Unnaual Proceedings.

The proceedings in court yesterday were unusual in that it was the trial for contempt of a juror who had been summoned upon a special venire to try a capital case, admitted to a seat in the box after the usual examination as to his competency and duly sworn, to try the case according to the law and the evidence; and was afterwards charged with such irregularities as to cause the Judge presiding, to withdraw a juror and order a mis-trial in the cause, and also issue a rule upon the juror to show cause why he should not be attached for contempt.
