One good work to be done by the egislature is in revising Battle's evisal, or adopting the new Code repared by Messrs. Dortch, Henerson and Manning. We have examined a copy of the work, a juarto volume much larger than Battle's Revisal, and find much in to commend. In addition to rerising the law and leaving out that portion that had been repealed, we and the arrangement a great imrovement on the old work. In addition to the old division of hapters, the new work is in conecutive sections-3933 of themind under each section the deciions of the Supreme Court are sited whenever there are any? The JOURNAL has thought best to refrain from comment on the movement, on account of the local fight. While we recognize the advantages of a Graded School, and commend the effort made by its advocates in Kinston, yet it does not seem quite fair for one of the schools to forestall Legislative action, by starting the movement and thus getting possession.

But the following extract from the Proceedings of the Legislature forces the issue plainly:
