NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Geo. T. LUFFY—Moonlight Excursion.

Thermometer Record of Yesterday.

7 a. m.	78°
2 p. m.	88°
9 p. m.	86°

Our Churches To-day.

No services in the Methodist church to-day. Dr. Burkhead, the Pastor, is at Beaufort attending the District Conference.

There will be services at the Chapel corner of Pollock and Spring streets this afternoon at 5 o'clock.

All are cordially invited to attend.

The Moonlight Excursion is postponed to Tuesday evening.

Rev. J. L. Winfield preaches at Temperance Hall to-day, at 11 a. m. and at night at the usual hour.

The poetry on the third page is written by a New Berne lady. We are not allowed to tell her name but guessing is strictly in order.

An account of the Masonic celebration at Pollockville will appear in Tuesday's issue. A young lady has promised to write it. Hope she won't pout and say "you write it."

It was Miss Annie Henderson and not Hudson in the "spelling bee" as we had it in yesterday's paper. It is bad enough for the cross editors and printers to spell common words wrong—and they ought to get the nice little girls down right.

In this week's Telephone we read an account of some tombstones recently placed in the cemetery at Beaufort, which came from New England. Why not try home workmen? We take pleasure in stating that the New Berne Marble Yard, advertised in our columns shows specimen work that cannot be beaten. Give home manufacturers a trial.

We were shown yesterday a fine crayon portrait of the Rev. Joseph Arrington, who died at Beaufort last summer.

It was drawn from a photograph by Miss Aurora Mace of this city, and is a perfect reproduction of the photograph. The artist possesses an enviable talent.—New Berne Journal.

The portrait mentioned above, now hangs in the vestibule of Ann street M. E. church, and attracts the attention of all who enter the door. The life like appearance and close resemblance to our former pastor, evinces the artistic talent of Miss Mace, and the delicate shading and natural expression, show even to common humanity that the painter is mistress of the art. Miss Aurora Mace is a native and former resident of Beaufort, and the town is justly proud of the high position she has attained.—Beaufort Telephone.

Personal.

Mr. J. C. Pittman of the Pamlico Enterprise was in the city yesterday. He has fallen off about ten pounds since his removal from New Berne. A county that produces such portly men as Dr. Kennedy and Mr. C. H. Fowler ought not to go back on a New Berne man in that fashion.

Jute Factory Assured.

Mr. Elphinstone having secured the planting of a large area of land in Pamlico, is now ready to arrange for its planting in Craven and adjoining counties. There is ample time as the oat and wheat land can now be planted in jute. Mr. Elphinstone will be at Mr. W. H. Oliver's office on Monday.

Boat For Sale.

The Bonito of Norfolk, a side wheel steamer came into port here yesterday. She came to bring Marshall Parks to inspect Club Foot and Harlowe's Creek canal; and from there made a run up to New Berne. The owner of the boat has her for sale, and expected to open negotiations with the New Berne and Pamlico Transportation company, but their order for a new boat has already been given.

Steamer Tiger Lily.

We learn that the Midland management has it in contemplation to run the Tiger Lily during the months of July and August between Washington and Morehead and New Berne, touching at Swan Quarter. The arrangement will probably be to run a weekly round trip between Washington and Morehead, via Swan Quarter, and a weekly trip between New Berne and Washington, via Bay River, South Creek, etc. This arrangement is equivalent to nomination of Beaufort, Pitt and lower Edgewcombe two trips per week between Washington and Morehead, one all water route, the other via New Bern and by rail, all at the same rate of fare. At the close of the summer season the Tiger Lily will probably go regularly into the Hyde county trade.

Musical Concert.

The musical concert and spectacular poem, which will be given Monday night by the pupils of Miss Mary Hatch Harrison and of Miss Corinne Harrison's school, is for the benefit of the Masonic Lodge.

The entertainment will be of a novel character, and promises to be exceedingly interesting. The poem is by Christina Rossetti, the writer of children's books and sacred sonnets.

The sale of tickets will begin to-morrow, Monday, morning at 9 o'clock, at the drug store of Hancock Bros. The price of admission to any part of the house is 25 cents. Reserved seats may be secured for 10 cents. The curtain rises at half-past 8.

Distribution of Prizes.

The Theatre on Friday night was filled with the friends of the little children and of education—drawn there to witness the distribution of prizes to the pupils of Miss Harrison's school, as well as to listen to Mr. Simmon's speech.

The prizes were given out and the speaker introduced by Mr. M. DeW. Stevenson who possesses the rare faculty (in introductory speakers) of saying just enough to put the audience in sympathy with the orator to be introduced, and then stopping before it should be thought that he himself was the orator rather than the introducer.

The Prizes consisted of elegantly bound volumes of standard poets and of a number of gold medals.

To Misses Hattie Dail and Lillian Greer, prizes for victory at the spelling bee.

A prize was offered by the pupils of the school to the one who had succeeded best during the last six weeks of the session. Misses Leah Jones and Lucy Taliaferro made a tie, and it was decided by vote of the school to divide the Prize. Miss Carrie Rhem was very nearly equal, having missed it by one-fourth only; and Miss Mamie Allen by sickness.

The boys had offered the girls a prize—to the one succeeding best in the last four weeks in the session—and the girls had made an offer to the boys. Master Willie Powell won one prize; Master John Jones missing it from sickness; and Miss Lucy Taliaferro won the other—Misses Carrie Rhem and Hattie Lane coming very near it.

Medals were offered last October to those whose reports averaged 84, (the highest mark being 9) all through the session. Absence and tardiness caused some of the pupils to lose the same. Absence has been excused in one case, tardiness in two, but only because we could not do otherwise, as it was entirely out of the pupils' power to have it different.

The following young ladies are entitled to medals, and we would say they are well deserved:

—Misses Anna Pearce, Leah Jones, Lucy Taliaferro, Flora Marks, May Richardson, Carrie Rhem, Ella Hanks and Maud Moore.

Some have entered since October, who could not get a medal, but have stood so nearly perfect that we think they deserve special commendation, and have decided to give them a slight evidence of the same. Misses Julia Swindell and Hattie Lane.

Those to be mentioned as having succeeded especially well during the entire session are Misses Mamie Allen, Hattie Dail and Master W. Powell.

Since Christmas, Misses Annie and Lillie Barrington, Julia Swindell and Hattie Lane.

Kinston Items.

Dr. Bartleson will leave Kinston for his health and spend the summer with Sam Loftin Esq.

Miss Eusebius Dunn and Miss Sue Phillips, of this place, visited Mrs. R. H. Lewis and family last Monday on a trip to the Normal at Chapel Hill.

Mr. Sam H. Rountree had, we are informed, cotton blooms on the morning of the 21st. Sheriff Davis and Mr. Parker may leave their honors in this line after all.

L. J. Mewborn, M. A. Gray, R. C. West and L. J. Moore, a quartette of the Kinston Fishing Club, angled in the waters of "Village Creek," Craven county, last Wednesday and brought home seventy-five fine chinquapin perch.

It will be gratifying to the many friends and acquaintances of Dr. A. J. Pollock, formerly of this place, now collector at the port of Pensacola, Florida, to learn that he is now convalescing from an eight week confinement and attack of typhoid fever at his place of residence.

F. B. Loftin, attorney at law and Daniel E. Perry, a young Statesman raised by the county of Jones are contesting for the Republican nomination to represent this county in the House of the next Legislature. And Swift Gallo-way may find in one of these young gentlemen a "foeman worthy of his steel" for the Solicitorship of 3d Judicial district. Judge Darby's disease is contagious.

The model boat of B. T. Webb was launched on the morning of the 23d instant. She was brought to the waters edge by Lewis Washington on his wavy moving rollers and given to the waves and breeze by the pulley and the capstan. She "walks the waters like a champion of life" and will be a valuable addition to the carrying trade on Neuse river. She is 62 feet long inside—12 feet in bottom and will be 55 feet long and 15 feet beam over all—draws 8 inches light—and will be named when she steams up.

W. M. Parker, farming on the land of J. P. Parrott, produced the first cotton blossom from a cotton field this year. We had two blooms on the morning of the 23d, and think it probable Sheriff Davis has pulled one and claims it, as coming from his big field of one stalk. Mr. Parker has twenty acres in cotton and says his cotton and corn are good for the seasons and, with no set back hereafter, will make as good, if not better, crops than last year. He is one of the best farmers in the county and is indeed one of those men who do more essential service to the country than the whole race of politicians together.

DIED.

At her residence near New Berne, on the morning of the 7th of May 1882, Mrs. Adaline Priscilla, wife of Council W. Hardison Esq. She left an infant only a few hours old, besides a husband and 4 children to mourn her loss. May the spirit of the living God guide and direct them aright, so that they may be enabled to meet their "loved one in Heaven."

Died, at the residence of its Aunt, on the 28th day of May, 1882, Linnie Hardison, infant daughter of Council W. Hardison and Adaline Priscilla, deceased, his wife. The little one lived just three weeks after its mother died. Her sufferings while here were intense. She has gone to meet her mama.

ELIZABETH CITY, June 21, 1881.

Hon. T. S. HOWARD, Mayor, New Berne: Sir—Permit me to extend to you and through you to the Councilmen and other officers of your city, and also to the members of the Fire Company of your city, an invitation to be present at the laying of the corner stone of the Court House on the 29th inst. Very respectfully,
MILES COMMANDER, Mayor.

New Berne District Conference.

The Conference met at 9 o'clock a. m. Religious services by Rev. T. D. Flewry of New Berne. Capt. Sabiston extended an invitation to the Conference to take a trip to sea on Saturday morning in the schooner, Wade Hampton, to return within 3 or 4 hours. Conference accepted the invitation. Rev. M. Lunsley of Craven, W. M. Robey of Goldsboro, Mr. Exum of Wayne, Mr. Darden of Snow Hill, Rev. F. D. Swindell of Kinston, Rev. D. W. Watkins of Straits and F. N. Hancock of Pamlico, all made interesting reports of their works.

A collection was taken up, on motion of Mr. Ulrich to buy literature for Pamlico mission, which resulted in over ten dollars.

At 11 o'clock there was preaching by Rev. W. C. McCorkle from Mat. 7th, 29 and 33 verses. This sermon was complimented by all, and would do credit to a "D. D." or any body else. Mr. McCorkle is one of the coming men of the North Carolina Conference.

Conference met at 3 o'clock p. m. Religious services by Rev. McCall of Pamlico circuit.

Rev. W. H. Puckett of Carteret circuit gives a glowing report of his services. He always has revivals.

Rev. Dr. L. S. Burkhead was next called and came forward and reported the good work in New Berne.

Dr. W. H. Barker made a few remarks concerning the great revival in New Berne.

Rev. N. M. Jurney of Beaufort was called, and came forward and made a fine report. Jurney is a fine preacher. He has had a good revival here, has the best Sunday school in the district, has repaired the church and painted it, and now it presents a fine appearance—Jurney has built and repaired churches on every station and circuit he has filled since he has been a member of the Conference, and should be called the "Church Builder."

The following were elected delegates to the next annual convention: J. H. Bell of New Berne, W. A. Darden of Snow Hill, Dr. J. F. Miller of Goldsboro, and Daniel Lane of Craven.

MEMORIAL.

Bell's Bridge Items.

Crops are improving fast in this community.

Mr. Samuel Quinberry of Pitt county has been sick but is up again.

Mr. J. P. Quinberry is building himself a large store at his place of business at Setersville, Pitt county.

Messrs. Webb, Pittman & Son, at Bell's Ferry are now ready to make good flour with their new wheat mill.

Wheat crops are looking well. Mr. C. M. A. Griffin has been running twelve cycles a day. He expects a large lot of wheat at his place of residence.

Messrs. E. P. Sale & Co. are now furnishing Bell's Ferry with some very fine beer. All who love to drink it can be accommodated by calling on Mr. J. S. Holton, or Mr. Griffin.

Mr. J. S. Holton, at Bell's Ferry, has the reputation of keeping a general assortment of first class wines and liquors and cool beer, and sells at very low prices. Anyone wanting wines of the best quality can get it there. He is a promising young man and we wish him well. All who deal with him will find him to be all right.

Bits of the History of New Berne.

A most singular accident occurred to the steamboat Wayne on Thursday, March 2d, 1848. As she was nearing the wharf on the Trent, nearly opposite the Deveraux buildings, about half-past 7 o'clock in the evening, she was destroyed by fire. The Wayne had just returned from a trip to Smithfield, and had on board among other freight a number of casks of spirits of turpentine. In passing between a vessel and one of the wharves, one of the casks struck against the vessel and was stove. The spirits ran upon the deck of the steamboat and over her side, and at the moment when the cask was stove the fireman was in the act of throwing overboard the fire from the furnace, which caught the spirits floating on the surface of the water, and in an instant communicated to the boat. The flames spread with great rapidity, and as the surest means of securing the safety of the passengers on board the boat was run alongside of the wharf. The alarm was instantly given, and every exertion made to extinguish the fire, but all to little purpose, and the boat and most of her contents were consumed. Many of our citizens will remember the destruction of the Wayne, and particularly the old members of the fire companies Nos. 1 and 2, or Atlantic and Neuse. The fire engines were worked by side levers with hand, and consequently it put "the boys" up to all they could do to keep them going at a fire with such help as they enlisted from bystanders and loafers, such as ever have been and always will be found at fires to order and complain. But really the most of the duties of a fireman in this day is light work compared to the work imposed upon them in the time of hand engines. But there was great and spirited rivalry existing between the companies, and while no pitched battle was ever fought yet more than once they were on the eye when one blow would have caused a general fight.

The writer of this happened for a number of years to be a fireman of the Neuse company, and considered throwing "the first water" equal in honor to a sword presented to an officer for gallantry on the battlefield. But to tell the whole truth the Atlantic was the favorite company, and but for running a little wild with excitement would generally leave beaten us. Most of the young men belonged to it and at their turnouts and parades their "machine" would be covered with bouquets, the gift of the young ladies then, now the mothers of some of our firemen. The Atlantic was painted white and ornamented with gold and no piece of furniture in any parlor, however costly, could excel it in beauty. The Neuse engine was painted black and also ornamented with gold, and while we were proud of it, never considered it of equal beauty to the other. And was he unto the individual for the hard words he would have poured upon him who had the temerity to soil either one with dirt or tobacco juice. For such an offense the Atlantic boys would never forgive.

Yet "Hoge" Van Bokkelen the first and popular foreman could and would beat his trumpet to pieces over it under excitement and to encourage and excite his men and they would work their tongues out and love him as they would a woman. "Old Josh" Denby" too, the successor of Van Bokkelen, a kind hearted and popular foreman, will also be remembered with kindness and pleasure. He was a brick mason and a number of the brick storehouses in this city bear testimony of his skill in his profession. "Billy" Jones that many of us remember with affection as well as respect, learned his trade of a mason with him, and the jokes he would often crack at Denby's expense, would have caused one to laugh, Mr. Editor, perhaps more serious than yourself, Jones was really a fellow of infinite jest. We once enjoyed for a time the meeting of Jones and Asa Hartz McNight. A gentleman I would mention if I were not afraid, was with me, and he, if his eye should catch this, will remember the meeting. Jones proved himself fully equal to McKnight and when they quit rubbing each other to the extent of their wit and ability he had not suffered in the opinion of those around them in the contest. William H. Jones was not only the life and spirit of a fine company but he was also of a military company, and would crack as many pleasant jokes at the expense of the commander of one as the other. If I were not afraid again to give a name I would say Col. J. V. Jordan could testify to this fact when commanding the New Berne Light Infantry before the war. Jones being the Orderly Sergeant and the writer of this a private, yet no one knew better than Jones the duty of a soldier, or when to cast out his wit, and no one knew better than our Captain when to allow it and when not; thus all worked harmoniously together, and there was no better drilled and disciplined company in the State than the Newbern Light Infantry. Now and then in those days we would visit different places and never with discredit to the company or our town. In his last moments Mr. Jones kept up his wit. His old Commander calling to see him, he threw a little out to him with a smile. If the world was filled with men like he was, we would all be happier and less selfish and less envious and better disposed toward our neighbors and friends. No one could long be morose with him or melancholy. He was always as bright as a spring day.

The Wayne had been insured for $4000, but the policy about a month before her loss and was not remembered. The boat was nearly a total loss with the exception of some of the machinery. Nearly all her freight amounting to nearly $1500 was destroyed. Dr. John L. Moore who had a few days previously removed from Hookerton, Greene county, to Newbern, had on board his library, medicine, furniture etc., amounting in all to about $1000, all of which was destroyed. The balance of the freight, consisting mostly in value of spirits of turpentine to the amount of $4000 belonging to Messrs. J. C. and M. Stevenson of Newbern and W. K. Lane Esq. of Wayne, was also lost. There were other small losses of different persons. The Messrs. Dibbles with their usual energy and enterprise by this disaster started again with renewed holds and very soon had another boat on the Neuse, of which we will speak hereafter.
