Ruskin on Doctors' Fees. The problem of the doctor and his fee was admirably stated by Ruskin in his "Crown of Wild Olive." Writing of doctors, he said: "They like fees, no doubt—ought to like them—yet if they are brave and well educated the entire object of their lives is not fees. They, on the whole, desire to cure the sick and—if they are good doctors and the choice were fairly put to them—would rather cure their patient and lose their fee than kill him and get it. And so with all other brave and rightly trained men their work is first, their fee second—very important always, but still second."—London Standard.

DAY LABORER TO MINING MAGNATE

JERRY SHORT LAID DOWN PICK AND SHOVEL ONLY SEVEN-TEEN YEARS AGO.

Kansas City, May 26.—Jesse M. Short, one of Joplin's richest mining men, was a day laborer six years ago. He started drilling land two miles west of Webb City—land that had never been mined. Mine operators laughed at him. Six months after he had laid down his pick and shovel as a laborer, Jesse Short had an income from his own mines of more than $1,000 a week. The virgin ground he had opened has proved one of the richest zinc and lead camps in the district.

Sudden riches did not turn Jesse Short's head. To be sure, he built a fine home for his family and the old white horse he had driven to and from his work for years gave way to motor cars, but he never forgot the "boys" he had shared dinner buckets with away down in the mine drifts in days ago.

When he built a new mining plant he invariably hunted up his old "buddies"—as they call their pals in the mines—and made superintendents of them. He got them to save their money and helped them obtain promising leases. He "put in" with them and with them as partners organized new companies.

Visitors to the mining district are always taken to Thomas Station out west of Webb City to see Jesse Short's big mines. As the motor loads of visitors would drive up to the office, a ruddy-faced, strapping fellow in rough clothing, spattered with mine clay, would come out.

"Howdy, folks," he would say. "Get down, come in and look around. Made thirty ton today."

That was Jesse Short. Within the past four years Short has developed five of the biggest mining properties in the Webb City-Joplin district. They are the Pocahontas, the Sitting Bull, the Geronimo, the Powhatan and the Wanita Pearl.

The Sitting Bull's record of one day's production has never been duplicated in the district. The Pocahontas is now the most productive mine in the district.

SOME ECHOES OF THE FEDERATION

President and Foreign Minister Realize What Christianity Has Done.

New York, May 26.—While the American churches were holding special sessions of prayer for the right guidance of the Chinese republic, in response to the invitation of the Peking authorities, the native Independent Christian Church in Peking, of which the Rev. Mr. Meng is pastor, also had a prayer service, which is reported in the mails just arrived from China.

Pastor Meng opened the meeting and after prayers and hymns he introduced Wellington Keoo, who had been commissioned by President Yuan Shi Hal and the Minister of Foreign Affairs to convey the greetings of the Government to the church.

"Both the President and Minister Lu Cheng-hsiang take special interest in this meeting," their deputy began. "The old Book says the root is in the heart, and if the heart is right the man will be right, and so the family, and so the whole nation. It is the power of religion that is necessary to-day.

"Although under a Republic there is equality in religion, the President and Mr. Lu recognize that Christianity has done much for China. Christians are not regarded now, as under the Manchu dynasty, as a class by themselves, but as citizens of the Republic, whose work has done much to promote morality in this land. We hope that Christianity may advance here, and we come with the expression of our best good will to this gathering, which has met to pray for the nation at this important juncture in its reorganization."

WARMER IN SOUTH.

But No Unseasonable Temperature According to Forecast.

Washington, May 26.—The forecast of the Weather Bureau for the week as issued Sunday is as follows:

"The week will open with unsettled weather east of the Missouri River. There will be showers Monday and Tuesday in the Great Central Valleys and the Lake Region, and on Tuesday or Wednesday in the middle Atlantic States and New England. In the Central West generally fair weather should prevail about the middle of the week.

followed by unsettled conditions at the close, while in the East the weather will be fair during the closing days of the week. For the South, the Southwest, and the extreme Central West present indications favor fair weather generally, while in the Northwest fair weather will also prevail, except about the middle of the week when local showers are probable.

"It will be warmer in the South, but there are no immediate prospects of unseasonably warm weather over any portion of the country. There will be frosts Monday morning in the interior of New England and eastern New York, and low temperatures will continue for a day or two over the northern and eastern portions of the country, followed by warmer conditions by the middle of the week."
