.
"Well, what do you make of me?"
"It's hard enough to guess what you're made of yourself."
"Flattery note," observed Appleyard obscurely. "Yet you win my sympathy; sometimes I am moved to wonder—really." He tapped an egg thoughtfully, a crinkle forming between his colorless eyebrows. "It's really not what a man makes of himself; it's what his temperament does to him."
"Temperament!"
"Yes; you really ought to keep one, too; they're all the rage just now, and such excellent excuses for the indulgence of your pet idiosyncrasies."
"Oh!" And you blame yours for what?"
"For making me a—I presume positively, in the final analysis, will advise me a Romantic."
"Literature?" asked Coast, agitated.
"Good Heavens, no! Nothing like that. Life." He sighed profoundly.
"Shall I rehearse to you the story of my life? No, I shall not rehearse to you the story of my life. But at all events I shall talk about myself for a space. I insist upon it: I love to. You don't seriously object?" he added, anxious.
"Then compose yourself."
"Born at an early age—in fact, at an early age as you can comfortably imagine—I found myself immediately the sport of sardonic fortunes. That same Melchisedec! One felt that there must be in one's future life some warmth of Romance to compensate for that infamous ignominy. So, I believe any reasonable human should logically have looked forward to sure dissemination into the American peasant of the New England magazine-type: man, braids, bowels, breadth, beauty. A born iconoclast, however, as soon as I awakened to realization of my plight I mutilated and resolved to live down my shame. Thenceforward I set myself to painstaking muckraking in modern life, seeking the compensating Romance without which life were but death in life." He panted and coughed an eye at Coast. "Not bad for a beginning, what?"
"A little prolix," commented Coast dispassionately, falling in with his humor. "But continue. You found your time?"
"What is recalled—ah, yes! I found it, as a rule, a man's true nature for crime." Lured by legend, I have traversed much of the known world, only to come to that conclusion: the more I penetrated the fastnesses of the world's mountains, noting the rugged, the more I perceived merely the same old, same old, same old. Confronting seemed to me a large, and discovered itself in the same old, same old, same old. The popular fallacy proved to be a mere popular fallacy. The same old, same old, same old. I remain wondering you with a catalogue of the same old, same old, same old.

Natural Probability.
J. Adam Bede, who was the "will of congress" for several terms, kept the Chicago Jewelers' association in an uproar when he spoke of "happiness" at the annual banquet. "Some people can't see good in anything, but it is always there," he said. "Why, out in my district a short time ago there was an uproar because a Miss Ware married a Mr. Day. The grumblers complained that it was a loss of time, because a Week had been lost to make a Day. But those who can see the sunshine all the time suggested that probably it wouldn't be long before there would be enough Days around to make up for the lost Week."

$100 PER PLATE.
was paid at a banquet to Henry Clay, for New Orleans in 1842. Highly costly for the time, with stomach trouble and indigestion. Today people everywhere use Dr. King's New Life Pills for these troubles as well as liver, kidney and bow-l disorders. Easy, safe, sure. On ly 25c. at all Druggists.

There is apt to be a little truth and a great deal that isn't true in both sides of a story.

One of Nature's Noblemen.
"Money don't seem to have spotted Mr. Winkerson a bit."
"I know it. He's just the same as ever. Last night him and his wife come over to play bridge with my husband and I, and he never done a thing to show that he didn't think folks that hadn't money was just as good as anybody, as long as they was refined."

A HERO IN A LIGHTHOUSE.
For years J. S. Donahue, So. Haven, Mich., a civil-war captain, as a lighthouse keeper, averted awful wreck, but a queer fact, he might have been a wreck, himself, if Electric Bitters had not prevented. "They cured me of kidney trouble and chills," he writes "after I had taken other so-called cures for years without benefit and they also improved my sight. Now at seventy, I am feeling fine. For dyspepsia, indigestion, all stomach, liver and kidney troubles, they are without equal. Try them. Only 50 cents at all druggists."

Outlook Promising.
On Sixth avenue, New York, two young women walked behind her, conversing audibly above the roar of the elevated.
"And how are you fixing your hair?" asked one.
"Oh, he's steady," returned the other. "He don't drink, he stays home nights, and I kind of think I'm going to get him."
How fortuitous thought the women.
