Bunning the County Line,

Mr. H. A. The trip was extended to a point nearly opposite Riverdale, and the run made in forty minutes. Here a rest was taken to view the steamer Elm City and cutter Stevens, which were both steaming up the river at full speed, the Elm City being some distance in the lead. The Kinston changed direction and quietly awaited the approach of the foremost boat, and the jingle was sounded as she was about abreast, when the run became exciting and enjoyable. The Kinston soon took an after position to the Maj. B. W. Cobb of the Messenger Elm City, but maintained her distance called to see us last night looking as fat in advance of the cutter up to the city; and good judges say the Elm City only beat the Kinston one-third of a mile in the run of about eight, which, when the navigation for which they were each designed is considered, is not a bad beat. New Berne, N. C., May 14, 1888.

Editor of the Journal of Commerce:

Please give your dictum as to what constitutes a qualified voter. At an election held in this city May 7, 1883, a majority of votes was cast to raise money, by additional taxation, for the support of a graded school. As there were many that registered, but did not vote on this question, the number who voted "for school" did not constitute a vote on this question, the humber who voted "for school" did not constitute a majority of the persons registered: It is the opinion of many that a qualified voter is one that has registered, and therefore the levying of the tax is illegal. The following is part of the bill: "In case a majority of the qualified voters at such election shall vote 'for school,' an assessment shall be levied and collected by the city authorities."

R. O. E. L.

Reply.—The law is question simply provides that a majority of those duly qualified who vote at such election may authorize an assessment by voting "for schools." If part of the majority who voted were not duly qualified the vote may be useful but not otherwise. The statute does not require a majority of all who are entitled to vote at the election, but a majority of those duly qualified who do actually vote. The vote "for school" must be a majority of the votes cast by qualified voters at the election.
