Mr. Clark's Position.

In ante bellum times, when the slavery question was agitating the country, it was said by pro-slavists that the business of the average New Englander was to look after the souls of all his neighbors, even if the devil finally caught his own. So it is conceded that the duty of a newspaper is to look out for the public walks of his neighbor and to see that he does not go astray in his theories and fancies.
 To-day we analyze the position held by Hon. C. C. Clark in politics, and will endeavor to see exactly where his position on County Governments will place him. Of course we understand that Mr. Clark is not an office seeker, is decidedly averse to newspaper notoriety, and especially to political controversy, about which men will quarrel but not reason; but he has given public utterance to certain political sentiments which run counter to the party with which he has affiliated heretofore, and since his personal standing will probably have considerable influence in shaping the opinions of many of his neighbors, it will therefore be not amiss to scrutinize his position.
 There are two political parties in the State, Republican and Democratic, both crystallizing in 1868 on issues, sharply defined. The issue in 1868 was "negro suffrage" pure and straight, and on it the Democracy was beaten. But the Republicans who then went into power were as a body, wholesale plunderers, and the issues from 1870 to 1876 were "economy and reform," and upon those issues the Democrats won. During this era, while the Democrats had possession of the State Government, the Republicans still held a large portion of the eastern counties, and to wrest these from under their control, and institute "reform and economy" there, the Democracy changed the form of county governments from elective to appointment by the Legislature. For the last six years this question of County Governments has been growing in importance until it is likely to prove the issue of the coming campaign. True the Republicans endeavor to hold their ranks solid by appealing to the fears of the colored race concerning the Democratic opposition to their right to vote; and the Democrats realize that their strongest plea is in reminding the rank and file of the party of what this party has done in economical administration of government—but thoughtful men are realizing that such pleas on either side are not exactly to the point, and that the "county government" question is forcing itself on the public for consideration.

On this question the two parties are diametrically opposed. The Republicans hold, and have held for years, that the present system is subversive of the personal rights of freemen, and cry for its repeal. The Democrats have been a little divided on the question and it was thought that perhaps the Convention, just met, would institute some change or modification; but instead they give the following:

white people of our eastern counties and that we consider it the bounden duty of the white men of the State to protect these people from the oppressive domination of ignorant blacks, and pledge ourselves to such legislation as will secure this end.

Then to contrast with this utterance we give an extract from Mr. Clark's letter published some days since in the JOURNAL:

I could not, gentlemen, conscientiously advocate any measure of administrative policy, which I firmly believe to be subversive of the fundamental principle of republican institution. No legislation, the avowed purpose of which is to confer the power to govern on a minority can ever find an advocate or an apologist in me.

So if there is any force in logic, and if a man will affiliate with the party that advocates his principles it would follow that Mr. Clark will in the future co-operate with the Republican party. If the Democratic Convention had dodged the question and said the matter might be left to the next Legislature untrammelled by any party policy, it would have left the door open for men who conscientiously oppose the present system to still work for the party; but the issue is sharply defined, and we see but one course for men who have as decided opinions on the question as expressed by Mr. Clark.

It is not the province of the JOURNAL to argue on one side or the other in politics. It simply wishes to keep its readers posted on the views of both parties, and we close this article with two extracts from Democratic papers:

Another howl of joy goes up from the Republican ranks. C. C. Clark, of Newberne, says that he is not in favor of the present system of county government.—Tarboro Southerner.

Mr. C. C. Clark, of Newberne, is out in a card stating that he is opposed to the present system of county Government and asking his friends not to vote for him in the convention. Your request is altogether unnecessary, Mr. Clark. The bare statement of your views upon this vital issue will debar you from receiving any nomination at the hands of the Democratic party of North Carolina.—Wilson Siftings.

Democratic Convention.
 Yesterday was a glorious day for the Democracy of North Carolina. No more harmonious convention ever assembled at any time or at any place than that which met in Tucker Hall on yesterday. Because of the new rules limiting the number of delegates, the convention was not so large as the mass meetings we have at times had as nominating bodies. It was always well under control, and a spirit of harmony prevailed, such as we have rarely witnessed. The nomination of Capt. J. A. Long for temporary chairman was received with rounds of applause as a deserved compliment to one who had spurned the insidious approaches of a foe who, erecting their own standard of worth, deemed all men purchasable.
 Col. Thomas M. Holt was made permanent president, a compliment richly merited by this distinguished gentleman, who has labored so unselfishly in season and out of season during so many years for the advancement of his native State, and for the benefit of the Democratic party.
 All nominations were made by acclamation. They were the nominations of the people, and the people will take care that they are ratified at the polls. Ruffin's name, the synonym of purity, learning and integrity, will be received with great favor in every nook and corner of the State.
 Everybody who ever heard of a court in North Carolina is familiar with the name of Thomas Ruffin, and we repeat what one of the first men of the State has lately said, a man who knew them both and is capable of forming a correct opinion: "Judge Ruffin is the equal of his father." Than this no higher praise can fall from the lips of a North Carolinian.
 Shepherd, Phillips, McKoy, MacRae, Gilmer and Shipp, gentlemen chosen for Superior Court Judgeships in their districts, are known to the people for their integrity, their capacity and their fitness for the offices for which they have been nominated. They will add many votes to our ticket in their respective sections.
 Bennett! Tyler Bennett! the chivalrous soldier, the successful lawyer, the upright Judge. Beloved of the people for his manhood and noble qualities; admired for his great capacity and sterling worth; esteemed for his learning, his culture and knightly bearing, he is brought still nearer to the popular heart because of his native magnetism, that indescribable charm of manner that attracts men to a superior man and makes him a popular idol.
 Riden Tyler Bennett stands near and dear to the people of North Carolina, and 10,000 humble homes will be rendered happy when it is known that he is to be the standard bearer of the Democratic party in the coming campaign. The people's favorite, he will move among them, evoking enthusiasm and rousing them up to a grand effort to beat back the Republicans and destroy the corrupt alliance between the revenue department and those hungry Democrats who have deserted their colors for the loaves and fishes.

 Col. Bennett will make a canvass that will live in history. The mountains will echo and re-echo his burning words of eloquence, and the hills of the Piedmont section will be illumined with the watch fires he will light. He will make a canvass rarely equalled in brilliancy, and he will carry the standard of his party to certain victory.

 With such assistant instructors as the exigencies of the School may require.

The chief work of the School is done by the Senior Principal and his two sons. The less important work is given to assistant instructors, who are selected with special reference to their peculiar fitness for the duties assigned them; and the number of students will not be increased beyond the capacity of the Principals to take personal charge of all the classes in the leading branches taught, and to supervise all the work of the School.
 The School has been under its present management for more than Thirty Years, and in this sense, it is, we believe, the oldest school in the South.
 As several of the Cadets will leave for College, there will be room next Session for about twenty new students.

 I have been handling for a long time Bergner & Engel's Celebrated Bottled Beer and claim for it, that it is Equal and Better than any other Bottled Beer sold in New Berne and adjoining towns. This beer is brought to Elizabeth City Packed in Ice and then bottled and delivered in New Berne in a better condition than if brought in barrels, thereby losing its temperature and having a less
 The claim made for Bergner & Engel's bottled beer is that it is better to have the BEER KEPT FRESH and COOL up to the
 than to let it get warm, as it necessarily must do coming from Norfolk in barrels, then cool it again before bottling.
 I respectfully solicit a trial from merchants and dealers, and will give them the best Beer on the Market and as Cheap as the Cheapest.
 Patrons on the line of the Railroad may rely on getting beer from me fresh at all times, and at the very lowest prices. Freights will also be at lowest rates. Arrangements will be made with Railroads to get freight reduced.
 To our former patrons we return thanks for past favors, and can guarantee to them that we will endeavor to act in the future as we have done in the past, striving at all times to give satisfaction.
 Remember that we never make any charge for drayage.
