Portsmouth oysters in market yesterday.

Chinquapias have appeared in the market.

Hazel Kirke last night. Emeralds on the boards for to-night.

The schooner Hall arrived at the railroad wharf yesterday with a cargo of coal for the Midland.

W. R. Union, Esq., has changed employment from the Old Dominion to situation with Burrus & Co. We miss his pleasant greeting at the Old Dominion wharf on Tuesdays and Fridays.

The Shenandoah on Tuesday had an immense quantity of Hyde county merchandise. If the bulk of Hyde merchandise comes via New Berne, as it seems to be doing now, certainly a fast steamer on this line would pay handsomely.

A Democrat from the 8th township suggests the following for nomination at our Convention on Saturday next: W. B. Lane for the Senate; Enoch Wadsworth for the House; Wm. Hollister for Treasurer, and Silas Fulcher for Register of Deeds. By common consent no nomination will be made for Sheriff.

Your Name in Print.
Mr. J. L. Egan leaves to-day for Florida. He goes to lay out a plot of ground on his land there for a railroad depot.

Presbyterian Church.
The usual Thursday evening services will be conducted in this church, this evening, by the pastor, Rev. L. C. Vass, who has just returned from his vacation.

Fire.
On yesterday morning about 4 o'clock an assistant postmaster Richardson was going down to the postoffice, he discovered fire on the Academy Green which proved to be one of the new gut houses. The fire was set on fire by some one who will find a place in the penitentiary soon if he don't mind his ways.

Pamlico News.
Mr. Ben Thomas, a type in the Enterprise office, is spending a few days in the city. He reports the political field in Pamlico as undergoing a thorough canvass. The rice crops are being gathered and the yield is extra good. Jute and cotton will not make average crops on account of too much rain in the summer.

Mayor's Court.
Mary Francis Bell was before the court yesterday morning for violating that same old section 8, chapter 11, of the city ordinances. She was discharged on payment of cost.
George James was up for using abusive language to a policeman. He was fined $3 and cost.

The Weekly Journal.
We take pleasure in announcing that the WEEKLY JOURNAL is now enlarged to a 36 column paper. We will send a few copies around to the merchants in the city for inspection. Look at it carefully, and ask if it has any superior in the State. And when it is recollected that it now has 1,800 subscribers, it will be admitted that it will wield a great influence for good to New Berne.

Election of Officers.
At a meeting of the Cotton and Grain Exchange last night the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: S. H. Gray, President; M. Matur, V. P.; Jas. Redmond, Sec'y; T. A. Green, Treas.

Executive committee: F. C. Roberts, C. H. Blane, Jos. Hackburn.
Arbitration committee: F. Myers, G. A. Oliver, J. J. Wolfenden, K. R. Jones, C. E. Poy.

Cotton Yesterday.
Cotton again went off at 1-16 in New York yesterday, and "futures" there and in Liverpool showed a sharp decline. The market in New Berne went from 10 to 10 1/2, with a sale of 12 1/2 bales, and closed with brisk demand at quotations.

Forgery.
Mr. John U. Smith had a forgery perpetrated on him yesterday. Some man who had sold a bale of cotton on the day before, took a duplicate of the same from the weigher, who marked across it "duplicate." Afterwards he erased the word duplicate and filled up the place for name by a fictitious name, "Avery," and presented the same to Mr. Smith's book-keeper for payment, and it was promptly cashed. On investigation Mr. Smith discovered the erasure and expects to prosecute the young gentleman.

Railroad Troubles.
The R. & D. R. R. and the Midland seem to be on bad terms, or the credit of the latter road is getting pretty low when the former road holds freights at Goldsboro until charges are forwarded. We give copy of postal card received from Goldsboro:

GOLDSBORO, Oct. 3d, 1882.
EDITORS JOURNAL.—There is in depot from Raleigh 30 bds. paper for you. Charges to this place $4.17. As I do not now deliver goods to the M. N. C. Ry. with charges, I give you this notice that you may understand the cause of your goods not reaching you.
Respectfully,
J. M. HOLLOWELL, Agt.

The Hubbs Canvass.

City Council.
TUESDAY EVENING, Oct. 3d, 1882.
The regular meeting of the Board was held this evening, Mayor Howard presiding, and all the members present.

On motion the committee on wharves and docks were instructed to have such work done on the wharf at the foot of Craven street as they think best.

The committee on finance reported that they had conferred with the City Attorney and also Mr. W. G. Brinson, who has charge of the Lease of the ground on which the station house, city clerk's office and mechanic's hook and ladder company's house are located and they lease the same for one or two years, with the condition attached that they will give a long and sufficient notice to this board to make other arrangements when they require the property.

Mr. Oliver, on behalf of the New Berne Academy offered to lease the lot on which the New Berne S. S. Co. now stands for five or six dollars per month.

The report of the Mayor, showing the amount of costs collected $12.90; fines $14.50, was read.

The report of the Marshal was read, showing the amount of fines and cost collected $37.40; cost of street work $48.60; pumps $30.00.

On motion, any responsible person who want the use of the city lamps to be lighted at their own expense, shall have the use of them.

On motion, the committee to put out lights were instructed to revise their work and try to arrange so as to get a light at each bored well.

On motion, the finance committee are instructed to make a lease with Mr. Oliver for the ground on which the New Berne steam fire engine house stands, at a rental of $5 per month. Bills were allowed, minutes read and adopted and the board adjourned.

A. W. Wood, City Clerk.

At the Theatre.

Last night the Madison Square Company played Hazel Kirke, a very clever and interesting society drama. From its life and sprightliness one might call it a melodrama, and to say the performance was good, excellent, is to give very scant praise. The title of the play is but faint indication of the good story which runs through the performance, and the acting of Mr. McClannin in Dunstan Kirke, Mr. F. N. Burbeck in Pittacus Green, also of Mr. Arden and Miss Howard in their respective parts, rendered the entertainment of the evening most attractive. Fun, pathos, merriment, humor, sympathy, were feelings called into play, and the audience were kept either still with interest or in laughter over the humor of the evening. To give praise to those playing the minor parts would be to give them but their due. Mr. Joseph Jefferson once played Snake in the "School for Scandal," but it was only Snake, and the praise must be given to the play as it appeared as a whole.

Judging from the ladies and gentlemen who perform for us tonight in the exquisite comedy of Emeralda, it will be a charming and delightful entertainment. There is something of our own in it, being written by a distinguished dramatist and some of the scenes laid in our own State. The lads and lasses of our own people will be among us, with the "mirror holden up to nature." We regret not being able to give a history of the drama in this issue; we can only say with an esteemed cotemporary that "Emeralda is not a story of the war nor of the fields where banners wave, but of love as pure, as true, as ever knight to lady gave." We hope our people will encourage a good performance by a rousing reception to the company at the Theatre to-night. This we say, though holding that we are discreet in praise.

Gossip Through the Telephone.

A water-logged "plant" who has taken up his quarters in the police station house gives the following conversations as overheard passing through the telephone.

(The telephone switch board needs the attention of the manager. Its morals need correction.)

"Flora!"
"Wall!"
"Have you seen Miss Core?"
"No, what is she like?"
"She is out this evening; wears glasses and low slippers. Nice looking though, blonde. Let's call."

"Where is she staying?"
"At Mr. Eason's."
"All right. Good bye."

"What Carroll?"
"C. C. Carroll of the Midland. Good fellow."
"Run away?"

"No! Gone away to get married."
"Poor devil. Requiescat! Any more Midlanders going into that business?"
"They say so; a pair of them."

"Sad, that all Benedicks should be subject to the 'toothache.'"
"Who are you?"
"I am a graded school young girl. With never a bang nor a curl. Wear my hair on my neck. In a coil a la Grec. An 'utter' ninth grade young girl."

"Lucy, who is Captain Paul who came here last week to see Mamie E?"
"He is a brother-in-law of the Drexels of Philadelphia and of the Astors of New York. Rich as a Jew."
"Good gracious?"

"Miss Kate Carraway!"
"Is that you, Fannie?"
"Yes, have my things come?"
"Bonnet and hat came this morning. Clara says she knows they will be coming. Come down."
"You bet I am coming."

"Ring up B. A. Bell. Is that you Mr. Bell?"
"Yes, Miss."
"Have the fish knife and fruit spoon ordered for wedding presents engraved L. D. G. plain; real silver remember, she is a dear girl."

"Well, who is it?"
"Cotton Exchange. Is that you Marshal?"
"Yes."

"Can you hear the singing?"
"Distinctly, who is it Major?"
"The Cotton Exchange choir led by Tom Britt. 'David, the King, was mon-ed and griev-ed etc.'"

Under the spell of the music the w. t. p. fell asleep, and dreamt he was a giraffe standing up to his eyes in a sea of mint-juleps. He woke to find his throat lined with quick lime without even the price of a short in his pocket.

The charitable still look out for him. A one legged athlete gave a public exhibition to a large crowd at E. H. Meadows' corner yesterday evening.

Jewels in Winter Quarters.

The cool mornings have constrained the Jewels to change their quarters for the season, and the corner has been temporarily abandoned by the main force for the more comfortable position of the new building opposite the Cotton Exchange.

This is an eminently proper place, because the Bulls and Bears will be directly under the eye of the Panel, and all the visiting statesmen can be the more easily interviewed.

Videts will still hold the line at the corner and fully inform the Panel of movements in that neighborhood.

Saturday was the first regular sitting in the new encampment, or rather a trial trip. The heat of the sun was tested and found rather strong for the comfort of the members, but a curvature in the line brought them in the shade of the new structure, and afforded an opportunity to view and admire the symmetrical proportions and architectural perfections of the blacksmith's shop just in front.

A visiting statesman from Beaufort county put in an appearance and was, as usual, pleasant and agreeable in manner. The Major always carries with him an atmosphere laden with genuine mirth, is a real anti-dyspeptic in anecdote, and can make the steadiest of the Jewels give way to gleeful laughter.

The new situation being found satisfactory, and the new chairs comfortably abundant, business was "buckled down to."

The first talk was the Indignation Meeting of the Beech Grove settlers. This matter brought a thoughtful mood over the whole Panel. Taxation without representation had led to serious trouble in the past, but here was a revision of the problem; representation without taxation was about to bring trouble to the peaceful inhabitants of the country. For three winters private property had been appropriated to public use without compensation, in open violation of constitutional law; telegrams paid for by the few were used by the many; a building rented by the few for the comfort and convenience of the multitude was resorted to, and no indignation was displayed in the form of a meeting, or published in the shape of resolutions. But when the trite old saying that "those who dance must pay the fiddler" is applied, these gentlemen get indignant and say they will go off and hire a brass band first. The Jewels cannot approve of indignation meetings under any circumstances. Indignation, if quiet, dignifies the indignant; if noisy it undignifies the indignant; therefore when a Jewel gets indignant he walks off with deliberation and resolutely does nothing. And that is about what indignation meetings do, however much time and labor is employed in getting them up.

The Jewels are of the opinion that modern commerce demands much more of the seller than it formerly did. The grocery man sends his commodities home for the purchaser, or delivers them to the railroad or steamboat free of charge. The traveling salesman now comes to your counter with his samples and prices; will even telegraph for special figures on any line of goods you may want. The fertilizer agent will come to your house and take the trouble to tell you exactly what your land requires to make it bring forth more abundantly, and impart information in chemistry and applied sciences that would cost you years of study to acquire, just to obtain your order for a ton or so of his specific article. The sewing machine agent will visit you in his beautifully painted "carriage," meet your lady with a bland smile that will make her forget all her domestic troubles, bow in real city style to your grown up daughter, introduce himself in genuine Chesterfield style, tell you and your cherished spouse that he represents the great manufacturing establishment of the Singer or some other sewing machine company so glibly that you imagine yourself the honored host of the mammoth establishment, will ask the name of all your children and duly admire the complexion of each, however widely they may differ, will take one (that he has left) of his noiseless-never-before-seen and never heard-of patterns of machines from his wagon with an alacrity that betrays great enthusiasm in his business, place it in the hall and insist that each member of the family come around and just see how it works—for what? Why merely to sell you a machine. The lightning rod man, that "King Bee" of civilization, will bring his battery and shock and convince you of the danger of letting the lightning play unrestrained over the heads of your loved ones—and give you a second shock when he presents his bill—tell all about Franklin, and every death by lightning on two continents, to sell you a rod. The tree agent will come with his book of pictures that will cause you to wonder how you have ever managed to live without some of these fine fruits in your garden. Tell you more about how to plant, cultivate, prune and succeed with trees than you and he and a dozen like him ever knew. All for what? Why, to sell you some of his stock. The cotton raiser is under no such necessity to hawk around his produce, and heartfelt thankfulness that such is the case should load his bosom. Now therefore indignant fellow cotton raisers, cease your indignation. Turn your wrath into joy; your indignation into exultation.

Thanksgiving day is near at hand; be ye also ready. Assemble yourselves in your places of worship; offer to your beneficent Creator devout thanks for the abundant crops with which he has blessed you; and to your fellowmen thanks for the assistance he has rendered you in all your works; and above all offer and present unto your fellow cotton raisers of the Jewel persuasion, a few of your fattest turkeys in order that they may not appear empty before the Lord on that occasion.

The Jewels address you as fellow cotton raisers. Some of the Panel have many years of experience in the matter and can well afford to admonish you. They have been raising cotton umbrellas, lo! these many years.

At 1:15 p. m. the Panel arose and proceeded to dinner and to the investigation of their wardrobes preparatory to duly observing the first day of the week, month and quarter in a christian like manner.

The subject of the comet is now in the hands of the committee on astrology, astronomy, atmospheric vacuums and pre-adamite formations. The report in preparation will be an elaborate one, and likely adopted as a text-book in all the better class lunatic asylums of the country.

La Grange Items.

C. S. Wooten, Esq., attended the Stockholders meeting of the A. & N. C. R. R. last week.

Wright Dawson, an industrious and honest colored man, died on Needham W. Herring's place last Friday.

Cotton for the past week has been weak, the price ranging from 10 1/2 to 10 3/4 cents, closing at 10 1/2 on Saturday.

Squire J. W. Sutton was called upon yesterday (Sunday) to unite Noah Sanderson and Lena Jackson in the holy bond of wedlock.

A few of the citizens of this county were subpoenaed as witnesses to Wayne county Inferior Court last week, in the White Hall—Uzzell-Thompson-Seawell affair.

The Newport fishermen from this place, returned the last of the week, and had fish in abundance. If Carter, or any of them, had "horns" I didn't see 'em.

Mr. D. M. Stanton has sold or traded his mill, so says rumor, to Mr. — at or near Greensboro. It is being taken down and removed to that place. The property was valuable, and was a great convenience to the town-people.

Cesar Moy stole two pigs last week, the property of G. L. Taylor. Cesar drove in town and sold the pigs to C. W. Joyner. Taylor was in town, knew and claimed the pigs. A warrant was issued and Cesar was sent to jail to await the sitting of the Superior Court.

The brick business that was put on foot some time ago near this place, has been abandoned. The machine was worthless, or at least, failed to make brick. The engine has been carried to the South side of Neuse, where, if it is hoped, it will be used in a more profitable business.

The Democrats of this Township have recommended Mr. C. S. Wooten for nomination as Senator from this Senatorial District, and would, if he should receive the nomination, support him gladly. He could and would make a thorough canvass, and has the ability to meet the New Issue—the standard bearer of the Republicans. But unfortunately the Democrats of this place are not members of the "ring," and no doubt the "ring" will wring Mr. Wooten out.

The Hubbs-Robinson-Dudley etc. etc., faction of the Republican party of this Congressional District opened the campaign in this place last Saturday. Mr. Dudley of your city was first to speak. His speech was mainly upon State politics, and especially in regard to the present form of county government. Mr. Dudley might remember, with profit, probably, that when he assails the present system, that some one will be present who is thoroughly acquainted with, and knows the good or bad effects of both systems. Mr. Dudley's speech was dry, received no applause and the nicest thing about it was the end. Mr. Hubbs followed in a speech of considerable length, in which he paid his compliments to O'Hara, Lot Humphrey, Lon Moore and Curtis H. Brogden. "O'Hara is a West India nigger, bigamist, perjurer and bribe-taker; Humphrey is the run-down politician who left the Democrats because they had no place for him; Lon Moore is the horse in the manger in whose rack there is no fodder, and Old Man Curtis has gone to the Democrats." Mr. Hubbs reviewed the action of the Wilson convention and showed conclusively (to his own satisfaction) that he was the nominee, told the colored people how many of their race he had put in office during his term, and concluded by paying his respects to the Democrats. His taunts at that party, might have been given to colored element of his in the Second Congressional district where they have a large majority, for failing to nominate and elect one of their own color. Mr. W. S. O'B. Robinson was the next speaker. He was too unwell to make a speech. In justice to Mr. Robinson it must be said that he is a popular speaker, and rarely fails to please. He has the happy and rare quality of saying much in a few words and his manner is sure to attract attention. He has a large store of anecdotes seasoned to suit the taste and is so gentlemanly in every respect that he is sure to have good attention. A colored gentleman whose name we did not learn, was next to attempt to speak, but it was soon found that he was an O'Hara man. The conduct of the colored element to him was, to say the least, very unbecoming. All should remember that "truth never fears rigid examination."
