VOL. I.

NEW BERNE, N. C., SATURDAY, MAY 13, 1882.

NO. 36.

LOCAL NEWS.

No cotton sold at the Exchange yesterday.

It was $2,250 and not $2,500 awarded the Baker Company in the Guldbriinga case.

We call attention to the advertisement concerning the hog law for the city. Time is out.

Twelve o'clock to-day is the time appointed for the meeting of the Democratic County Executive Committee.

Major Dennison received by steamer New Berne, yesterday, a new oil press in place of the one which burst last week.

Marshal Gaskins arrested on Thursday night Katy C. Laurence, col., for larceny. She is an accomplice of Ella Selby.

The "Mayors article" in yesterday's JOURNAL was murdered by a careless printer, by leaving out a paragraph which destroyed the sense.

The steamer New Berne brought in yesterday the street scraper presented to the city by our former townsman, Edward R. Stanly, now of Raleigh, N. J.

Judge A. S. Seymour will deliver the Memorial Address at the decoration of the Federal graves, near Raleigh, on the 30th instant, as we learn from the Raleigh Visitor.

Complaints are made by citizens from the country that the engineer on the Midland Railroad does not give sufficient notice in nearing the public road near the city. The whistle is said to be sounded only when very near the crossing, and travelers are often in danger of being run over.

First Shipment of Beans.

Mr. Carhart shipped by the New Berne, yesterday, two boxes of beans, the first of the season. They were raised by Mr. John Hanff, and sold to Mr. Carhart for four dollars per box.

Passengers by Steamer New Berne.

W. H. Oliver; Walter Carstarphen; F. F. Hargis; Mr. Wall; Mrs. Gooding; Mrs. Buckner and two children; Mrs. S. T. Hand, jr.; Mrs. Lieutenant Newcomb; Miss Rosemanje Newcomb.

Tough Tree.

At Mr. F. S. Ernul's farm, in this county, there is a curious freak of nature. Last July he made a cider press and cut a black gum log, and morticed into a tree for a lever. This Spring this same gum log has taken a notion to commence growing, and green sprouts are putting out on it plentifully.

Come and get Your Money.

The excursion train on Thursday evening ran over and killed two cows three or four miles above New Berne. The hides and beef were brought here and delivered to Thos. Stanly Esq., who sold the same. The owner can get the proceeds of the sale by applying to Mr. Stanly and paying for this notice.

Tired of Speculating.

John Stricklin of Kinston, with his two lieutenants, Roger Sears and Lon Morton, was in the city on Friday on a beef speculation. He had heard of the high price of beef in New Berne, and bought up five fine Lenoir oxen to bring here on a little speculation. But the New Berne beef men had a "corner" on him and finally Julia closed out to Capt. Southgate of the steamer New Berne for $120—just what they cost him net, with his expense in driving to New Berne to come out of his own pocket. He thinks of retiring from the market.

Personal.

Mr. F. S. Ernul from near Swift Creek was in the city yesterday, making preparation for a log-rolling; said preparations consisting of four gallons of "tanglefoot."

We were pleased to meet Mr. A. Mitchell of Kinston yesterday. He says he bluffed New Berne—trying to get up a bet on Joe Lassiter's horses.

The largest sheep owner of Craven, Mr. Wm. Foy, was in the city yesterday. He says he will get rid of his sheep on account of the trouble he has with dogs, buzzards and eagles. Would not a good shepherd pay him?

Mr. Frank Myer, one of the largest cotton buyers of the city left yesterday on the New Berne for Norfolk. He will return for the fall cotton trade.

Capt. E. B. Page of Trenton is in the city. He says the number of Democratic aspirants for nomination for Senator from Jones is legion. That every man who has recently bought a Cincinnati buggy or a new horse certainly has the fever.

Capt. S. H. Gray and Mr. T. A. Green left on the steamer Defiance on Thursday night for Baltimore, to make arrangements about purchasing the steamer for the New Berne and Pamlico Transportation Company.

New Berne's Industries.

On Friday we visited the different Machine shops in New Berne for the purpose of giving our readers an idea of the amount of work done in that line. The first called upon was the house of MANWELL & CRABTREE.

These gentlemen have added to their shops since being burned out, between three and four thousand dollars worth of machinery. They work from fifteen to sixteen hands, and have plenty of work-orders about three months ahead. They are now working on two boilers, one for Mr. J. C. Whitty at Pollockville, and one for George Mason of Carteret.

"What is your principal line of work, Mr. Crabtree?"

"We build boilers, engines, cotton presses, steamboat work and do repairing of all kinds."

"Can you compete with Northern work as to prices?"

"O yes. Much of our work is done cheaper than Northern shops. I can show you in five minutes why we can do it as cheap. We have the most improved tools, and all the facilities for doing work and there is no reason why a man can't get as good or even better work done here than abroad. Besides, we are both Master machinists and don't have to pay a high price for a head man or superintendent."

A foundry is connected with these shops in which casting is done for grist mills, saw mills etc. They have lately added Merriman's patent bolt cutter which does in one day the work of one hand for a week.

NEW BERNE MACHINE WORKS.

are operated by Mr. E. G. Cuthbert. He began work in 1875, without capital, but master of his trade. He rented tools and commenced work at Howard's ship yard. Now he has a good large building and works six hands besides himself.

"You work yourself do you?"

"O yes. I consider myself equal to two or three ordinary hands."

"Do you get plenty of work?"

"Just all I can do."

"How about competing with Northern work?"

"We can do the same quality of work just as cheap here as they can. But we can't afford to put up good work at the same price they put inferior work. I built an engine and boiler for S. H. Fowler of Bayboro in 1879 and it has not had over ten dollars worth of repairs since then. These cheap engines give us plenty of work in the repairing line."

boiler maker, has recently built a new shop near the railroad wharf. He was not in when we called but we learned that he works ten or eleven hands and keeps busily engaged in making and repairing. He has just made the largest boiler—120 horse power for Captain Gray—ever made in New Berne.

All these shops are home enterprises and richly deserve the patronage they are receiving.

A Suggestion.

MR. EDYTON:—As a visitor I desire to acknowledge my gratitude to the ladies of the Memorial association for the very great pleasure I was permitted to enjoy at the services on the 10th inst. and I feel that it is not rude to offer them a suggestion in return for it. The suggestion I offer is, that they call to their assistance, on each return of the solemn occasion, a committee of gentlemen,—say three or five—to be known as a committee of arrangements, whose duty it shall be to have the stand arranged for the music and the oration, and above all enjoy upon the Committee to have an awning to protect occupants of the stand from the heat of the sun. The season of the year and the hour of the day are both suggestive of a warm sun; and it is generally experienced as it was on the late anniversary. A friend in whose good taste I have great confidence, suggests that the stand might be covered with an arbor of evergreens, interspersed with flowers and add greatly to the comfort of those who speak and those who sing, as well as contribute to the splendor of the occasion.

We know that the dressing of churches with evergreens at Christmas was derived from the Jewish custom of memorializing their sojourn in the wilderness by the use of evergreens, to refresh their recollections of the days of booths and tents, and might not a similar effect be produced on the mind of an OLD CONFED.

Presbyterian Picnic.

REPORTED BY THREE SCHOOL GIRLS.

At 10 minutes to 10 o'clock the Trent moved from her moorings at the foot of Metcalf street with Mr. Duff's band in tow—both loaded with pleasure seekers on picnic bent, with the Silver Cornet Band discoursing sweet music.

At the time of starting Mr. C. E. Slower officiated at the bass drum, with eye-glasses on; and then in recognition of his beautiful performance, he "set 'em up" to cigars. While passing the draw of the county bridge, the steamer ran against it and we came very near losing one of our flags.

After one hour's run we reached Foy's mill, about five miles from New Berne, where we disembarked for the chief feature of a picnic—"The Dinner"—and it was enjoyed as it deserved to be, for everything was very nice.

After dinner we took a stroll and on returning found a Sunday School scholar in the midst of his seventeenth glass of lemonade.

At 11 o'clock we went aboard and the Trent went up the river to Taylor's brickyard. One of the boat hands said it was 15 miles to Pollockville; another 14; another 3, and two said it was 4 miles. They don't pull together.

On coming back we saw a real live alligator. Will bet those grown up men who were so intent in flying around the "old maids," and wouldn't notice we young girls, don't know that an alligator is an amphibious, carnivorous reptile of the Saurian order. We couldn't even tell what a Saurian is without looking in a dictionary.

And do you know, Mr. Editor, we saw a lawyer blush to-day. When Mr. Lon Moore got up to make a speech in reply to Mr. Vass' address, he actually turned red in the face. Guess he is not used to making speeches before girls.

We guess we will not write anything more now—we are feeling a little cross anyway. A. B. C.

Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad.

The directors of this road were again in session in this city yesterday. They adopted a resolution reciting the facts of the lease by the Midland North Carolina Railroad. These were that the lessee was not to sublet, mortgage, or in any other way assign the lease. That the said lessee have recorded a mortgage in the county of Wayne, which contains a lease of the railroad. The resolution further recites that the lessee contracted in the lease to build a railroad from Goldsboro to Salisbury in three years, and to prosecute the work with vigor, and then says that this not being done renders a forfeiture liable.

But in justice to all the parties interested the directors decided to take no action at this meeting, but postpone it for two weeks, so that the lessee may have an opportunity to explain matters, at the same time notifying them of the action taken at this meeting.—News and Observer.

A Venerable Soldier.

Mr. Geo. Gehagan informs us there is living on Laurel, Madison county, a Mr. Solomon Staunton, who cast his first vote for President of the United States before the war of 1812, and was a soldier in that war, and now draws a pension for that service. At the last election he was hailed to the voting precinct, and when asked how he desired to vote, said, "I want to vote for the man who got me a pension;" and so a vote went in for Bob Vance. Mr. Staunton will be over one hundred years of age.—Asheville Citizen.

The Wilmington Shirt Factory.

The only shirt factory in the State is in this city. Mr. J. Elsbach, the proprietor, is an old and experienced hand at the business, and is turning out unlaundried shirts which are equal to any made in the country. Mr. Elsbach has twenty hands steadily employed, and will increase his force as necessity requires it. He also manufactures drawers, collars and cuffs to supply the trade. Merchants in the country would do well to give him a trial, and see how much money they could save by patronizing a home enterprise.—W. H. Review.

North Carolina Troops.

EXTRACT FROM CAPT. DENSON'S ADDRESS ON MEMORIAL DAY AT WILMINGTON. The annals of another age will stand astonished at the completeness and perfection of her sacrifice. With a white population in 1860 of only 629,000, she sent to the field more than a hundred and twenty thousand men, or one in five of the men, women and children of the whole commonwealth. Out of the 600,000 troops in battle array, on the side of the South, she contributed one fifth, or double her proper share.

And what manner of men were they whom we come together to honor to-day? They gave the first martyr in the struggle at Bethel—they made the last charge at Appomattox. They shared the dangers of every battle of importance throughout the conflict. At Winchester, where the hatcombs are gathered of the victories of a dozen sanguinary battles, North Carolinians lie in number far exceeding the melancholy array of any other State.

At Fredericksburg, where the Federal troops fought with the romantic valor that Irish soldiers lent to British arms under Wellington, and where the hills of Stratford took back their crushed and broken remnants at bloody cost to Confederate lives, the number of the dead and wounded from the grand old North State equaled that of all other States of the South combined.

Bancroft, the historian, declares that "North Carolina was settled by the freest of the free." And well did they maintain the honor of the free. Would you seek the most magnificent spectacle of dauntless bravery and undying courage? See it in the Fourth North Carolina at Seven Pines; behold it in the Fifth North Carolina at Williamsburg; find it in the Third North Carolina at Sharpsburg; see it in the Eighteenth at Spotsylvania; behold it in the Twentieth at Frazer's Farm; watch it in the Twenty-sixth at Gettysburg; glory in it as it envelopes Fort Fisher with the halo of the imperishable fame of Whiting and his glorious men.

ANNUAL GRAND CONVENTION OF THE GRAND LODGE OF NORTH CAROLINA—SECOND DAY'S SESSION.

The morning session was called to order at 9 o'clock, and was mostly consumed in transacting private business. Owing to the indisposition of some of the members, the resolution accepting the invitation to attend the Memorial services yesterday in a body was rescinded, and accepted for the members to attend as individuals, many of whom did so.

The evening session was principally devoted to hearing reports of committees, and was prolonged until a late hour. No business of a public nature transpired.

THE GRAND ENCAMPMENT—ELECTION OF OFFICERS, ETC.

At the regular meeting of the R. W. Grand Encampment of North Carolina, held yesterday afternoon, the following Grand Officers were elected and installed into their respective offices: Right Worthy Grand Patriarch—W. P. Wooten, of Wilson.

R. W. Grand High Priest—J. H. Masten, of Winston.

R. W. Grand Senior Warden—Frank Powell, of Tarboro.

R. W. Grand Junior Warden—G. M. A. Laffer, of Wilmington.

R. W. Grand Scribe and Treasurer—Ed. Zoeller, of Tarboro.

R. W. Grand Marshal—L. T. Love, of Raleigh.

R. W. Grand Sentinel—J. H. Thore, of Charlotte.

This branch of the Order is reported as being in a healthy condition, with fine prospects of increase of membership.

STATE NEWS.

Cleaned from our Exchanges.

The Wilmingtonians are treating the visiting Old Fellows right royally.

The University Railroad is finished. The last spike was driven by Miss Julia J. Spencer, daughter of Mrs. C. P. Spencer.

Tarboro Southerner: The board of examiners in Pharmacy will meet in Goldsboro, on Tuesday, May 23, 1882, to examine such applicants for license to practice Pharmacy as may appear.

Memorial day was not observed in Wilson.—D. La Fayette Stone has announced himself an independent candidate for Legislative honors in Wilson county.—Wilson has had a crank in the shape of a preacher, who finally reached the guard house.

Raleigh Visitor: Strawberries sold this morning in market at 15 cents per quart.—Messrs. Ed. Yarborough and Charles Ferral, from the fish hatchery, at Avoca, put 250,000 young shad in Hlaw River, at Moncure on Tuesday night last.—The hosts of friends of Major B. C. Manly in this city and throughout the State, will be pained to hear that his condition is extremely critical.

Daily Bogle: W. L. Kirkman of Morehead township, sheared a two-year old sheep yesterday and secured 11½ pounds of wool. This sheep is half Southdown. Last year the same sheep yielded eight pounds. This is a good yield.—Dr. J. K. Hall, Sr., and wife, returned from Texas yesterday. They are in good health, but not sufficiently impressed with the "Lone Star" to desire to live there.

Roanoke News: Hay is selling for from $1.50 to $2.00 per hundred, when the best hay can be raised here at one third of the price. When will this injurious practice cease?—The farmers of this section are at last beginning to find out that cotton alone is not profitable and are turning their attention to corn and other grain. We learn that there has been more corn, wheat and oats planted in this county this year than ever before.

Wilmington Star: The Republican State Committee of California will fire a salute of 100 guns over the signing of the Chinese bill. The hypocrites! What is their joy is Arthur's humiliation!—Beef and pork sold in St. Louis last week higher than at any time within nine years. Everything to eat is very high, and there is a steady advance in many articles of food.—Mr. Peter Mallott, formerly of this city, but for years past residing in New York, is here on a visit, and is welcomed by a host of friends.

Asheville Citizen: Mr. George Graham of Madison, sold at the Pioneer warehouse last Friday, 700 pounds of mixed tobacco for $35,000. It was raised on land that has been in cultivation over 15 years.—We learn that the "Terminal" company which is the controlling power in the Richmond and Danville Railroad system, has completed the negotiations for the purchase of the Asheville and Spartanburg Road, and is to finish it to Asheville this year.—We have received from Mr. Brandt of Cincinnati another lot of Sugar Beet seed for distribution. We are sending some to other counties, but will have a few for any one in Buncombe who may desire them.

News and Observer: Treasurer Worth yesterday received a telegram from High Point, announcing that his large saw mill near Ashboro, near Randolph county, was completely destroyed by fire at 11 o'clock Tuesday night. A quantity of rough lumber was saved. Dr. Worth says his loss is not less than $4,000, and that there was no insurance on the property.—While several little boys were playing in the streets of Graham yesterday, a young man rode a horse at a rapid rate into their midst. The horse knocked a little son of Mr. James Holt (a brother of Col. T. M. Holt), about eight years of age. The child's leg was broken and the flesh was lacerated in a terrible manner. Amputation was, we learn, necessary. The boy was a bright little fellow, and the news of his sad accident will be heard with regret.

Economist: Vennor predicted snow on last Friday.—Old Betsy's on the move. Altogether men, altogether boys. Men make towns. Risk makes men.—Hyde county Court next week. Anybody that wants to look at good lands and a prosperous and hospitable people, let him go.—We are pleased to see that our sister town of New Berne is plagued with pick pockets. It is an unerring indication of material progress.

Dare court is in session this week, Judge McKoy with a small squad of his jawing boys, went down to court in the little steamer "Lizzie May" yesterday morning. The Judge wishes to become acquainted with Bill Basnight, the bear hunter, before he runs.—We hear rumors of marriage, and the tinkle of the bridal bells sometimes ring within our ears. But there's no reality, Marry! marry! marry! It's scriptural to do so. It's wise to do so. "It is not well for man to be alone." And its worse for woman. Marry, marry. We want cake. Cake! bride's cake! black cake, pound cake, short cake, Cake! That's what we want!

Value of Newspapers.

Six hundred miles long, and 200 miles broad, with 96 counties, and 1½ millions of people, North Carolina has about one hundred newspapers. Half of her counties have no local advertisers, no means of letting the world know of the daily discoveries of minerals, timbers, and resources. What is the result? Why that some localities, which have had newspapers for an hundred years, are flourishing, growing, and politically prominent. Other sections as well located, and as gifted in every way, are scarcely ever heard of, and have scarcely any weight in shaping the policy of the State. Do you see it?

Is this any argument for helping a journal which has proven by years of labor that it aims to benefit the State? If you think not, please read on. New York is exactly the size of North Carolina. New York is the first State of the 36, composing the Union. New York is twelve times greater in population, wealth, general intelligence, and in political importance, than North Carolina, and New York has twelve times more newspapers than North Carolina, namely 1,288.

In natural resources the "South" surpasses the "West," but the Southern States have only 1,808 papers, while the West has 5,200! Perhaps newspapers did not make the West flourish, but they helped to attract immigration which did!—Farmer and Mechanic.

Professional Bon Mot. We hope we do not violate the sanctity of the judicial ermine by repeating a sharp repartee of Judge Gilliam of the State Superior Court, which recently came to our knowledge. We would not invade the precincts of propriety by telling it, but that we regard a good joke as the common property of man, of which each and every one is entitled to the easement.

Once upon a time the Federal District Court of the United States was in session at Raleigh, Chief Justice Waite, of the U. S. Supreme Court, presiding. Sergeant Gilliam had a full appearance on the Court Docket, but the luck of the tide had been setting against him and he had repeatedly failed to "get the ear of the court," in his favor. During a recess of the court for dinner, Judge Waite was sitting at the head of the table, and a roast pig with its prominent crisp ears was before him. Gilliam was sitting near the other end of the table. The Chief Justice, being in a humorous mood, cut off the pig's head and sent it with his compliments to the acerbated sergeant. Gilliam cut off one of the ears, and returned the head, with the message, that it was the first time during the week he had been able to "get the ear of the Court."—E. City Economist.
