Nine prisoners are passing the winter in the county jail.

The lumber is being hauled to the yard for the new court house.

Some fine yam potatoes in market yesterday, retailing at seventy cents per bushel.

Our townsman, Mr. Fred. Roberts, who has been sick for several days, is improving.

We noticed quite a display of box cotton planters in front of Geo. Allen & Co's store yesterday.

About one thousand bushels of rice sold yesterday at one dollar per bushel, being only a fair quality.

A merchant in the city received a letter yesterday, requesting that ten bushels of meal be sent by the next mail.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trustees of the New Berne Academy will be held at Prof. Johnson's room, this evening, at half-past three o'clock.

The decision of the Mayor in the John Holley case was rendered yesterday, John was bound over in the sum of one hundred dollars for his appearance at the next term of the Superior Court.

John Lily, the suple man of Vanceboro, was in town on Thursday. He boasts of being as supple as any man but says he is not "scienced." He offers a wager that he can throw down, out run, out jump or out lift any man of the same number of pounds, Avoirdupois, or inches square.

Our Trenton Correspondent, representing the Commissioners of the town, rather goes for our sister town of Kinston for quarantining against them. Our Kinston friends may have acted hastily, but Trenton should remember that "self preservation is the first law of nature." We know the people of Kinston, and we think we can safely say they are as generous and as ready to help a sister town in distress as any other town in North Carolina.

Elizabeth City is greatly disturbed because a bill has been introduced in the Legislature to change the name of the Elizabeth City and Norfolk Railroad to the Norfolk and Southern. The Economist and Falcon proclaim that it is a direct stab at that section. What's in a name? Why not allow the owners to exercise their discretion in the matter? Certainly the continued prosperity of our energetic neighbor is not dependent upon the retention of this name. —Washington Gazette.

Schooner Arrivals.
The following arrived on Thursday: The Gov. Vance, Capt. Sam Spencer, from Hyde county with corn and rice consigned to W. P. Burrus & Co.
The Delina, Capt. Wm. Tolson from Swan Quarter with corn.
The Varina, Capt. Frank Bell, from Smith's Creek with corn and cotton.

River Steamers.
The Elm City arrived from Bayboro yesterday evening with a few bales of cotton and five passengers.
The Neuse from Jolly Old Field with cotton and rice.
The Trent from Jolly Old Field with cotton.
The Florence from Vanceboro with cotton, tar and lumber. She made the trip of twenty-five miles in three hours and a quarter.

Follockville Quarantined.
The citizens of Follockville held a meeting last Monday night and resolved to quarantine the village against Trenton. A guard is placed on each road leading to Trenton at 6 o'clock, a. m. until 6 p. m., at which time the merchants close their stores. Persons from Trenton are not allowed to enter the town if the guard can prevent them, except the mail carrier who remains in his buggy while the postmaster opens and closes the mail.

Your Name in Print.
Mr. R. A. Russell, of Cobton, was in the city on Thursday. He reports the roads in a terrible condition.

Judge Green and Mr. J. L. Rhem returned from Florida yesterday morning. The Judge says it was uncomfortably warm while they were there, the thermometer ranging about 85. Garden peas were in full bloom; Mr. Rhem expects to be shipping peas from there by week after next.

Rev. Israel Harding, of Kinston, is in the city.

Visit to the Graded School.
The Trustees of the Educational Association visited the Graded School yesterday, the Journal local and the editor of the Siftings joining them as they entered the room of the Sixth Grade, taught by Miss Core. The class in German were up for recitation, and as they led off with der liebe, der liebe something of the kind, one of the visitors whispered, "we might as well be in Germany as here." A few minutes only in this room, yet we could see a marked improvement in the order and discipline.

The next room visited is Miss Pettigrew's with the Fourth Grade. The children are diagraming their sentences and they are required to write and analyze them which they do quickly and understandingly. Before leaving this room we had the pleasure of hearing a lesson in geography. It is astonishing with what accuracy a little fellow can point out, on an outline map, without a name on it—the rivers, mountains and islands of South America.

In Mrs. Ferebee's room, the First Grade, a number of the little ones were called up to read. But few in this room knew the alphabet when the school opened three months ago, yet by the aid of the "Word method" they can read short sentences with ease.

The Advanced First, taught by Miss Brookfield, are also making rapid progress, being able to read glibly sentences of ten or a dozen words. A piece of poetry recited in concert by this class was quite entertaining.

The Third Grade, Mrs. Nash's room, is the largest class in the school. She is assisted by Miss Lizzie Oliver, and the order is remarkably good; in fact, the improvement in every room in this respect is very noticeable. In this Grade the principles of grammar are taught as the pupil begins to read and write. He is given a word with which to form a sentence and required to write it down. The singing in this Grade is very nice; the children in the whole school are taught the rudiments of music.

The Second Grade, taught by Miss Chadwick, was the last visited. The progress made by some of the pupils of this Grade in penmanship is remarkable. While in this room the class was called up for calisthenics. This beautiful exercise besides being essential for the preservation of the health of the children, also enables the teacher to distinguish the dull and lazy from the bright and industrious. The former move their hands and arms in a careless, sleepy manner while the latter move theirs with the vigor and spirit of military time.

The Trustees seemed to be pleased with the progress made both in order and discipline and in the branches of study, since their last visit.

Kinston Items.
Arabi Pasha, with his ugly Turk and hugging bears, has "pitched his tent for a few days" in Kinston. Edwin Taylor hopes George Kilpatrick's nose may get acquainted with their claws.

Dr. Wm. G. Hyman, seeing one of Mr. E. Brinson's boys in articulo mortis, by attack of hog cholera, scientifically administered a dose of "Follock's No. 7," when 14, the porker jumped out for a little corn and went ahead, preparing himself for pork, bacon or sausage.

A young piggy needs such fat as "Nancy Fat," weighing 300 lbs., the property of Richard Nobles, Esq., of Trent Township, and by him bred, was brought here last week and sold to J. B. Cummings at 9 cents a pound. Too fat to catch, it was thought to be rendered into lard.

A young attorney of Kinston, who has recently been vaccinated, after reading the "Dangers of Vaccination" in the Journal, decided into a fit of melancholy and wrote his will of thundering length and sound. Were it not for fear of breaking of a matrimonial engagement, his name would be given.

The excitement in Lenoir and Greene counties, on the proposed stock law fence, is running very high. Like the prohibition question, it divides the two great parties in town, and the two great holders of the "W-F-a-n-g-i-r," or my other fellow, with looks of steel. It said the people are about equally divided on the question.

The Lenoir delegation—ex-Mayor Canady, W. H. Worth and Jas. M. Mowbray—have returned from Raleigh, whether they have been in the interest of the Lenoir and Greene county stock law fence. The delegation think they have settled the matter with the Legislature unless Senator Lotfin kicks all the fat in the fire, which they have provided against by securing Senator Dorch to hold the frying pan.

A large crowd attended the administrator's sale, on the 23d instant, of the effects of Neatham J. Moore. It issued over 600 people, representing five counties, were present. The property was all sold for cash, and "the goose hung around" in the form of hams, mules and horses brought "lion bond prices." Fifty bales of cotton went off at 9 cents a pound; corn $3 a barrel, fodder $1.10 per hundred, and fresh pork 8 cents a pound. An itinerant Pitt county merchant farmer, who buys cows by the gallons of milk they give, became the owner of a mule twenty-six years old for $20. And better than all, Edwin Taylor's oysters and Steve Moore's barbecue, to the great happiness of these unappreciated caterers to man's appetites, met with quick sales and large profits.

Jones County Items.

In as much as the municipal authorities of Kinston have quarantined against the town of Trenton and against all people having any personal communication with the latter place and have so notified the authorities of Trenton in a set of resolutions containing a number of whereas's, etc., or in a set of where-ases, etc., followed by a resolution after each whereas, wherein they have whereased the people of Trenton and the adjacent country, away from Kinston, "forbidding their going from the former to the latter place within twenty days after leaving the former" and also "subject them to a fine of fifty dollars for each visit."

Be it known, then, that it is hereby declared by the citizens of Trenton in solemn concourse assembled that such action on the part of the authorities of Kinston was wholly unnecessary; and the arduous labor of getting up those superlative resolutions was altogether supererogatory and that they, the people of Trenton and country adjacent, seldom or ever trade in Kinston, or that they are willing to stay away from there not only twenty days, but twenty years, if need be, rather than pay fifty dollars for the precious privilege of visiting the delectable little town.

Oh! ye brave and magnanimous ones, who have stood by us so faithfully in this hour of adversity when the hand of affliction has been laid so heavily upon us by this scourge (small-pox) which smites so remorselessly its victims. How can we ever forget your gratuitous kindness? Ye offered us a stone when we had not even asked for bread. Such magnanimity is truly refreshing at a time when selfishness rules the hour and is superlatively grand as beautiful.

Since Kinston has quarantined against us we are daily expecting every other little town, that can, to do likewise. The force of example is so great in time of disaster, that it seems to be contagious and as demoralizing as contagious—almost as well have the small-pox as to be secured to death.

Whence arises, then, this great fear, Mr. Mayor of Kinston, on your part that your town will be visited by small-pox and that there is danger that the disease will be conveyed there via Trenton? Where is the cause for your "well founded apprehensions" that there is danger to be feared from Trenton more than elsewhere where small-pox is raging? Is it "raging" only in Trenton? You have "well founded apprehensions" that the atmosphere is laden with contagion and that danger lurks in every breeze? If so, then quiet your fears and rest assured that your "apprehensions" are not only not well founded but have no foundation at all. How an apprehension can be well founded that has no foundation in fact we are at a loss to determine.

Now we recommend for your consideration a few well founded facts, viz: That strict quarantine measures have been enforced at this place; that all necessary precautions have been taken to prevent the spread of the disease and none of the persons afflicted therewith have been allowed to come in contact with others since the development of the disease has been ascertained. The town authorities took the matter firmly in hand and pursued the course usually taken in such cases—had the advice of good medical authorities etc., and for their prudent action have been generally commended.

These are well founded facts against "well founded apprehensions." We now, therefore, leave the question for the public to decide as to which they will believe.

Why is it that the town of New Berne has not quarantined against Trenton? Because they based their judgment upon well founded facts and the consequence is that "reason" has ruled them in this action and they have not been influenced by fear or groundless apprehensions of any kind. When reason rules, fear stands back abashed, and the voice of humanity is heard by cheer and comfort in the hour of affliction.

We have received both words of sympathy and letters of condolence from friends in New Berne, and we warmly trust and believe from our own hearts that we duly appreciate the same.

Such kindness, if not rare, is times like these, is not always fully shown; and when bestowed in sincerity is always accepted with gratitude.

Dear old New Berne, we can never forget thee, and long after other scenes and other faces have faded from remembrance, and the present has been pushed far back into the past by the relentless march of time, the recollection of this hour and these days will come floating along back to us down through the dim vista of years, freighted with the richest and tenderest memories.

The Lost Cause—One of the Sufferers. (Wilmington Star.)
There is a great sufferer in this city at the present time in the person of Mr. Benjamin Clark, who was wounded in the battle of Cedar Run, Virginia, in 1862, and has since been languishing under the severe affliction. He has recently been confined to his room, and yesterday we were informed that his condition was considered much worse. Mr. Clark was a private in Company I, 18th N. C. Troops, was a gallant soldier and was greatly esteemed by his comrades. Quite a number of these reside in Wilmington, and we learn that they propose some organized effort for his benefit.

Washington Notes.
A bill was introduced in the House yesterday to place Major Gen. Rufus Ingalls on the retired list.

The District Attorney for Utah says that unless the first wives of polygamists be compelled to testify to their marriage the conviction of offenders will be impossible.

Commander Reed of the United States Ship Alliance reports that a number of Americans are investing capital in the development of iron and copper mines near Santiago, Cuba.

The retirement from the army of Gen. Sherman in a few months will advance Gen. Sheridan to the rank of General of the Army, and probably Gen. Hancock to the rank of Lieutenant General.
