DO NOT DRINK ON A BEEFSTEAK

And Also on Coughing Tea and Even an Cold Water.

According to a house surgeon in a London hospital, it is not necessary to take strong drink at all in order to be drunk. Cases have been known in which patients have got drunk on a breakfast after having been for many weeks on a very light diet. The intoxication in these cases showed itself in a slight dizziness and drowsiness and indistinctness of speech.

Similar cases have been known in which the only intoxicant has been strong tea. In fact, there are instances in medical books of exceptional people in whom the constant use of over-strong, overdrawn tea has brought about distinct symptoms of delirium tremens.

Perhaps the most curious sort of intoxication on record is that in which the only intoxicant is cold water dripping from a water tap into the ear. In Germany a few years ago quite a number of morbid people had a craving for this curious way of inducing drunkenness, but it seems to have been stamped out.

The drip of the water is said to cause a painful boiling sensation at first and then to cause a pleasant drowsiness, ending in deep sleep. When the victim is roused he is dull and stupid in manner, like a heavy drinker. This craze makes its victim a nervous wreck in a very short time.—Pearson's Weekly.

RIDING THE SURF.

Riotous Sport in the Breakers That Lash the Coast of Hawaii.

"One of the novel pleasures in which most travelers indulge while in Honolulu is surf riding at Waikiki, near Diamond head," writes John Burroughs in the Century. "The sea, with a floor of lava and coral, is here shallow for a long distance out, and the surf comes in at intervals like a line of steeds clattering over a plain. We went out in our bathing suits in a long, heavy dogout, with a native oarsman in each end.

"When several hundred yards from shore we saw on looking seaward the long, shining billows coming, whereupon our oarsmen heeded the canoe toward shore and piled their paddles with the utmost vigor, uttering simultaneously a curious, excited cry. In a moment the breaker caught us and, in some way holding us on its crest, shot us toward the shore like an arrow.

"The sensation is novel and thrilling. The foam flies; the waters leap about you. You are coasting on the sea, and you shout with delight and pray for the sensation to continue. But it is quickly over. The hurrying breaker slips from under you and leaves you in the trough, while it goes foaming on the shore. Then you turn about and row out from shore again and wait for another chance to be shot toward the land on the foaming crest of a great Pacific wave."

Turn to the Earth.

You to whom the universe has become a blast furnace, a coke oven, a cinder strewn freight yard, to whom the history of all ages is a tragedy with the climax now to whom our democracy and our flag are but playthings of the hypocrite, turn to the soil, turn to the earth, your mother, and she will comfort you. Rest, be it ever so little, from your black broodings. Think with the farmer once more, as your fathers did. Revere with the farmer our centuries old rural civilization, however little it meets the city's trouble. Revere the rural customs that have their roots in the immemorial benefits of nature. There is perpetual balm in Gilead, and many city workmen shall turn to it and be healed. This by faith and a study of the signs, we proclaim!—Nicholas Vachel Lindsay in Farm and Fireside.

Practical Piety.

The goodly minister saw one of his parishioners running rapidly down the road, trying to keep in sight of a retreating form ahead.

"Ah," called the minister, "whither away, my brother?"

Seeing the race was lost anyway, the chaser stopped and pantingly replied: "That confounded thief stole my coat!"

"Ah, and you were following the Scriptural admonition to give him your cloak also, were you?"

"No," said the parishioner frankly, "but I intended. If I caught him, to give him a belt!"—Judge.

Italy's Marriage Brokers.

In Italy marriage brokers are a regular institution. They have pocketbooks filled with the names of marriageable maidens in various ranks of life and go about trying to arrange matches.

When they are successful they receive a commission, and very likely something extra as a voluntary gift from their customer.

Hood's Bit of Fun.

An English beer vendor wrote over his shop door:

"Beer sold here."

Tom Hood, who saw it, said it was spelled right.

"The fluid the man sells," Hood explained, "is his own brain."

Spoils it All.

"Speaking of the theater, I like plays with a happy ending."

"So do I. But my wife almost always loses a handkerchief or a glove."
