

For Malarial Districts
USE
HANCOCK'S CHILL PILLS

OFFICE OF THE WATCH-TOWER,
Washington, N. C., Sept. 31, 1882.
MESSRS. HANCOCK BROS.
GENTLEMEN:—I take pleasure in saying I have used your CHILL PILLS and they have proved invaluable for Chills and Fevers. I regard them indispensable for Malarial Districts, and simply a trial will convince the most captious.
Very respectfully,
Oct 3, 1882. J. L. WINFIELD.

THE JOURNAL.
NEW BERNE, N. C., OCT. 17, 1882.

Was Whisky.
A man passing along the street was met by an old farmer who said:
'My good man, I used to own negroes before the war, but now I am hungry. I want something to eat so bad that I don't know what to do,' and a mild zephyr perfumed by whisky escaped from his lips. 'If I only had ten cents to get some bread I'd be contented. I've got plenty of money at home, but you see I ain't at home.'
'Are you sure that something to eat is what you want?'
'I know it, sir, I know it.'
'Don't make a mistake in this matter. You are certain that something to eat is what you want?'
'I swear it.'
'I was in hopes that it was a drink, for I am just on my way to a saloon, have supplied you.'
'Well, let me think a minute. Whisky? That's a fact. It is whisky that I want. I've got such a bad memory that I can't recollect anything. Yes, it's whisky.'

Texas Note.
A coolness, growing out of the following conversation, has sprung up between Gilhooly and his friend, Gus De Smith:
'I had a splendid time last night,' said Gus. 'I spent the evening at a little social gathering at the Goodman mansion.'
'Are the Goodmans nice people?' queried Gilhooly.
'Well, I should say so. They are very aristocratic. To get in their circle one must have either a great deal of money or a great deal of genius.'
'You don't tell me so! And you say you were there?'
'Yes.'
'You were invited, were you?'
'Of course.'
'And to be invited a man has to have a great deal of money or plenty of genius?'
'Precisely.'
'Well, Gus, I am glad to hear that you have become rich all of a sudden. Lend me five dollars.'
