NEW BERNE, N. C., THURSDAY, APRIL 27, 1882.

NO. 22.

LOCAL NEWS.

Storm Signals flying.

Receipts of cotton yesterday foot up 17 bales. No sales. Prices unchanged. Shad were scarce and higher yesterday. Retail price for roe, 90 cents per pair.

The Contentnea brought in from Trenton on yesterday, corn, meal, rice and thirteen bales of cotton for Mr. Edmond Heath.

Rev. J. L. Winfield, editor of the Watch Tower, departed for Elizabeth City, via the Midland Railroad, on yesterday to attend the Press convention.

We noticed a wagon load of green rye on the streets yesterday. It was very fine—shaded about four feet in length—and was from the farm of General Ransom.

One case before the Mayor yesterday, or rather three cases against one man, one for drunkenness and disorderly conduct, one for fast driving, and one for resisting and abusing an officer. Fine, $2.00, $2.50, and $5.00, respectively, and cost.

Off to Kinston.
Messrs. C. C. Clark, H. R. Bryan, Geo. Green, W. W. Clark and the Journal head are off to Kinston attending court.

A Large Shad.
Mr. G. N. Ives received a roe shad a few days ago which weighed 74 pounds. He says it was the largest he had ever seen in this market.

Irish Potatoes.
Captain S. H. Gray sent us a treat yesterday, in the way of Irish potatoes; the first we have seen this season. Some of them were nearly as large as a goose egg.

Smoke House Robbed.
The smoke house of Mrs. Eleanor Koonce of Chingquapin, Jones county, was robbed of its contents—the family supply of bacon for the year—last Saturday night. The thief not found.

Personal.
Mr. George Allen and Rev. L. C. Vass are attending the meeting of the North Carolina Presbytery at Lexington this week.

Mr. David Sanderlin, a prominent farmer of Onslow county, is in the city.

Feed the Lambs.

Superintendent J. H. Mills of the Oxford Orphan Asylum is in the city buying potatoes, corn and fish for his family which numbers one hundred and thirty-five. Couldn't have found a better place in North Carolina, for since we have strolled around these streets, by ways and docks, potatoes, fish and corn were to be found in abundance. Mr. Mills made a purchase of 15,000 herrings from Watson & Daniels at cost.

Attorneys at Law.

We notice the following attorneys present in the Federal Court yesterday morning: J. F. Wooten, Lenoir; Mr. Thorne, Norfolk; J. E. O'Hara, Halifax; J. Langdenwald, New York; W. H. Bagly, Jackson; W. S. O'B. Robinson, District Attorney, Goldsboro; W. T. Caho, Pamlico; Judge W. J. Clarke, Goldsboro; Rodolph Duffy, Onslow; Geo. T. Wasson, Goldsboro; and from New Berne, Major Hughes, L. J. Moore, A. G. Hubbard, Judge Thomas, F. M. Simmons, M. DeW. Stevenson, Judge Green, C. C. Clark, W. W. Clark, W. E. Clarke, and Clement Manly.

Judge Gilmer.

This gentleman, whom it was our pleasure to meet in Kinston on Tuesday, has had the pleasure of meeting many of his old Regiment, the 27th, while holding the courts in the 3rd district. There were in the 27th two companies from Lenoir, two from Wayne, two from Pitt, and one from Jones. The Judge readily recognizes any of his old comrades who grasp his hand and say "how are you Colonel?" and then he is ready to talk of the times that tried men's souls, and many of the old veterans can best him on a real war yarn, but the Judge enjoys it just the same. We have not had the pleasure of attending his court while in session but from all reports we take him to be a model Judge. We had the pleasure, however, or rather it was our duty to follow him through many hard fought fields in Virginia, and we remember distinctly how gracefully he fell on the bloody field of Bristoe Station, and how disgracefully we ran after being plugged with three Yankee bullets, fortunately none of them affecting our propelling powers.

The Judge is taking a great interest in making up the records of the old 27th; he has urged upon them to get the names of all their dead comrades and send them to him and he will forward them immediately to Maj. Moore who has been appointed to prepare a rostrum of North Carolina troops. We have promised to send him a complete list of Co. D, and we intend to fulfil the promise. So we command "Fall in Co. D, and attention to roll call!"

The Guldbriaga.

This case came on first in Court yesterday for a preliminary hearing. A short time since the Guldbriaga, a Norwegian barque laden with steel rails for the Midland Railway, ran aground in Beaufort harbor and this suit or libel is brought to arbitrate and determine the salvage to which these different parties are entitled for assisting her off.

Messrs. Clark & Clark represent the schooner American Eagle, claiming $500 and the steamer Blanche, claiming $1,500. Judge Thomas represents Mr. Chadwick and a vessel whose claims aggregate $800.

Major Hughes, with Ellis & Thorne of Norfolk, represents the Baker Wrecking Company, claiming $6,000; and the District Attorney had a claim on behalf of the Government for the duty on the rails and for salvage on behalf of the Revenue Cutter.

The Guldbriaga was represented by Messrs. Green & Stevenson and J. Langdenwald of New York, who intimated that there would be no serious contest except in the case of the Baker Company; and on motion of the defendants it was ordered that the various suits be consolidated. By consent of the counsel it was then ordered that the matter be referred to Thos. J. Hamilton as Stenographer and Commissioner to take testimony and report to the Court.

It is expected to get a final hearing in a few days.

The Hatcher Case.

The case of James H. Hatcher, the colored boy accused of robbing the Goldsboro post office was the most important criminal case called yesterday.

It will be remembered that a few weeks ago, on the night of a fire, the postmaster went to the office on hearing the fire alarm, and discovered in Hatcher's room, who was a clerk in the office and had a bedroom in same building, a lot of bundles broken open which belonged in the office and which Hatcher had apparently been overhauling, and in the confusion of the fire alarm had left lying loose on the floor. Watching the negro return the postmaster followed in and found these same articles concealed under his bed. The defendant is a young thickset dark-eyed, black and heavy lipped with an average intellectual expression, and more than an average innocent look.

The testimony was brought out as above outlined, and the post master, Mr. John R. Smith, produced in court the various articles found in defendant's possession. Among them was a box sent from Wilmington to King's Mountain; some chromos; some Sunday school cards, identified by Major Grant as similar to some he had recently ordered and had never been delivered; and a locket, identified by Mr. Haywood Best of Greene county as similar to one he had, some time before the fire, ordered from Ehrich & Co. of New York along with some other goods, which goods, with the exception of the locket, had been received, the box having the appearance of being broken into.

The defendant was represented by George T. Wasson of Goldsboro and J. E. O'Hara of Halifax, and the Government by the District Attorney assisted by Major Bagley.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty.

In the Enemy's Camp.

A JOURNAL reporter, coming from Kinston yesterday, noticed a wagon, buggy, mules and other implements for the surveying party of the Midland Railway on the proposed Snow Hill and Greenville Railroad.

On arriving at New Berne ye reporter, meeting Col. Yates and Major Andrews in the Central Hotel omnibus, inquired courteously about the survey.

Col. Yates: "Don't know anything about it. Write to Mr. McLane at Goldsboro and maybe he will tell you something about it. I'll tell you one thing, we'll survey no route from Kinston. We have no information to give you. We pay our own money and keep our own secrets. Isn't that right, Mr. Andrews?"

Captain Andrews: "Yes, especially when you are in the enemy's camp."

JOURNAL Reporter: "I don't see why you regard us as enemies."

Captain Andrews: "I don't see how we can regard you as anything else."

Col. Yates: "Don't you think it would be a good idea to drive all the capital out of the country? Especially Yankee capital."

NOTE.—The JOURNAL is a newspaper, with opinions of its own on all live issues. It is inimical to no one and to no worthy enterprise; neither is it the organ of any person, clique or corporation. The lease by Mr. Best of the A. & N. C. Railroad had in it a firm supporter, as its files will show, but yet it does not hesitate to characterize some of Mr. Best's plans as visionary, as lacking in good judgment and as destined to failure. We would like it to be always understood that the JOURNAL has no friend that it will support contrary to what it deems right; nor does it ever expect to have an enemy whom it will attack for interested or personal motives.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 25.

In spite of the grim tragedy that hung like a pall over the opening of the fashionable season at the Capital, Vanity Fair has never shown with more brilliancy than during the past winter and present spring; and now that the six months of mourning prescribed by our English-imitating official etiquette is over, and the repressive days of Lent are passed, all semblance of restraint is laid aside, and Washington, from sage Senator to sweet sixteen, is nightly massed at a reception, a great dinner, a ball, or the opera. At the Presidential receptions during the last two weeks the dressing was unsurpassed by anything I have ever seen, except, perhaps, the toilettes of "Nana" and those of her class at the Grand Prix de Paris in 1878. The gentlemen of the Foreign Legations wore court dress with great display of lace and buttons, and it was necessary for the ladies to throw the utmost possible splendor into their costumes in order to vie in brilliancy with the tinselled soldiers and diplomats. The display of diamonds was literally dazzling. No such display has been seen since Mrs. Astor appeared, during the last administration, loaded with precious stones and followed by a hired detective.

Among successful dinner givers Senator Fair must be awarded the first place. He lives in a large house adjoining the Arlington Hotel. The building is superb in all its appointments. The practically unlimited wealth of the bachelor Senator enables him to dine everybody that is worth dining. It was impossible, of course, for Congress, officers of the Army and of the Navy, to sit down to his table at one time, but he has followed the programme of the President's state dinners, and by inviting in group has gotten pretty well through the list. At a dinner given by him attended by the President, Cabinet and their families, there were sixteen courses and eight varieties of wine.

President Arthur has not upheld the banner of totalism with very great enthusiasm, and has incurred the displeasure of those who lament the end of the administration of Mrs. Hayes. He has been accused of unseemly debauchery, and of making the White House a chapel of drunken saturnalia. On the other hand it is claimed that while not a total abstainer he has complete control of his appetite, and that neither he nor his companions ever go beyond the bounds of decorum. One of his defenders goes so far as to say that his cares and his devotion to the business of his exalted office have caused him to lose twenty pounds in weight. I do not believe this last story. He is certainly stouter looking, and has more color than he had when he presided over the Senate one year ago, or when he appeared at the Inaugural Ball at the National Museum, scarcely noticed among the greater celebrities there.

I went one day last week to attend the lectures of the Academy of Sciences, now held in one of the rooms of the National Museum. Mr. Cushing was lecturing on the mythology of the Zuni Indians, while half a dozen representatives of the tribe, in native costume, sat on the platform behind him, fast asleep. I could not help thinking of the last time I had been in the building, lighted and heated to suffocation, crowded with the wealth and talent and beauty and wickedness of the country. About ten o'clock there was a commotion in the crowd and a rush to the western door, through which entered the pale, care-worn, bored-looking President, with Mrs. Garfield on his arm.

Cyclone.

DWELLINGS, BARNS AND OUTHOUSES BLOWN OVER—ONE CHILD KILLED AND OTHERS INJURED—GREAT DESTRUCTION TO FORESTS.

A cyclone passed to the northward of this city on Saturday afternoon and was terrible in its effects. The wind carried everything before it in its track, which was about half a mile in width. Houses and trees were taken up bodily and carried some distance from where they formerly stood. This section was never before visited by winds so severe and dangerous.

The gale came from the west, taking a due easterly course. On the Black River the first evidence of the storm was at a point three miles above Point Caswell, known as the "Three Sisters." The wind then travelled on, striking the plantation of Mr. E. A. Hawes, blowing down his barn, outhouse and chimneys of his residence. Mrs. Flora Colvin lost heavily by having her barn, corn crib, stables and outhouses demolished. The house of Mr. William Lewis was badly damaged. The doors and windows were blown in and the furniture and clothing were taken up by the wind and carried before it for some distance. Some of his bed-clothing was found a half-mile from his residence after the gale passed over.

The house of Louis McAllister, colored, was completely destroyed. Mr. G. W. Woodstock was possibly the heaviest loser in that locality. His stables, corn cribs, barns, outhouses and dwelling were leveled, and his chickens, hogs, etc., were picked up by the gale and carried some distance, killing most of them. One of Mr. Woodstock's horses had an eye put out by a piece of timber striking him in it. At Rock Hill seven miles north of this city, fifteen houses, and a church were blown down. Here the only loss of life occurred that we have heard of. Rock Hill is a little colored settlement near the "Hermitage," and was made up of small log cabins. The houses of Rachael Pugh, Mary Risbon and Hester Williams were blown down and the inmates more or less hurt. A baby of Hester Williams was killed by falling timbers, and an older child had his collar-bone broken. Mr. John St. George was damaged by the loss of his barn and outhouses.

At Long Creek the storm was very severe and seemed to gain impetus as it traveled. A limb of a sycamore tree was blown nearly four miles. The dwelling, barns, outhouses, corn-cribs, etc., of Messrs. Dan'l Bordeaux, Sam'l P. Hand, Wm. Player and Frank Sanders were completely demolished. Mr. Player's meat was blown out of his smoke-house and carried over a half mile from his dwelling. Mr. Thos. Wilson's steam saw mill was blown over and the machinery somewhat damaged. The track of the storm was three miles south of Burgaw, and that thriving village was not damaged. As it crossed the Wilmington & Weldon Railroad, stones from the banks were thrown with such force against the telegraph poles as to imbed themselves in them. The wires were torn from the poles and blown up in trees thirty feet high. An apple tree was twisted up by the roots and lodged in the top of a large pine.

The residence of Mr. W. J. Brown was blown over and imprisoned his wife and children. They were extricated from the debris without having sustained any very serious injury. The forest through which the storm passed was badly damaged.

SOULS.

The Star and the News and Observer are still butting at each other with all of the persistence of the male species of "ram, lamb, sheep and mutton." They can agree on but one point and that is to disagree. Just now it is in regard to the Congressmen-at-large. A thinks B is afraid that C may catch the nomination and while declaring that Gen. Cox has no such aspirations, remarks, with a fierce smile, that "the central section, however, has as much right to ask this nomination as any other section, unless by common consent it be accorded to the Second district." Certainly the centre has as much right to the nomination as any other section. It has a greater right if possession is as has been asserted, nine points in law, for it has nine-tenths of the offices in the gift of the State government. But of that we are not to speak here at length. In our opinion the Second district is by all means entitled to this nomination. It is the only district in the State in which the tax-payers, the Democrats, are not represented in Congress. This, be it remembered, is through no fault of their own, and because of this we think that the people of that district should be allowed to name the man.

The only drawback to this concession to the voters of the Second district lies in the fact, which is indisputable, that the Congressmen-at-large will stand the best chance of the nomination for Governor at the Constitutional Convention. This fact, however, does not interfere with the rights of the case, although it may be sufficient to influence conclusively the counsels of the party in the nomination. W. H. Berlin.

A Successful Enterprise.

In September last, Messrs. Cox, Peck & Co., started their shuttle and spoke factory in our midst, and the Leader is proud to know that the enterprise has proved a success. They have made five shipments since they began operation. The last one was made last week and embraced 69,000 blocks and 4,000 buggy spokes. On these blocks a reasonable profit was realized. The amount of money expended for material and labor during the six months amounted to about $9,000. They have about $2,000 worth of timber on hand. The territory in which they get their wood is small, just around this immediate community. The enterprise has been a benefit, not only to the town, but to farmers, as it enables them to dispose of their useless timber to great advantage. The most abundant success to all concerned, is the hearty wish of the Leader. Winston Leader.

The Prospect for Fruit.

Mr. J. W. Ward, who is a large fruit raiser, as well as a good horseman, has just shown us a few limbs with fruit on them which it is reasonable to infer that, should nothing happen to the fruit, there will be an abundant supply of all kinds. The branches are about two feet long, and we have taken the trouble to count as follows:

Gov. Wood Cherry—ripens middle of May—has fifty cherries.

Bentley Peach—ripens about 20th of June—has sixty-three peaches.

The Yellow June Apple—has sixty apples.

He reports strawberries ripening, but not so fine a prospect for other fruits. Greenboro Eagle.

It is Curious.

That catfish should swim backwards in the month of May.

That some people will insist on going against their own interests.

That anybody should be opposed to graded schools.

That a fat man should tremble with cold in winter weather.

That the colored voters should be asked to stand in the way of free schools. Durham Tobacco Plant.
