ALLEN FUNERAL THIS AFTERNOON

Obsequies of Aged Business Man From Presbyterian Church

SRORITY OF HIS LIFE

Was Conspicuous in Business World of Raleigh as of New Bern

The funeral of Mr. George Allen, who died early yesterday morning, will take place this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock from the Presbyterian church.

Mr. Allen was a son of Dennis Cushing Allen and Eliza Slover Allen. Before the war he was in the dry goods business and after the war in the hardware business as a member of the firm of Mitchell, Allen & Co.

Twenty years ago he moved to Raleigh to live. Of his life there, the News & Observer says:

"Mr. Allen was as well known in Raleigh as any citizen who has ever lived here. He was an elder in the Presbyterian church and was equally well known in business circles.

"Mr. Allen's chief work, which gained him nation-wide distinction, was the authorship of 'Allen's Forty Lessons in Bookkeeping,' a work that was used in many states as a text book and is still in use.

"Mr. Allen was at the head of the Mechanics' Investors Co., a building and loan company in Raleigh for years."

He was also secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of Raleigh for a number of years. He wrote other text books in addition to the one mentioned and he was prominent in Church work here as he was in Raleigh.

He was married in 1860 to Miss Leah Myra Jones, daughter of Frederick J. Jones. His surviving children are Mrs. Charles L. Ives of this city, Mrs. William H. Potter, of Boston and Mr. Harry V. Allen of New York City.

WORKERS AMONG NEGROES TO MEET

The Twenty-eighth annual conference of church workers among the colored people will be held at St. Cyprian's church, in this city, from September 10 to 13th. Rev. Junius Taylor, D. D., is rector of this church. Writers on assigned topics are limited to twenty minutes, appointed speakers to ten minutes and volunteer speakers five minutes. All topics are open to general discussion. All of the clergy, vested, are expected to take part in the opening service Tuesday evening, and the closing service on Friday evening. An annual contribution of one dollar is asked from all the clergy, and from the parishes and missions also. On the afternoon of Thursday there will be a preliminary and informal meeting of all the delegates to the women's auxiliary. Addresses of welcome will be made by Rev. Robert Strange, D. D., Bishop of East Carolina, Rev. B. F. Huske, and the Rev. Junius L. Taylor, rector of St. Cyprian's church.

A CORRECTION

The statement in the report yesterday of the trial of Isaac H. Smith in the Mayor's court that he testified that there were "indecent doings" at Smith's hall on the occasion being investigated at the hearing, was so plainly a mistake that doubtless all who read it understood that the negative had been omitted. What was omitted by the witness was that there were no "indecent doings" at the hall as the article it was stated that he so testified.

FOOTBALL GAME FOR FAIR WEEK

There will be a meeting of members of New Bern's football team Wednesday night at 8 o'clock in the club room of the Atlantic Fire Company to begin arrangements to have a football game here during fair week.

The game will probably be with the A. & M. scrubs, but if not with them with some other team.

All the members of the team are urged to be at Wednesday night's meeting as in addition to the matters mentioned there will probably be other matters of importance to come up.

The team has better chances here now than ever before as at the fair grounds it has a fine place for practice.

STILL DISCUSS NEW POSTAL LAW

Closed Postoffice on Sunday Yet Calling For Discussion.

SOME PRO, SOME CON

Postmaster J. S. Basnight Is Observing The Law To The Letter

The law closing postoffices on Sunday is still being warmly discussed here. As usual there are two views taken. Preachers and persons generally who observe Sunday strictly, think the law a good thing. There are a great many others who say it is an imposition.

One gentleman was heard to say last night that inasmuch as a man is required to pay for his box, he is in law privileged to demand that his mail be put in the box.

There are those who say that they can't see why Postmaster Basnight can't do as the Richmond postmaster did, that is, construe the law so liberally that conditions are left pretty much as they were before.

The postmaster says that because others violate the law is no reason why he should and he is accordingly keeping the lid on tight. So-called "important" mail that comes tied out to itself is put in the boxes if it is for hotel guests or newspapers. Otherwise, no mail is put up on Sundays.

KILL RATTLER AT MAPLE CYPRESS

Over Eight Feet Long and Weighed Over a Hundred Pounds

WAS 34 INCHES AROUND

Figures Vouched For By Man of Undoubted Veracity

On Sunday last Mr. H. C. McDaniel, one of the Carolina Coast Lime Company's foremen, at the Neuse river mines, near Maple Cypress, in company with a number of other young men, heard of the whereabouts of a large rattlesnake, and went to look for him. They waited but a short time before they heard a cracking of the underbrush, and looking toward the spot where the noise came from, they saw an enormous diamond back rattlesnake, with head poised, as though he were master of all he surveyed.

One well directed load of buck shot turned the snake down and enabled the party to measure and weigh him.

The weight of the snake was reported as 102 1/2 pounds and the length as 8 feet, 4 inches. The circumference of his snakeship was said to be 34 inches. He had 41 rattles and a button. Mr. McDaniel thought so much of his prize that he decided to have the skin tanned.

The figures in this story were brought in by a man who has always borne a splendid reputation for veracity.

LET US HEAR FROM YOU!

The Journal yesterday sent to Rolla Wells, treasurer of the Democratic National Executive Committee, a check for $12, the amount raised by this paper for the Wilson campaign fund. It is hoped that the next contribution from New Bern will be a substantial one.

The city has up to this time made rather a poor showing, but there is time yet to do something that is really worth while. Let us have your subscriptions. The little town of Morehead City has raised eighty dollars. New Bern surely can do as well as that.

DEATH OF MRS. MARKS' SISTER

Mrs. August Heller of Baltimore, a sister of Mrs. M. M. Marks of this city, died suddenly Friday at Atlantic City. The funeral will take place today in Baltimore and Mrs. Marks left here last night to attend it. She was met at Rocky Mount by her brother, Mr. E. W. Rosenthal of Savannah, who accompanied her to Baltimore.

TOO STRAW VOTE

As an indication of the political sentiment in this section, the following little story is apropos. A salesman who came in from Kinston yesterday says he went to the trouble to take a "straw vote" among the male passengers in the coach in which he was riding. Sixteen voted for Simmons, five for Kitchin and one for Judge Clark.

ROYAL ARCAUM MEMBERS

Will please meet at our council room at 5:30 p. m. today, to attend the funeral of our late brother, George Allen.

PONY PENNING ON THE BANKS

Comes Off Tuesday on Core Banks—Everybody Is Invited

NEAR MARSHALLBERG

No Gate Money Charged But The Animals Make a Regular Circus

There will be a pony penning on Core Banks, near Marshallberg, Tuesday next, September 10. Everybody from everywhere is invited to attend. If the little pony penning in Eastern North Carolina who has never seen a pony penning, that unfortunate individual is advised to go.

The little ponies roam the "banks," swim the inlets and range on the salt marshes, free as the air, the whole year 'round, except when penning times comes. Then they are herded and driven into corrals, that are called pens by the "bankers." Thus the term "penning."

On these occasions, lovers of horse flesh from far and near congregate to look over the imprisoned ponies, many to buy, others drawn there merely through curiosity. No gate money is charged, but the wild animals make a circus that is worth going miles to see.

When a pony is selected by a prospective buyer, one of the herders, usually a colored man, is sent into the pen to bring out the "critter."

There usually ensues an exhibition of kicking and bucking that is as good in its way as anything the Wild and Woolly West has to offer. Many of the ponies have never had a hand laid upon them and they object to being dictated to.

When removed from their habitat, they often refuse to eat any of the civilized breakfast foods of the ordinary horse, like hay, oats, etcetera. They thoroughly approve of salt marsh grass as a regular diet. When they are thirsty they dig a hole in the sand of the beach, allow the salt water to filter through the sand, and drink the brackish water.

The history of the banker ponies is an interesting one. They are no doubt the descendants of the horses left on the beach now called Core banks by Sir Walter Raleigh's third expedition.

These little horses are found nowhere along the coast except on the banks that separate the Carolina sounds from the ocean. At no other place is there any authentic record of horses having been left in the long ago. Much more could be written about the hardy little banker ponies, but the best way to find out about them is to go down to Carteret county this week and see them for yourself.

SLIP NEEDS TO BE DREGGED OUT

Cotton Boats Can't Get To Public Dock To Be Unloaded

TIME TO GET BUSY

Captains Will Not Pay Wharfage—Go Elsewhere First.

The cotton shipping season now being at hand, the condition of the slip at the foot of the dock is coming in for a liberal share of the attention of the persons who are interested in seeing as much cotton as possible come here for sale. As it is now, it is impossible for a loaded boat to get to this dock to discharge.

Much sand has been discharged from scoops at the foot of the street, and enough of this building material has fallen overboard in the process to fill up the slip so that there is very little water at the dock now.

Cotton boats are unable to get near enough to discharge cargo, and are compelled to pay wharfage on the docks of either side of the slip, or to go elsewhere.

A captain who came in there not long ago, and was made to pay wharfage, declared he would not again come to New Bern, as he could quite as easily call at Washington, where there were no wharf charges. It is understood that the city promised to dredge out the slip, but the work has never been done. It is pointed out by those interested in the matter that the dredging must be gotten at promptly, or there will be a great loss both to the boatmen and the trade of New Bern.

Mr. Matt Taylor of Jacksonville has purchased from Mrs. Mary A. Edwards of Providence, R. I., the 11-ton gas boat, C. L. Risley. The vessel will be used on New River, running from Jacksonville in messages and freight service.
