Magistrate's Court

Policeman W. T. Hurtt was before W. G. Brinson Esq. yesterday morning charged with an assault on Dan Moore col., last Saturday evening.

The defendant's counsel, Mr. Clement Manly of the firm of Simmous & Manly, took the ground that the force used by Mr. Hurtt was necessary in order to perform his duty as a policeman.

The evidence introduced by both the prosecution and the defendant showed that Dan resisted the policeman when he attempted to arrest him, and eviing Mr. Hurtt when he received the blow from the "billy." John Holly, who testified for the prosecution says he saw Dan's head rising up, while he was on the dray, and Hurtt's club going down (probably the two met) but couldn't say positively that Mr. Hurtt hit Dan. The decision of the court was that the defendant used more force than was necessary to carry his prisoner to the tation, and as it was a case in which he did not have final jurisdiction, the defendant was required to give bond for his appearance at the next term of from 175 to 185 pounds to the barrel." the Superior court.

Legal Advertising.

The Legislature in 1881 passed certain laws on the subject of advertising that we desire to call attention to. In addition to requiring administrators' "Notices to Creditors" and the Annual Statement of the County Commissioners Senator Ransom telegraphs us that he to be published in a newspaper, the folwill speak at Bayboro on Saturday next, lowing clause in reference to the sale of real estate is enacted:

That notices of every sale of real estate made by order of any court, or sale under execution, shall be published once a week for four weeks immediately preceding such a sale in a newspaper (if any there be) published in the county wherein such sale is to be made. Pro vided that not more than $3.00 shall be

We direct the sheriff's attention to this clause, in his sale of lands for taxes "No sale of real estate made by order of any court"-the sheriff sells by order terday, and from them we gather the of the Court of County Commissioners, following items: and to protect himself he should comply with the law and advertise in a county purpose-to give publicity to the sale so that the property should not be sacrificed, and although the newspaper gets tember. the benefit of the advertisement, the debtor also gets the benefit of having The College for Young Ladies, Nor-W. MESSRS. EDITORS:-- I was at the "College for Young Ladies" a few days ago, and shown through the building by the courteous Principal, Dr. Saunders. The ments of modern science and art com bined in the plans and arrangements.

Great attention has been given to the important matters of light, ventilation and heat. For the former, large winat Knoxville in 1877, taking the highest dows, with the latest improvement in blinds, are so arranged that any amount of light may be admitted or excluded the floor, instead of the old fashion of having them in the ceiling overhead. This is said to be the better plan, as the noxious gases that generate in crowded rooms are heavier than common air, and remain low down until the whole below keeps the air in the room almost perfectly pure.

Heat is conveyed throughout the building from a boiler placed outside, so that an explosion would have no damaging effect, within the walls. Radiators for disseminating heat are placed in the corridors and hallways, so that the inmates are not exposed to cold air in passing from one room to another.

Bath and wash rooms are provided with hot and cold water; while the culinary department and dining-room would do credit to the most fashionable hotels in their appointments; to which is added a laundry with drying room superior to the best Chinese.

The boarders' rooms are furnished with elegant furniture, and wardrobes provided for clothing instead of closets, because they are more conveniently and tentiary. completely aired when desirable to do

The class and recitation rooms are furnished with the highest improvements in desks and seats, while genuine slate is set in the wall in lieu of used instead of chalk. Scientific appawhich almost inspires one to behold the ample and perfect arrangements.

Calisthenics receive due attention, and a large room is set apart to that use exclusively.

It is called the Norfolk College for Young Ladies, and in speaking of it, it as some attend here who have only attained their seventh year.

The building is calculated to accom-modate three hundred and twenty-tive,
