"For that are we doctored."

Cotton picking has begun in the fields near the city.

The rice mill building of Mr. Elijah Ellis is being painted.

The piling for the Athletic club building has arrived and work will be begun in a few days.

Our Register of Deeds, Mr. Joseph Nelson, has been confined to his room for several days.

There were several bales of new cotton at the railroad wharf yesterday. It was shipped from La Grange.

The steamer Kinston is rapidly nearing completion. She will probably start for Kinston on her first trip, next Tuesday.

The Democratic county convention of Jones meets at Trenton next Saturday. Hon. John W. Shackelford will speak on the occasion.

Our telegraph operator, Oscar McCullen, has been promoted and will go to Raleigh in a few days. It is reported that his successor here will be a lady. If this is true we predict a run on the office.

In the communication complaining of the Midland road, the question about providing accommodations for corn shipped from here is a most important one, and we think before the next season opens the railroad company will take pleasure in complying with this suggestion. The corn trade is a very important one and the Midland company have recognized the importance of the South traffic by putting on a steamer to run in connection with the road.

First Male.

Two bales of new cotton were brought in last night from Jones county by L. A. Haywood and Alonzo Leary, and will be on the market to-day. Hope the buyers will give Jones a good send off.

Married.

At the Methodist Parsonage, Sept. 13th, 1882, by the Rev. L. S. Burkhead, Wm. E. Pearce, Esq., of Baltimore, to Miss Margaret E. Wallace of New Berne, N. C.

Baltimore papers please copy.

School Books.

In the Graded School there will be a large number of children too poor to buy books. In Goldsboro, last year, Judge Faircloth made a donation of $100 for this purpose, and in Durham Julian S. Carr, Esq., has recently made a similar gift. Is there not some gentleman in New Berne willing to render like assistance to the poor children here? "He that giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord."

Politics in Jones.

In order that the readers of the JOURNAL may know the condition of politics in the "State of Jones," we publish the following P. card, received yesterday:

POLLOCKSVILLE, Jones County, Sept. 12th, 1882.

State, the best political judges of the Republican party of Jones county say, that Orlando Hubbs will not get one dozen Republican votes in the county. Or state a correspondent from Jones writes, that Hubbs will not get a dozen votes in the county.

Respectfully,
ISAAC H. SMITH.

River and Marine.

The steamer L. H. Cutler cleared for Vanceboro yesterday with goods for M. Bryan & Co., E. C. Cleves, E. A. Cherry, John Dinkins, M. F. Bryan & Bro., and others.

The steamer Geo. H. Stout of the Clyde line arrived from Baltimore yesterday with a full cargo of general merchandise.

The steamer Contentnea arrived from Trenton yesterday with T. A. Haywood and G. S. Simmons as passengers.

Your Name in Print.

Mr. George Williams of South creek, Beaufort county, is in the city. He brings his son Lucy and daughter Alice, who are on their return to the Deaf and Dumb Asylum at Raleigh.

We were pleased to meet yesterday Mr. T. J. Whitaker, Superior Court Clerk of Jones county. Mr. Whitaker has the credit, among the Attorneys practicing in Jones, of being one of the best Probate Judges in Eastern Carolina.

Dr. George Slover has returned from Asheville. He says the tobacco crops are fine in the tobacco region.

J. N. Foscus, Esq., of Jones, was in the city yesterday. He tells us a mule story.

L. A. Haywood and Alonzo Leary of Jones are in the city with new cotton.

Mayor's Court.

The following cases were disposed of by the Mayor yesterday morning:

Arthur Ippock was up for an assault on Riley Gatlin. Adjudged guilty. Fine $3.00 and cost.

Martha Green was arraigned for loud talking and cursing on the public street. Found guilty and fined $5.00 and cost.

John G. Watson was charged with an assault on Hollowell Brimmage. He submitted to what the witness said and was fined $3.00 and cost. In drawing out the evidence in this case it was found that Brimmage was equally guilty. A warrant was issued and read to him while he stood utterly astounded at the proceedings. He said the evidence was all wrong; but His Honor held that it was right enough to prove him guilty of an affray. He was fined $3.00 and cost.

The Theatre Last Night.

The Claire Scott Troupe played "Leah" last night at the Theatre to rather a slender audience. The play was a comparative failure, and the Troupe failed to come up to popular expectation. This was partly because of the character of the play—tragedy being evidently not appreciated last night.

Mr. Coburn, "the Schoolmaster," is a capital actor, and some of the minor parts were very well sustained, but we are unable to notice by name, as no programmes were to be had.

We desire to be complimentary in speaking of a lady, and will reserve any criticism of CLAIRE SCOTT until we have heard her again. We think some of the New Berne girls could teach her a lesson in the genuine love-making. They have down cast eyes when a sweet-heart is pressing them close in the good old-fashioned love-making.

A Mule Committed Suicide.

Mr. John W. Wooten of Jones county a few days ago put two mules and a colt in a pasture together. One of the mules was very fond of the colt. During the heat of the day they huddled together under a persimmon tree near a deep ditch, and in playing under the tree the colt either fell or was kicked into the ditch where he died. The mule that had taken the colt as his playmate galloped off to the house, jumping fences through the cornfield, ran around the barn yard while and then back to the colt where he remained awhile and then walked deliberately to the river—about one hundred and fifty yards—and drowned himself. One supposition is that he intentionally drowned himself, while another is that in searching for the colt—he did not recognize him in the ditch, and hearing the neigh of some other horse on the opposite side of the river he started across and could not swim. In either case it shows that a mule carries sympathy in his head as well as in his heels.

Jewels Excursing.

The excursion on the Goldsboro has been examined and approved.

The Panel regret that the entirety could not participate, but are grateful for the opportunity of doing so. They decide the steamer a success, the line a straight one, and the Agency excellent. The excursion was most agreeable and had the quality that always commends an excursion to the Jewels, and that was its "freedom" from cash. Free excursions have ever possessed a charm for the Panel that no others can, and while the Jewels heartily approve this one, in all its features, they wish to say to other lines they will with pleasure join them in any little undertaking of the kind whenever convenient to "the line" to set the same in motion. As to the Agent of the Clyde line they desire to express great satisfaction at the gallant behavior he displayed on this, and many former occasions; and although he will always be "Gray," they hope he will see many years before he is "grey." He has so well managed the ships that ply the sounds and canals it will be with great satisfaction that they would see him launch out on the bolder waters of the sea of matrimony, and wish to say to him now, an excursion of that kind will receive the approval of the Panel at any time. As to his able assistant, Patterson, the Jewels do not believe he was the "Inaac" that took the kindling wood up the mountain for his "papa," but they do believe he would do that, or any similar favor, to oblige or accommodate the patrons of the line with which he is connected. The rarity of the name of the commander of the Goldsboro—JONES—might lead to inquiry as to his qualifications. On that point the Jewels would say he is worthy of the mantle of his illustrious predecessor the distinguished "Paul" and will always acquit himself with the becoming gracefulness of the recent excursion. The officers and crew, Alex., Harry and all, are worthy of commendation, and it is hereby expressed; but there was one whose nobleness of demeanor stands pre-eminent in the minds of the Panel and that officer is the COOK. Just here the Jewels would say they are impressed with the sad neglect of this important factor, in published notices of excursions, sea trips and sailing parties the COOK is often lost sight of while flowery compliments are strewn around all the other officers. This the Jewels wish to check and for good reasons. Should this oversight lead to the discontinuance of the COOK on excursions, the patronage will be curtailed, and the participation of the Panel utterly abandoned from thenceforth.

As to the General Managers, Messrs. Foster and McCarrick, they living out of the jurisdiction of the Panel, are not proper subjects of investigation, but this much we may say that they are well qualified, faithful and efficient or Gray and Patterson wouldn't let them stay in the places they respectively fill. It is the pleasure of the Panel to announce that in a few weeks they hope to be numerically much stronger than at present and will be able to attend "free excursions," "picnics," "sailing parties," and will give prompt personal attention to "birthday celebrations" and "wedding anniversaries."

In connection with "birthday" celebrations, the Panel desires to know if S. H. Scott was the only member of the "Board of Trade" that ever was born, or are all the rest "immigrants?" or were the others born so long ago that they have forgotten it? Solomon remembered his last birthday and it is hoped he will not "forget" the "next." A little Juyfication on such occasions makes December as pleasant as May.

The Panel will undertake the searching of family records on this point for the reasonable consideration of an invitation to the "setting up" that may follow the discovery of such forgotten period.

Except, however, the event shall be found to have occurred on the 29th of February, in such case a reasonable charge will be made in addition to the "quadrennial invitatives." Next!

Revival in James City.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—A revival is now going on in James City, at Jones Chapel, Elder Hunter officiating. Many persons are at the altar of prayer and twelve confessed faith, among whom was a dumb man by the name of Nelson Cutler, who was converted and was heard to praise the Lord plain enough to be understood. Another deaf and dumb man named John W. Howard is crying for mercy with the others who are crowding to the altar. H.

The Midland Railroad.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—To-day I took a walk up to the railroad depot to see the improvements which have been made in the new buildings, new tracks, etc. The new depot building is very pretty; it has a reception room for ladies, one for gentlemen, a baggage room and a telegraph office. They have erected a large platform, and the new track runs close by the depot building making things very pretty and convenient. Everything in this vicinity shows signs of progress and we think the Midland road is going forward, and we hope to see the day when the road will be of some great benefit to this city, for we confess with sorrow that it is not of much good to our people now. Somebody will say (who have seen the new palace car at Morehead or Goldsboro) that I am an old fogey, but if he will come to me I will take him around the business portion of the city and give him a lesson on "advancement."

The merchants will tell him that their trade is killed at Beaufort, Morehead City and other places, on account of discriminations against New Berne, (the chief city) for instance, the freight on flour from Baltimore here is 25 cents per barrel, by steamboat, but the Steamship Company and the Railroad Company combine and carry the flour from Baltimore to Morehead City for the same freight, 25 cents, thus killing the New Berne trade entirely with these points; for if one of our enterprising merchants (of whom we have many) sells a barrel of flour at Beaufort or Morehead City they have to pay 35 cents freight, 10 cents more than they charge from Baltimore to Morehead City. Then, go to the grain dealers and they will tell you that their corn has been exposed to rain on the Railroad wharf and in some cases with heavy losses, while they have been told time and again for nearly two years by all the Railroad officials from President Best down, that the wharf would be covered soon. A great many farmers have been in

New Berne and seen the destruction of grain on that wharf this summer, and they tell us that unless that wharf is covered this season they will not ship to this place any longer and take the chances of losing their corn, etc. Progress! I believe in solid progress, but do not believe in so much progress of the tongue. OBSERVER.

New Berne, Sept. 14th.

Hyde County Items.

All quiet in politics since my last communication.

Haven't heard much of the army worm in a week.

Cotton is beginning to open. Rice is very fine, and the birds seem to fully appreciate its good qualities.

I hear of one farm, near Swan Quarter, where the corn crop is the best made since "the August storm."

Col. Carter and family have returned from Western N. C. While appreciating the scenery of the "Land of the Sky," he would not give up "old Hyde."

I hear no talk of holding a county nominating convention. The present incumbents are candidates for re-election, and will, no doubt, be continued, for they have been faithful servants.

Health of the county is good. By the way, it may not be generally known that Riley Murray, Esq., is blind—has entirely lost his sight. He is one of our oldest and best citizens. Has been in the Methodist church for many years, a valued and honored member. He is quietly, cheerfully and hopefully waiting "by the river" for the summons to come up higher. God will honor those who serve and honor Him.

Guiteau's Brain.

The committee of three doctors appointed to make a microscopical examination of Guiteau's brain have published their report in the Medical News. Here is the fundamental passage of the report:

Your committee have no hesitation whatever in affirming the existence of unquestionable evidence of decided chronic disease of the minute bloodvessels in numerous minute diffused areas, accompanied by alterations of the cellular elements in the specimens of brain submitted for their examination. While the lesions found were most marked in the corpus striatum and in the frontal region of the cerebral cortex yet they very diffusely pervaded all portions of the brain which the sections represented.

They have not been called upon to pass upon the bearing the lesion found might have upon the state of the subject's mind, and therefore do not offer an opinion.

In referring to this conclusion, the Medical News says:

We can be conducted but to one conclusion, that, although Guiteau was not strictly normal in respect to the condition of the organic substratum of the mind, and in respect to its systematic expression, he was nevertheless, a responsible agent, in that he had a clear conception of the distinction between right and wrong, and realized the nature of the crime and its punishment.

How to Observe the Sabbath.

NEWPORT, Sept. 10.—The Rev. C. W. Wendte, pastor of the Channing Memorial Church, preached a notable sermon to-day, his text being "The Sabbath was made for man." It seems that all the clergymen in the city, except Mr. Wendte signed a petition requesting the Casino Governovs to stop the Sunday evening concerts at the Casino. The church was filled and the sermon attracted a great deal of attention. Mr. Wendte advocated continuance of the concerts, as he claimed they were beneficial to the community. Sunday, he said, should be used for the recreation of the mind as well as of the soul, and Scripture was quoted to show that the day was intended for rest in every sense of the word. The Sunday of the present day, as well as Sunday as observed in Europe, was a great improvement over the Puritanic Sabbath, and the Puritans should not be considered authority for the proper observance of the day. Other and more important things in the city needed reforming, namely, the sewerage and sanitary arrangements. While however, he could not join with the other clergymen in asking the Casino Governovs to stop the concerts, he would heartily join them in putting a stop to fox hunts, which he said were cruel and barbarous, and he took occasion to denounce this popular and fashionable sport. He said that he was also willing to join hands with the clergymen in stamping out intemperance. The sermon provokes much discussion.
