The Crop Outlook.

It is admitted that the farmers' condition is the true barometer of the financial state of the country. Sometimes speculators and stock gamblers can make an artificial atmosphere that runs the barometer up or down to suit their wishes, but it is only temporary, and in a short while monetary matters fall to the position assigned them by natural laws.

The country has been prospering for four years and it is also true that extra bountiful crops have been reaped in that same period. While there have been local droughts and sectional disasters, the country at large has been kindly blessed with excellent crops and abundant harvests. The farmers have prospered and the whole country has received a portion of the benefit arising from that prosperity.

The outlook for the present year is favorable. From the New York Times, we publish below a collection of statistics from a number of States. From them we see that the small grain crops promise well. Winter wheat will give an increased yield in nearly every State except Indiana, Ohio and New York. Spring wheat is much better. In the great grain States west of the Mississippi the increase is as much as 50 per cent. Corn shows a large increase in nearly every State where it is cultivated at all. Emigration and the pushing of railroad construction are prominent factors in the increase of the grain fields.

It is not believed that cotton can make much more than an average crop. Planters have already exhausted the supply of labor and the only increase of cotton must be by extra fertilization and not by increase of acreage. And it is doubtful, even if there shall be an increase of the crop, whether force can be had to pick it out. The demand for cotton is growing year by year faster, we believe, than the supply, and if so this crop is destined to prove a blessing to the South.

yield 10 or 15 per cent. increase. A good crop of oats and a large yield of corn are expected.

Georgia.—Various causes have led to a slight decrease in cotton acreage, with a large increase in food crops, principally corn and oats. Rice and sugar-cane are about the average.

Indiana.—The winter wheat generally was badly injured by frost, and a short crop is expected. Barley is also injured. Corn and oats show an increase. Fruit, except apples, will give a small yield.

Kansas.—The outlook for all grain has never been better. The acreage of winter and spring wheat, corn, and rye has increased from 30 to 100 per cent. Sheep-raising is a growing interest.

Kentucky.—Winter wheat shows a larger acreage; crop in good condition. Corn and oats will be planted more than last year. Tobacco remains as last year. There will be a fair crop of peaches.

Louisiana.—Cotton-planting has been retarded; the acreage will probably not change much. The sugarcane, except in overflowed places, is generally in very good condition, with the usual acreage. Corn will show some increase.

Maryland.—More than the average crop of wheat and corn is promised. Tobacco will remain about the same. The fruit crop has been nearly destroyed by frost.

Mississippi.—The yield of cotton is expected to be as large as the big crop of 1881. Seven-eighths nearly of the flooded districts will be planted. The prospects for corn and oats are unusually flattering, with an increased acreage.

Missouri.—Winter wheat is usually advanced, with largely increased acreage, and in good condition. Oats, corn, and potatoes were never more promising.

New Jersey.—Hay and clover have generally been much injured. A light increase in wheat, rye, oats, and corn, and a decrease in tobacco are reported. A good crop of fruit is expected.

New York.—Winter wheat will show a short crop. More oats and about the same barley have been planted. Dairy industry is extending. Hops have been injured 10 per cent. The Hudson Valley peach crop is a failure; other fruits, except cherries, promise well.

North Carolina.—The cotton, with the use of fertilizers, will probably be an average crop. There is a large increase in the area devoted to corn. The rice acreage has been doubled. Fruit prospects are good.

Ohio.—Injury to winter wheat despite increased acreage, will prevent more than an average crop. Oats and potatoes show some increase. Meadows have been injured. Dairy and fruit interests look well.

Pennsylvania.—Notwithstanding an increase in general acreage, it is believed that grain and hay will not give average returns. Corn, oats, potatoes, and tobacco are more extensively planted.

Rhode Island.—Corn and potatoes show an increase in acreage. Grass is looking well. Farm labor is scarce.

South Carolina.—Cotton looks well, with a slightly diminished acreage. Winter wheat and oats show a very large increase. Rice promises not more than half the usual crop.

Tennessee.—The planting of cotton is increasing. The prospects of winter wheat are endangered by fly and rust. Fruit prospects are flattering. Grass is above the average.

Texas.—Wheat promises a yield over that of last year. Corn and oats look well, and the acreage has been extended. Cotton is in good condition. Stock-raising interests are prosperous.

Virginia.—Tobacco is promising; there may be a slight decrease from the average. Winter wheat and oats will be about as last year. The corn acreage is smaller. Fruits have been much damaged. Labor is scarce.

West Virginia.—Winter wheat, with the same acreage, will show double the yield of 1881. Corn and oats are more generally planted. Fruits have been much damaged.
